The Smaller Cars—and the World's Most Popular Tires

No tires bearing the Goodyear name, not even the famous Goodyear Cords which equip the world's highest-priced cars, embody a higher relative value than do Goodyear Tires in the 30x3½, 30x3½+, and 31x4-inch sizes.

In these tires owners of Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell, and other cars taking these sizes, are afforded a measure of performance and service such as only the world's largest tire factory devoted to these sizes can supply.

All that this company's experience and methods have accomplished in these tires is available to you now at the nearest Goodyear Service Station.

Go to this Service Station Dealer for these tires and for Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes. He has them.

30x3½ Goodyear Double-Cure Fabric, All-Weather Tread..... $20.00

30x3½ Goodyear Single-Cure Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread..... $17.65

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are thick, strong tubes that reinforce casings properly. Why risk a good car on such a cheap tube? Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost little more than a set of less merit. 30x3½ size on motor-proof list..... $3.30

When you come to Lexington visit our place of business. Our motto was gone, and replying to her kind invitation to call, I responded that I would visit her at the earliest opportunity. Accordingly, I called at the home of Mr. Carter, planned my visit. In my selection of a time, I was governed by the fact that I knew that the daughter, Miss Carter, would be absent from home on that day, and I thought that I could spend a more pleasant time with Mrs. Carter if her daughter was not present. Mrs. Carter received me very graciously, and I spent a very pleasant afternoon. I found Mrs. Carter a very interesting conversationalist, and I enjoyed her company very much. I left her home with the impression that she was a very charming lady, and I have since had occasion to change my opinion in no way.

FINE FEATHERS
By ANNETTE GREEN.

Lakeside, the beautiful summer home of Mrs. Carter, gleamed like an enchanted palace in the moonlight, while from the brightly lighted ballroom came the strains of music, mingled with the sound of dancing and youthful laughter. Everybody seemed happy, except one. From the shadows of the upper balcony overlooking the ballroom a young man watched the gay scene below with a frown. And so he could easily do, for from the edge of a certain fairy-like figure among the dancers, a cloud of almost bitter pain swept over his fine features.

"Why, Phyl, my dear boy!" exclaimed the hostess, spying the watching figure in the shadow at the stroke by with another matron. "Aren't you dancing?" He answered haltingly that he had a headache; didn't feel up to it, and that he would join presently. Couple stayed out on the lake in the sun too long, perhaps," replied Mrs. Carter. "What a pity!" And this is Phoebe's last night here, too."

Phoebe's last night! Phil knew that, only too well! And again watching her out among the dancing throng, he followed the lovely girlish figure in silvery chiffon with longing eyes. Mustering an excuse to Mrs. Carter about getting some fresh air, he turned away and left the balcony, followed by his hostess' voice bidding him come back later.

Avoiding the gay groups on the verandas Phil made his way through the shrubbery, and dropping down on a bench by the shining lake, gave himself up to his bitter thoughts. With the strains from the ballroom growing faintly in his ears, he closed his eyes and to shut out the bright moonlight and went over to his mind bit by bit his acquaintance with Phoebe Carter. Mrs. Carter's niece, from the day in June when she first came to them all, up to tonight, when she had come to bring everything to an end. He had thought her quite the most girl he'd ever met the first time, when, arriving at noon she found the rest of the house party gone for a tramp and a picnic, and he, her aunt's newest neighbor, had taken her out in his canoe on the lake for the afternoon. She taught her how to paddle the canoe and the memory of her in her dainty white duck frock dress with her golden hair blowing about her bending face, came back to him tonight so clearly that he groaned and buried his face in his hands. For he had never seen her in any simple gingham gown again.

Chic morning dresses and sport suits, correct afternoon costumes, they embroidered things for afternoon and beautiful evening and fashioned each other in varying succession, until Phil gave up all hope of ever daring to ask her to share his love and fortunes. Even to his uninitiated masculine mind Phoebe's clothes spelled wealth, and he had not found that his month's salary would not have paid for the silvery gray-fur, floor-length evening (and he was quite right), even if it was necessary to dream of asking such a girl to marry a young architect just starting out in business. That was all he could do—dream. Only a sigh he put from the book and started back to the house. He would have one more glimpse of Phoebe's beloved face before she went away, and then he would close the door on the sight of her, so dear, yet for him so unattainable, forever. He only met once more.

