CARD OF THANKS

Monday next is the month's total and fatal day of Michael Bryan Laughlin. The members of his family wish to express their appreciation to every one for the kind service thanks to all who have shown appreciation of all that was said and done. Where transgressions seem in spite of by way of forgiveness. Where the good lessons to their sons. Where the great lesson given us to live all up; it is not should be brought about for the this world to endure as reincarnation, death is not so much. His words are but an echo of what has been learned in youth—with its home of the German people, the lessons of cheerful resignation in the face of the sometimes mysterious but always peace of justice.

Perhaps never before were the participants in the joint funeral services of September 1 so deeply conscious of the common ties that bind us all in our pilgrimage here to Bryan Laughlin, like two brothers, joined hands in a common faith and hope, and like brothers they were laid to rest side by side. If it would add aught to their heavenly happiness we can endeared with an abiding trust God gave them a glimpse of the beautiful scene enacted in their every-day home town, burying grounds. There, to console the living and to loose and pray for the dead, as well as to engage and develope aggressive- ness of the ideals of our Commonwealth, was typified from a galaxy represented in the assembling every shade of belief found in Nicholas county, the sincere relig- ious convictions of the children of one Father of us all, children whose goal their journeys differ through to their Creator. The bodies of the two brothers were borne to their last resting place by the following pall bearers: Messrs. Ben Bramblett, Jr., W. H. Hughes, Jr., Wm. Tucker, Jr., Will Cook, Jr., Jas. Bramblett, Jr., and Will Bramblett, Jr.

Particular thanks are extended to the Reverend clergy, Mr. Moore, Mathews and H. Irving, to Mr. F. A. Cox and Prof. Dan Bagnieu, to Mr. Will Conley and to the many others to whom thanks are due.
