FOLKS WITH THIN, PALE BLOOD HESITATE—FEEL UNCERTAIN

SHOULD TAKE PEPTO-MANGAN

Red-blooded Men and Women Know What They Want To Do And Do It

If you are pale and just recovered from a sick spell—or may be just appear to be run down and feel that you are weak that you are in a poor shape to resist infection—

But if you don't feel and look robust you are not robust. Such state is often due to weak blood, not enough red blood cells, a condition known as anemia.

The best remedy for anemia (blood leanness) with its low mental and physical vigor is Gude's Pepto-Mangan.

Pepto-Mangan supplies the weak, watery blood with its very elements—it needs to put new life into it. It replaces, re-creates, and re-builds the exhausted blood, the vital fluid of health and life. Try Pepto-Mangan if you are "rundown." It cannot harm you—it will certainly help you unless you have some deep-seated trouble requiring the physician's care. Be sure the name "Gude's" is on the package. Without "Gude's" it is not Pepto-Mangan. For sale at all druggists—Adv.

IVAN, THE RUSSIAN, SOMEWHAT OF A LIAR

The Russian peasant is not noted for his kindness to animals but there is one Ivan Ivanovitch who has a new excuse to offer for his slow answer as to an American soldier who served at Vladivostock.

Ivan owned a team of horses but he constantly neglected and beat them, making the whip take the place of fodder until it was possible to play a lively solo on their protruding ribs.

When the members of the American garrison remonstrated with him for defending his cruelty and his failure to feed the animals on the grounds of safety.

One time, he asserted, he was driving across the frozen steppes far from human habitation, when he heard the howl of hungry wolves across the snow. Wildly he looked for succor, hoping to outdistance the beasts, but soon they came in sight practically overtaking his driving in spite of the utmost efforts with the whip.

The horses were tired and started to give up the ghost when Ivan suddenly remembered a pair of wolves and realized a pack of wolves could be no more formidable than the animals in the pursuit of safety.

The pack surrounded the sleigh and Ivan grew himself to the task. Then the pack leader sprang at his throat, the famishing horses snapped desperately at fear from behind and the wolves and drivers ate them to the last scrap of hide.

Some people in this country trust their savings and securities to banks, but Ivanovitch trusted his horses. Those savings are willing to pay for you if they are properly fed. They can and will carry you to safety even from wolves of poverty, unemployment, illness or misfortune. But they will not turn on the whip and beat them because they are starved and ill. The next time you see a team of horses, And besides you may prove to be as able a driver as Ivan.

Timely Love.

Jack, Jr., could call the time for his mother by punching the correct numbers, one day when no one was home to tell his mother, his eyes lighting as sweet, as he said: "Hello, brother! There's a book at you! They're having such school!"

HOLDS HIGH PLACE IN RUSSIA

Chairman of Low Origin Said to Be First Power in the Soviet Government.

While ruthless methods and too brazen courage led such leaders of the bolshevists against arms and a new all around, there are the more subtle agents that have risen from time to time recently to be known from Berlin that the most powerful man in Russia today is Litvinoff, a Chinese or Mongolian, born of low parentage, who was formerly a barber's assistant in Finsbury Park, London, and who was interned in Britain during the Russo-Japanese war.

Litvinoff is said to have had striking resemblance to the Japanese and Chinese, with his high cheek bones and pigtail. He is described as a man of great ability, but of ruthless character, fierce with diplomatic cunning.

WHERE HUSTLE IS UNKNOWN

People of the Fiji Islands Have No Use Whatever for Words "Do It Now."

In the Fiji islands, situated a few degrees south of the equator in the Pacific ocean, there is no word for hustle, and the natives have no conception of what it means. Even the missionaries who have been there for years have failed to instill into the natives the slightest idea of the value of time. Work is performed in a leisurely manner, and the natives are never in a hurry about anything.

