300 ACRES

This farm is owned by Mr. Herman W. and known as the Allen Farm. We will subdivide this farm and sell in FOUR TRACTS, as follows:

Tract No. 1, contains 100 acres of fine level land, 15 acres in cultivation, balance in a large grass meadow. It has a windmill reservoir of 100,000, stone heated and electric lights, large stock barn (50x100), stone house and all other necessary outbuildings.

Tract No. 2, contains about 18 acres all in fine grass meadow, has a fine room cottage, small barn, land has extra well, plenty of water.

Tract No. 3, contains 100 acres of fine level grass meadow, large stock barn, granary, etc., and abundance of water. With this tract will be sold a dwelling of five rooms and blacksmith shop and one half acre of level land about 400 feet from main body of this tract and an acre of water.

Tract No. 4, contains about 80 acres of fine level grass meadow, tobacco barn, tobacco house, etc.

The farm has been occupied and used by Mr. Allen as a stock farm for over 20 years. Very little tobacco has ever been raised on it. Large numbers of cattle and hogs have been raised since the farm was first settled. Large numbers of cattle and hogs have been raised since the farm was first settled.

For further particulars apply to the undersigned at the time of sale.

On March 16, 1918, Governor Stanley made a speech in Cincinnati, Ohio. The Cincinnati Enquirer, a Democratic newspaper, in its issue of March 17, 1918, reports his speech as follows:

He also said to the Prohibitionists by declaring their little use of our boys lying down their lives for liberty in France "of a lot of fanatics and cranks" are allowed to deprive Americans of liberty at home. "These fanatics are worse tyrants than the Kaiser, the bigger fools," was his parting shot.

This was quoted in an editorial in the Lexington Herald, also a Democratic newspaper, in its issue of date March 19, 1918, and that paper made this comment:

Would it not be better for the Governor of Kentucky, in whom is invested the supreme executive power of the State, to exert himself to provide a force to preserve peace in Kentucky, than to "over there" across the Ohio—declaiming about "pellets of lead from flaming rifles" and denouncing Prohibitionists as "worse tyrants than the Kaiser and bigger fools"?