Phil turned away from the window and, seeing a light in the room at his left, sought if his head still ached. Strange, when he had thought he was gone, and replying to her kind invitation to call, I responded that I would visit her at the earliest opportunity. Accordingly, I called at the home of Mr. Carter, planned my visit. In my selection of a time, I was governed by the fact that I knew that the daughter, Miss Carter, would be absent from home on that day, and I thought that I could spend a more pleasant time with Mrs. Carter if her daughter was not present. Give Me a Friendly, Natural Hand-shake an' a friendly natural tobacco. Keep yo' put-on airs an' "sauced-up" tobaccos for the folks that likes nut sundaes better than home made pie—

So says a friend of ours named Velvet Joe. And he just about hits the nail on the head.

Velvet is made for men who think there's no smoke like real tobacco. If you are that sort of man, listen:

Velvet was born in old Kentucky, where more than one good thing comes from. It was raised as carefully as any other Kentucky thoroughbred. But the real secret of Velvet's friendly qualities is its slow natural ageing in wooden hogsheads. Ageing in the wood never hurt anything—and least of all, tobacco.

And so we say, Velvet is good tobacco—nothing more or less. It runs second to none.

The picture of the pipe on the tin needn't keep you from rolling a jim-dandy cigarette with Velvet.

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Not 16 cents or 17 cents—

But 15 cents.

In jumping from a wagon one day last week, Mr. H. E. Ewing met with a painful accident which caused him to be confined to his room for several days. The fingers of his hand were so torn loose, causing him much pain. He is able to get out by the aid of crutches.

Mr. and Mrs. Q. T. Gatewood, formerly of this city, who have been in Frankfort since leaving Carlisle, have purchased a confectionery in that city and have taken possession. They conducted a confectionery in this city several years and were very successful, being forced to sell out here on account of Mr. Gatewood's health.

The Bryson Farm Agency sold for Henry Reed a one-half interest in 27 acres of land (a portion of the W. H. Young farm) to W. W. Scott for $225 per acre. Mr. Scott also bought of George Fishback a 13 acre tract adjoining above land for $200 per acre. In the transaction Messrs Reed and Scott become partners in the deal.

A mad dog ran wild in the Moorefield vicinity Sunday afternoon, making two trips to East Union, and it is said bit every dog in the community. The authorities advise that all dogs where it is known they have been bitten, be killed at once. There is a penalty for persons to allow dogs bitten by a mad dog. No person was bitten by the dog, which was finally killed.

The influenza epidemic in this county is growing. About 90 cases have been reported to the Health office by O. S. Nash, and there are many cases in the county that have not been reported. The majority of the cases seem to be among persons in the country, as there are not many cases in town, and in the case of the local health officer from the State Board of Health says the situation is growing worse all over the State. The disease started in a mild form but has grown steadily more severe. No deaths have been reported from this cause in Nicholas county.

—Mrs. John F. Sugg and children, Mary and Sam, returned Tuesday evening from a several weeks stay in Louisville.

Another sugar shortage is threatening the State with very little prospect of relief until after the first of May. Most of the local grocers have a fair supply and expect to have enough to satisfy the demand until conditions improve.

FARMERS TAKE HEED

Every farmer should know the truth of his tobacco beds. This year has shown conclusively that the easy method of tobacco growing through here is not a satisfactory manner in the past I hope to have further business with you. I have so equipped my place as to be able to even serve my patrons in a more satisfactory manner and will appreciate all my old customers to come and see me in my new quarters. In addition to the restaurant business I have furnished several rooms to take care of anyone desiring nights lodging.

When you want good things to eat at any hour you want it drop around to the new place. Phone, Sufis and etc. Cold Eagle Brand, one of the best brands put out.

A Franklin county jury has decided that carrying a deadly weapon on the seat of an automobile does not constitute the offense of carrying concealed a deadly weapon. A case was recently tried there on this charge and the defendant proved he was carrying the pistol on the seat of his machine.

The value of Kentucky's tobacco crop for the year 1919 has been placed at $174,383,000, and the code crop for the same year is valued at $127,876,000.