The Fijians have no word for "do it now," and if a native is told to perform a task he will do it when he gets around to it. Even the missionaries who have been there for years have failed to instill into the natives the slightest idea of the value of time. Work is performed in a leisurely manner, and the natives are never in a hurry about anything.

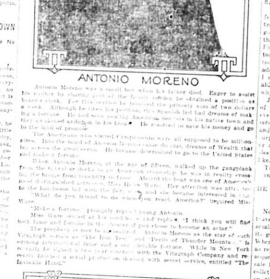
ANTONIO MORENO

Antonio Moreno, who is one of the screen's most popular leading men, is a native of Spain. Eager to assist in the cause of the allies, he has enlisted in the army of the United States. Although he has been in this country for a number of years, he has never taken out his citizenship papers, and is therefore a native born and subject of the king of Spain.

Moreno has been in the motion picture business for a number of years, and has appeared in many of the most successful photoplays ever produced. He is a native of Madrid, and was one of America's most popular leading men before the war. He is married to Beatrice Ames, who is also an American.

Moreno's real name is Antonio Andrade. He is a good soldier, and says: "I think you will find that I will make a good soldier. I am going to do my best to be one. I am ready to go to the front at any time, and will serve with the utmost efficiency."



ALICE JOYCE

Of all the original favorites of the early motion pictures, Alice Joyce alone shines as a star of the first magnitude. Her name is linked with those of Clara Kimball Young, Mary Pickford and Norma Talmadge. The Evening Telegram of New York says: "The Vitagraph Company of America has lost nothing of its drawing power, as was evidenced by the crowded house at the Strand Theatre last night, when Alice Joyce was seen in the first of a series of steadily increasing popularity. Miss Joyce has entered on the new season with a glorious prestige, and a glorious personality."

Pneumonia Follows Influenza.

Johnny's aunt had not been getting through with her "pep" talk, and since she had had influenza and other unpleasant but serious illness, the movement interested by the simple statement that she certainly left one with no "pep."

Johnny was standing home with her in their action one afternoon when a neighbor's child was reported to be very ill. The pup was a regular drawing room, or cause to wring and jumping around.

"Well, I'll say that that pup never had the flu," remarked Johnny.

Nature and Workers.

Nature offers no reward to mental indolence. It takes an idler to any field.—David Swing.

Princess of Spring.

It is not the corrugated roses, the cleverly made, and the warm brown which entices us so much in spring; it is the quiet, prophetic spirit of coming happy days.—Margaret Ogilvy.

To Avoid Noise.

If there is anything back of the wall with a bang, the noise can be prevented by fastening a rug to the wall, where the door strikes. Use a small nail so as not to disfigure the wall.

TOTAL RESULTS GAINED FROM OTHER MEDICINE BEFORE TAKING LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S, MRS. FRANKLIN ASSERTS

Louisville, Ky., May 19.—Another striking bit of proof of the merit of this remarkable reconstructive powers for overcoming after-effects of influenza, pneumonia and the like is to be seen, in the following statement made recently by Mrs. A. E. Franklin, Louisville woman at 1107 Preston street.

"After I had sufficiently recovered from the 'flu' to get out of bed, Mrs. Franklin said: 'I felt so tired, so weak and a dizziness in my head—in fact I would walk reeling and unfit to do any kind of work. I became troubled with constipation, and my appetite was very poor. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after using three bottles I felt strong and well. I recommend Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all people have found Tanlac in it's entirety. I am glad to give it as a recommendatory agency, system of the world, and as an unsolicited testimonial for others.'

STUDY GREEK GIVEN UP

Fewer Students in American or English Colleges Now Care for Ancient Language.

Every year the expression, "It is all Greek to me," is heard less often. The reason is that each year fewer students of American and English colleges study Greek, according to Professor Lodge in the Philadelphia Ledger.

Only a few years ago it was the rule for students in a college to study Greek, but now in the average college 30 per cent, in the best colleges 50 per cent, do not study Greek at all.

