NICHOLAS COUNTY BOY TRAVELS TOWARD COAST

Camp Upton, N. Y. June 27, 1918.
Dear Mercury:

Well, we have landed at last, and I surely had one big trip getting here, we came up to Chattanooga, Tenn., and south from there to Atlanta, Georgia, Macon, Georgia, Jacksonville, Florida, North Carolina, Virginia, Washington, D. C., Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and landed on Long Island, New York. It was a long trip and we had to change cars nineteen and fared well on the trip, also no sixty as train guard when we passed through Washington we ate midnight last night and came on to Camp Upton and got here at eight. The Potomac river was all lighted up and it certainly was one of the prettiest sights I ever saw. The Capitol building was very pretty also. I was within two miles of it, and the White House, also. We stopped there and had thirty minutes to fill our tanks with water and change engines. The Capitol and Washington Monument and the White House are something that I will never forget. The Red Cross girls and women had something good for us at every big town where we stopped in daylight. New York is a pretty big place, but I don't like it. We have spent all of our time from the time we strike New Jersey until you get to Long Island. We got on a boat at the place we landed (don't know the name of it) and it took us about an hour of its speed and it took us across to Long Island, where we again boarded of the train for Camp Liberty and could see the Statue of Liberty and the Brooklyn Bridge and building both from the boat. They almost every kind of boat there in the harbor, even to an ocean liner. They were all decorated and flagged. They have three big docks like the water is every enemy ships from seeing them. It certainly was the funniest steam boat I ever saw.

Oh, I was a million happy, but I can't tell you about all of them. I enjoyed every bit of the ground we passed over in our wild dash for the coast. We passed through some fine looked most like Kentucky, just low and lots of cotton fields and cotton mills in the southern States. The country we are only six miles from the ocean. I will be glad to get to it for a few weeks to rest after the trip we have had. I will be apt to see it in a few weeks. Maybe better say we have a chance for a one-day pass and others say we won't get a pass for a week.

I had been to Ft. Thomas, Ft. Oglethorpe, Camp Greenleaf and Camp Jackson and Camp Upton and Camp Liberty. I often wondered what they did with the armored stuffed into the U. boats now. They are all here. Yes, I have seen the Kaiser's son, but not all of the armored soldiers.

I will try to write some more soon but I must get back to my bunk and get some sleep. Owing to the guard house I am writing in the mess house now. Washington I didn't get much sleep, it is cool and no bed.

Very truly yours,
Frank Scott,
Co. C., 52nd Inf., Camp Upton, Long Island, N. Y.

41 MEN CLASS OF 1918 PLACED IN CLASS 1

All of the Questionnaires sent out to registrants of June 5, 1918, have been returned to the local board and the work of classifying the cases, which was begun on the first day of July, will be soon placed on Class 1, 2 and 3 in Class 1A. Those placed in Class 1 will receive notices some time in the latter part of July to appear for examination. The Questionnaires of those who appeal will be sent to the District Board of Lexington and after the classifications are made by the District Board the men will be notified to be notified to appear for physical examination upon the return of their Questionnaires from Lexington.

Forty-one men registered on June 5th, Frankfort, it appears, has exhausted her supply of registrants for any more while men during July, August and September will register which will enhance the local board's contingent of registrants in Class 1. There are probably some about the last of the month.

BOYD SHROUT FOUND DEAD IN BED

Boyd Shrout, aged 17 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Shrout, of Camp Nelson, was found dead in bed at an early hour Monday morning. Death was probably due to heart trouble and the little fellow had been in ill health for several days. Funeral services were held at the home Tuesday afternoon and burial took place in the Carlisle cemetery.

Young Shrout had been ill for several days, but was not considered dangerously so and his death at night came as a surprise to his death he father had resigned as he bookeeper at Camp Nelson and had moved to the field three days before and had taken them to go to bed. In the night he called his father and on his return to Donald Craven, went to see how the little fellow was getting along and found him to go on to bed, but little he passed out after that hour.

FATAL "DEAD MANS CURVE" CLAIMS MORE VICTIMS

(Hazelton News)

"Dead Man's Curve," three and one half miles south of Hazelton on the Maysville pike, claimed more victims Sunday afternoon when a Ford car driven by Mrs. Lucy Carter of near Sardis, going toward Paris, left the road at the curve and turned over several times, pinning the occupants beneath it. Mrs. Carter received a fractured leg and other injuries, and Miss Ruth Carter, aged 18, was killed outright.

Mrs. Carter motored to Hazelton Sunday morning to the home of Mrs. Carter's mother, Mrs. Ben Brough, and invited her daughter, Miss Ruth, and Miss Mary Lee Brough, to accompany her on a motor trip to Paris. Mrs. Brough consented for her daughter to go, and the party started. Mrs. Carter was driving the car, and as he approached it met another car, and in order to avoid a collision, turned out and after a considerable distance, lost control of the car, which left the road and turned over several times. Mrs. Carter received a fractured leg and other injuries, and Miss Ruth was killed outright. Miss Brough escaped with a few bruises.

Mrs. Carter was taken to the Hazelton Hospital, in Lexington. Mrs. Brough and Miss Mary Lee were brought to Hazelton.

Miss Ruth Carter was a member of the Hazelton Christian church, and was highly esteemed by a large circle of friends. She was a graduate of the Hazelton High school, and had been employed as a stenographer in the office of the Hazelton Milling Co. for several months. She
