

The Thirteenth Commandment

By RUPERT HUGHES

THANKS TO DUANE, DAPHNE GETS THE CHANCE TO BECOME AN ACTRESS—IF SHE CAN MAKE GOOD.

After a long, hard, and almost unbroken fast, Daphne Duane, a young girl from a little town in the State of New York, was finally able to get on her feet again. It was a miracle, for she had been so weak and ill that she could not even walk. But now she was up and about, and she was ready to go to New York to try to become an actress. Her mother was very proud of her and she was very proud of herself. She had been so sick and so weak, but now she was up and about, and she was ready to go to New York to try to become an actress. Her mother was very proud of her and she was very proud of herself.

CHAPTER IX

Daphne had been so ill that she could not even walk. But now she was up and about, and she was ready to go to New York to try to become an actress. Her mother was very proud of her and she was very proud of herself. She had been so sick and so weak, but now she was up and about, and she was ready to go to New York to try to become an actress. Her mother was very proud of her and she was very proud of herself.
