Mrs. Wilms, Freed of Troubles Endured Since Childhood, Lauds Trutona

Louisville, Ky., September 2.—"If every preparation advertised as a remedy for female ills could speak and endorse as Trutona, I feel confident there would either be fewer complaints or a lesser number of sick people," Mrs. W. Wilms, a well known resident of this city, living at 1008 Lee street, said recently.

"I have suffered from stomach trouble since childhood," she continued. "Since last July I've been able to eat but little and that little caused me no end of misery. The effects a glimpse at long in a chair. Contracted muscles caused me terrible pain. I had no appetite and at times couldn't eat for days at a time. I felt that life was serious and so weak that I could hardly get around. My nerves were suffering terribly and I was on the verge of insanity.

"I had been under my fourth bottle of this wonderful preparation, Trutona, and I no longer experience the terrible pains and can enjoy a good night's rest once again. My nervousness is entirely removed and for the first time in a year I'm able to eat a hearty meal and enjoy it. I'm appetite was exceptional without the least bit of trouble as I had formerly had. Trutona has done for me I cannot recommend it too highly."

Trutona is now being introduced and explained in Carlisle at Turner & Peale.

WARNS STRIKERS

In statement issued to railroad strikers in several Western states last night, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared that all who did not return to work by July 15 would voluntarily forfeiting would find their places filled and if they attempted to return later would be refused by the railroad properties they would be prosecuted for violation of the anti-trust statutes.

His action was considered the most drastic ever taken by a government agency in dealing with a labor dispute. It was regarded as a severe blow by the leaders of the unauthorized walkouts that without question, the legal machinery would assist the railroad managers in operating the roads affected.

COMMENT

The Democrats adopted a splendid platform at Louisville last week. The full text appears elsewhere in this issue.

They put my goat, those codgers do—Long-headed business jays—They go about where they'll sell you; They go—because it "pays."

The anti-tobacco campaign, now in full swing will eventually hit "pay" in his own pocket. Everything that has a plug—and then watch the fur fly.

Nothing can be made, says some wiseacre, out of the Irish. Well, it's cents each Fourth of July. But what woman would wear one?

At least one of our neighbors has a "Velvet Joe" smile on his face these shine" in the Democratic platform. Unanimous. Doubtless true. What we really need better days and seven night's rest once again. My nervousness is entirely removed and for the first time in a year I'm able to eat a hearty meal and enjoy it. I'm appetite was exceptional without the least bit of trouble as I had formerly had. Trutona has done for me I cannot recommend it too highly."

ANTI-TOBACCO FIGHT IN FULL SWING

Seattle, Wash —The campaign for complete abolishment of the use of tobacco in the United States, which has cost the lives of millions of dollars, contributed by business men, the manufacturing cigars and other tobacco products, for Americanization purposes, is in full swing here for paying the war debt.

It is pretty well understood by people who read the newspapers, that "Silent Cottage," the home of the Democratic Vice-Presidential candidate, Governor Thomas R. Marshall, is the official headquarters where anti-tobacco literature is being distributed. The little pamphlet entitled "Tobacco Spells," written by Frederick W. Stevens, of Syracuse (N. Y.) Young Men's Christian Association, is one of those that are being mailed out here.

The history of that booklet shows that it was printed some months ago, and that it was sent to Governor Marshall, with the request that he aid in sending literature to the soldiers in France and for that purpose it was deemed advisable not to open a fight on the cigarette habit, but to wage war for world democracy.

With the ending of the war, it was decided that cigarettes were a necessity to the soldiers, and once declared that cigarettes were not harmful, but that their lives were ruined, and made useless by the use of tobacco in any form, and especially while they were in France. Of late, it is said, they generally admit that they are able to do better work by reason of the fact that they have given up the habit, but plead the use of smokes, but these stories do not go with them.

When I was a boy I worked in the cotton fields of Georgia, and I have seen as high as fifteen hundred laborers and many hogsheads of money was paid out to them every week for cotton picking. But I did not fall a victim to the cigarette habit, and I have seen many of my mates, and certainly know of hundreds of others, who produce tobacco, nor the manufacturers, nor the distributors, nor users of the farmers' product.

Figures show that the population in Washington, the national capital, and the home of the tobacco lobby, is the greatest consumers of cigarettes and keep the tobacco interests well supplied with money. Then, again, I have been looking up the question of raising the $25,000 farmers in Ohio, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, Indiana, Wisconsin and Connecticut, and the $100,000 farmers in Maryland, Indiana, Wisconsin and Connecticut, and the tobacco farmers. They have great investment." in the tobacco industry, and are entitled to a living profit. Cigarettes and cigars are generally recognized as antagonistic to the tobacco industry, and to the country's consumption.

Now, Senator Andrews gives employment to more than 100,000 men, women, boys and girls, in the cigar and cigarette industry, and furnishes them to the homes of consumers, and pays out more than $100,000,000 for cigars, cigarettes and smoking tobacco, and the tobacco farmers are contributing generously, handling same in the United States.

It is estimated that the tobacco habit will produce a revenue for Internal Revenue purposes of $500,000,000 this year, besides state and local taxes. That money will come from the users. The outcry sent out at a time when 4,000,000 troops are seeking employment, and when the cry is for production, and when the people of practically every state have declared that the right to use tobacco is a personal liberty, and when eighteen states have defeated prohibition, and when the individual liberty should be sacrificed at this time, just to satisfy the whims of a few fanatics, who have no regard for the farmer.

It has been, and it is now, a serious question as to how to find employment for returning soldiers, soldiers and starving Belgians, and the fruits of world's peace. Why should the tobacco industry be ruined? Prohibition and anti-cigarette laws are the right of a free people, and for that reason why should the tobacco industry be sacrificed at this time, just to satisfy the whims of a few fanatics, who have no regard for the farmer.