MARRIAGES

TIBBITT-BRIERLY—Mr. Leonard Tibbitt has received a letter from his son, Garrett, telling of his marriage, to Bond, Iowa, to Miss Addie Tibbitt, of that city. They will make their home there. Mr. Brierly was formerly a resident of this county and is well known here.

PARIS-FORMAN—Miss Mary Virginia Paris, of Lexington daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Paris, formerly of this city, and Mr. Emery Forman, son of W. A. Forman, of Lexington, were married last Saturday at the home of and by Rev. E. E. Gotherman, of Lexington.

HARDWICK-RATLIFF—A marriage license was issued here Wednesday afternoon to Miss Elmer Hardwick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hardwick, and Mr. Otho E. Ratliff, son of Mrs. and Mrs. T. W. Ratliff, all of this county. The ceremony was performed at Paris Wednesday afternoon.

VAUGHN-LETCHER—Miss Minnie K. Vaughn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Vaughn, and Mr. Earl Letcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Letcher, all of Parks Hill neighborhood, were married at the residence of and by Rev. J. W. Crates in this city Wednesday.

ROGERS-BROTHERS—Miss Annie Lee Rogers, daughter of Mr. Jess G. Rogers, and Mr. Ernest P. Brothers, son of Mrs. Ed Parsons, both of Sulphur Creek neighborhood, were married at the residence of and by Rev. Bob McGaha in this city Saturday. Both are popular young people of their community and the Mercury joins their many friends in wishing them a long and happy married life.

FEATHER-HAMILTON—The marriage of Miss Katherine Feather and Mr. Frank Hamilton took place at the residence of and by Rev. Russell, at Little Rock, last Wednesday. The only attendants were Miss Gladys May, of Little Rock, and Mr. Earl Letcher, brother of the bride. The bride, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Feather, of near North Middletown, is a graduate of Hamilton, and very popular in her community. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hamilton, of the Jacktown vicinity, and is a prosperous young farmer.

DEATHS

XAUBELL—Mrs. Melinda Murrell, aged 75 years, died at her home near Mt. Carmel Friday. Burial took place at Mt. Carmel cemetery yard Saturday. She is survived by three sons, Wesley, Douglas and Mr. Earl Letcher.

WAUGH — Mrs. Jessie Brooks Waugh, wife of Thomas Waugh, aged about 45 years, died at her home in this city last Thursday after a prolonged illness of tuberculosis. The funeral services were held at the Methodist church by the pastor assisted by Rev. J. W. Crates. Interment took place in the Carlisle cemetery. Mrs. Waugh was a devout member of the Methodist Church and when her health permitted was a regular attendant upon all services. Besides her husband she is survived by three sons, H. M. Waugh, of Covington, Joe and Robert Waugh, of this city, and one brother, Charles Brooks, of Boone county.

CARLISLE MARKET STRONGER ON ALL GRADES THIS WEEK

The Carlisle tobacco market has been stronger on all grades this week, and sales have been made at a price that will be stronger all along until the last pound is sold. It is the belief that the market here will close about Feb. 10.

White prices here since the first of the year have not been entirely satisfactory, the change as a whole has been satisfactory to the farmers, as sales have been made at prices that about as good as on any of the markets in Ky.

The quality of tobacco grown in this county this year has been the worst for many years, and has kept the floor of tobacco down. Many farmers put their grades of tobacco to other markets and got better prices than could be had here which brought the floor average down considerably.

The sales of the houses the past week have been fairly heavy, and the fact that the market is strong will have a tendency induce the the growers to bring the remainder of their crop in as soon as possible.

The sales held at the three regular Warehouse Monday and Tuesday of last week amounted to 150,000 pounds and there will be about 60,000 pounds on the floor for sale today.

The Flemingsburg tobacco market will close the first of next week, with sales for the week to amount about 3,000,000 pounds. This is about 2,000,000 pounds less than sold on that market last year.

We call attention to the ad of the Mt. Sterling Laundry appearing elsewhere in this issue. A new management has recently assumed charge of this laundry and has made some extensive improvements in the plant. They will call for laundry here every Monday and deliver promptly, the customer thus dealing directly with the laundry instead of through an agent. A representative of the company stated to the Mercury that if the business prove they will send a truck every day. They guarantee their service and ask a share of your patronage.—Adv.
