A PROCLAMATION

For more than three years American philanthropy has been a large factor in keeping alive the Armenian, Greek and other exiles and refugees of Western Asia.

Now, in a former sentence I have appealed to the American people in behalf of these stricken people, and the substitution of take care measures had brought to the extremest need.

The response has been most generous, but now the period of rehabilitation is at hand. Vastly larger sums will be required to permit these once prosperous, but now destitute, refugees to their former homes that were required merely to sustain, but not to restore life.

It is estimated that about 4,000,000 Armenians, Syrians and Greeks are in dire distress in the Near East and require outside help to sustain them against the winter. Many of them are now hundreds of miles from their homes. Large numbers of them are helpless women and children, unclothing 400,000 orphans.

The American Committee for Relief in the Near East is appealing for a minimum fund of $30,000,000 to be subscribed January 12-19, 1919, with which to meet the most urgent needs of these people.

I, therefore, again call upon the people of the United States to make even more generous contributions than they have in the past, that these people through the winter months those who, through no fault of their own, have been left in a starving, shelterless condition, and to help reestablish these once happy, oppressed people upon their former homes on a self-supporting basis.