A fair, which proved very enjoyable and quite remunerative to the promoters, was staged here last week. The fair was not a financial success, but left with the management, not, for her week's work. The last week, for whose benefit the fair was given, cleared about the same amount. The management of the fair, and the Harmony club promoters, all in small type and hard to read, at that price, we charged $150 and were informed when settlement was made, like this was the only "hold up" the professional had encountered during the week. Considering that the assertion that an overdraw was made will be recognized as absurd by any fair-minded person, we wish to take this opportunity to do a little "roasting" on our own account. Our paper is in stock in trade and not principal stock. The subscription price is small so low that the margin of profit is negligible. So, as we have no desire to profit by the misfortunes, must have money to pay for labor and materials, that money must come from the sale of subscriptions. Consequently we have no desire to "roast" any one, although we do expect folk, each, us to exercise people of the "fair" and "square" deal, the stuff that we are handing out to print, "in further worthy causes" and to give publicity to worthy causes and ideas, we could fill every column of this paper with "boosting" stuff, as above, for instance, but the pressure of this entertainment reached by mail, with a circular, the people the Mercury reached with that fifteen inch boosting column, for the fair committee, would have been twenty dollars. If we held 'em up, we charge a nightly small haul.

There is enough money in America to take care of every need if it is not allowed to be idle. The fact that every dollar invested releases one dollar and fifty cents in wages is a very good reason why we should spend—for things needed. But what woman would wear one?

JOHN D. WYATT DIES AT THE KY. STATE HOSPITAL

Judge John D. Wyatt, former citizen of Carlisle, and first editor of the Carlisle Democrat, when started in 1905, died at Eastern Kentucky State Hospital last Thursday night, after following in from the Maysville Bulletin:

Judge John D. Wyatt, aged about fifty-five years, who was confined in State Hospital at Lexington several months ago, owing to his mental condition, which followed a nervous breakdown, died at the hospital Thursday night. The following Friday his body was sent to Elizabethtown, his former home, where funeral services took place Saturday morning.

Judge Wyatt was born and reared in Elizabethtown and was a young Falmouth and Covington. He was a newspaper man for many years, having been editor of the Carlisle Democrat, Carlisle, and afterwards conducted a weekly paper in Falmouth. He was also a member of the Kentucky Legislature from Nicholas county.

MUST TEACH SIX FULL HOURS IF SCHOOLS GET STATE FUND

Public schools of this state, drawing funds from the State School Fund, must maintain a minimum of six hours of actual teaching each day.

This decision was given by the Superintendent Board of Education in a statement issued here today.

In the opinion, Mr. Morris quotes from the Kentucky Statutes, which reads as follows:

"Six hours of actual work in the school room shall constitute a school session and under no circumstances shall any session be less than five hours and intermissions exceed one hour's length of time during any session."

The plain meaning of the statute, Mr. Morris says, is to require a minimum of six hours of actual teaching each day. Schools in which the pupils who receive any part of the money raised by taxation for school purposes.

The Frankfort Board of Education decided to ask the opinion of Attorney General.

The opinion of Attorney General, Mr. Morris is of state-wide interest, as it affects all of the public schools of Kentucky.

The rural school, or "scholastic year" of a school and one which is taught the daily session, including recesses is six hours, and twenty-five minutes. The Carlisle High School opens at 8:30 and closes at 3:40 p.m. with a recess of thirty minutes for noon, and fifteen minutes for the afternoon period, which leaves five hours and thirty-five minutes for actual work.

CALF SWALLOWS WATCH

Snakes are not climbing trees and alligators have not yet been found in this dyphone section, says the Atlanta Constitution, but here's another of those warm weather inflamers on the "unbelievable" order. Read and swallow:

Seven years ago a farmer living west of this city hung his vest on a fence in the barnyard. A calf chewed the pocket of the garment in which was a standard gold watch. Soon the calf began to show signs of illness and was butchered for beef, and the time piece was found in such a position between the ribs of the calf as to prevent any word indicating definitely the cause of death.

Recently Edward Sapp, formerly of a day when the reformers will take the calf to the vet to see if he can't do regular course without distraction.

This is a time for serious thinking and prompt action. The nerve tension that unusual conditions have put on us are working overtime for the worst. Let's get our minds off the list of "don'ts" and make a brief list of "dos." Resort to trickery, treachery, double dealing and other means to reach the ends sought, as has been noted in the case of the profiteers, is unnecessary for the times to be up and doing, to combat the forces of evil and to save ourselves. The only hope of salvation. It is not enough to feel that we are right. Righteousness and governmental greed is dictating the policies of the day. We must be up and doing. We must be on the job and make to come into the light of day, to make to review before the people's court of public opinion. It is the time for the people to speak out in no uncertain terms, and a banker when I suggested that the people of the land, from the field—By Joel Shemberger, National Organizer Union of Liberty, in Western Tobacco Journal.

RETURNS TO WASHINGTON

Lieut. Brent Dillon, formerly of this place, spent a few days last week in Washington, D. C., on a visit to Washington Friday. He will be back in the service at Camp Taylor.

For more than a year he was connected with the Quartermaster Corps, and toward the close of the war was stationed in France, where he had an interesting time with the Kentucky Farm Products Company. He will remain in the service as he receives his discharge from the army.

Hugh Ferguson, a negro who was put to death at Mendenhall, Va., recently, went to his death to the tune of a phonograph. It was at Ferguson's own request that the execution take place to the tune of a selection played soon. "Dear My God to Thee," "Lead, I am Coming Thee," and "On the Mountain Tops of Devon." The last was played as the black man mounted the gallows.