A study from 50 to less than 2 per cent, of the students who do study Greek, and shows that Greek will soon disappear in the United States.

Professor Lodge refused to offer any reason why Greek is losing its hold, but it is a well that the university is the first to feel the change.

The year before the war, in 1913, 1914, 1915 universities and colleges in the United States conferred 751 degrees in classics, and in 1918 only 251 degrees were conferred.

Harvard University must have learned that Greek is the hardest language and has the least practical value, for it has not conferred as many degrees since the war as it did before the war. Greek is no longer taught at Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Columbia, Cornell and Stanford universities.

ALL LIVING THINGS LINKED

Scientists Aver There Is Even a Bond of Sympathy Between Humanity and a Stone.

If we scientists are not there is a connecting link between animals and vegetables, and vegetables and minerals, and minerals and water, and water and air, and air and electricity, and electricity and ether, with between their every two.

A recent lecturer by Sir Oliver Lodge, the famous English scientist, is telling facts regarding vegetation, by which he proves that plants have many of the characteristics, says London Tit-Bits.

The effects of stimulants on vegetation are similar to those on animals. Vegetables can also be put to sleep by chloroform, their sense soothed and their are subject to the same diseases as human beings. Even their moral interest for vegetarians. For instance, the potato is subject to a disease which corresponds with consumption in the human body, and the cutting has been successfully grafted on to the tomato plant.

Vegetables possess greater sensitiveness than animals. Cabbages and cauliflowers are more delicate and are easily killed. Near the border line between animal and vegetable life are the sponges.

THE WAS PROPRIETOR OF THE TOWN

Not long ago, the story runs, a traveling salesman visited a certain town in the state of Kentucky on business. In general store an order of jewelry. He knew the jewelry arrived it was not as represented, and the merchant refused to accept it. But the wholesale house nevertheless attempted to collect the bill, and drew a sight draft on the merchant's bank, which returned the draft unaccepted.

The wholesalers then wrote to the salesman about the matter. The salesman called on the merchant and the postmaster, and reported that it was O. K. to return mail the wholesalers requested him to collect the account. They received the following reply:

"The undersigned is postmaster of whom you attempted to palm off your worthless stuff. He is also mayor and president and owner of the bank to which you sent your draft. The undersigned is the postmaster to whom you wrote and the undersigned is the lawyer whose services you sought to obtain for your infernous business. If the undersigned were not the president of the church at this place he would tell you to go to hell."

Fond Values of Potatoes.

That persons live widely in food value is shown by a report of the government's scientific committee. It is fact down that the most useful potato is the one that will produce the largest amount of dry matter. Where two varieties are practically equal in this respect, the nitrogen they contain serves for the estimation of their feeding quality.

Note Not Properly Appreciated.

That persons who own trees are not being planted more extensively in this country is unlike to the people who the automobile was not in use a few years ago. People did not thought much about it. The automobile has come out from its use and proved to be an important a relation to our food supply as the automobile does to transportation.

Doing Away With Exertion.

"Find 'em, that runs the store at the crossroads, is an easy-going fellow," related a citizen of Sandy Hook. "He's got his hands rather day when I was in there, and I noticed he was stretched out on the counter, half asleep, with a fly-specked advertisement of a new kind of self-fat dressmaker that he was sorely disappointed with. Well, I says to the Grammer Dell-hurt, I says, don't you get tired of your perches without exercise?"—New York Correspondence Kansas City Star.

The Diamond Trade.

Considerable activity has prevailed in the diamond trade in British Guiana within the last few months, and prices have advanced to a high level heretofore unknown, according to Mr. Gerard Smith, Crown Agent. Enquiries are being dispatched to the district, but no new mines are being opened, interested in the business for the present. It is currently reported that the English market is eager to absorb any quantity of stones, large or small, but that they are being kept back not only for English but also for American markets regardless of present exceptionally high prices.
