Happenings of the World Tersely Told

Personal

Frank C. Bancroft, for years business manager of the Cincinnati baseball club, died at Sarasota hospital at Cincinnati after a prolonged illness

• • •

With all the splendor of a ceremony executive old, the famous Carlisle church laid to rest one of its oldest and most faithful servants—James Cardinal Gibbons, at Baltimore

• • •

Washington

The United States no longer requires passports for American citizens leaving or entering this country or for aliens leaving the country, the State department announced at Washington.

• • •

State department at Washington has in note to Mexico City government of United demands, but suggests a reopening of negotiations instead.

• • •

The course of action now contemplated by the Washington administration in the rejection of the Bucareli treaty and the re-establishment of peace with Germany and Austria of the Knox resolution and a separate treaty seeking was made known.

• • •

A Washington, dispatch says the Pilgrim Centenary peace stamps have been called in because the artist neglected to indicate the stamps were to be used by the United States. There is not even a U. S. upon them.

• • •

Definite announcement of the selection of Col. George Harvey of New York to be ambassador to Great Britain was made at the White House in Washington.

• • •

President Harding at Washington is determined that the United States shall do nothing that will be construed in escaping full responsibility for the war and peace, determination to the full extent of its ability.

• • •

Notification that no more Irish mayors or other executives will be allowed to land in this country has been received at Boston from Secretary of Labor Davis. The new order forbids a steerage to Irish.

• • •

Regulations limiting withdrawals of liquor by retail druggists to 100 gallons each of spirits or 200 gallons of wine quarter were issued by the bureau of internal revenue at Washington.

• • •

Practically no progress toward the restoration of "normal conditions" in business and industry was made during the month of March, according to the monthly review issued by the federal reserve board at Washington.

Domestic

Pennsylvania railroad shopmen numbering 40,000, were asked to accept a cut from 85 to 60 cents an hour by the general managers' conference at Pittsburgh, Pa.

• • •

Representatives of 30,000 maintenance of way and structural employees of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway company refused at Philadelphia to accept the wage reduction proposed by the company.

• • •

The bodies of 1,221 American soldiers who lost their lives in France, some of them members of the Twenty-seventh, Seventy-seventh and Forty-second divisions arrived at New York on the transport Cantigny.

• • •

Sandy Thompson, negro, who shot and killed R. E. Dobson, a planter, near Hattiesburg, Miss., was found near Langford. The body was found swinging from the limb of a tree.

• • •

Fifteen thousand persons were made homeless in a fire which destroyed Deer Island, on the Mississippi section of Mobile, a native quarter of persons of the Creole and Spanish descent.

• • •

The big pocket in Imperial county, the new 1926 mine public by the department of mines and oil, has been found to be producing, according to a ruling of state mineralogist, 1,200,000 miners were now.

• • •

Immigration statistics for the year 1926 made public by the department of labor show that 1,000,000 aliens will be permitted to enter the United States annually under the quota now in force.

• • •

The international Red Cross completed its work in the Near East, Frederick Gunther Adee, former president of the Red Cross, said.

• • •

The assembly at Madison, Wis., turned down a bill which would make the La Follette Progressive association, the political party of Senator La Follette for the remainder of the session.

• • •

The will of Cardinal Gibbons was filed for probate in the office of the register of wills in Baltimore, Md., disposing of a personal estate of about $100,000.

• • •

More than 100,000 will be recommended by the Firestone Tire and Rubber company to its dealers during April, according to an announcement.

• • •

The minimum living wage level for Philadelphia at present is $2,300.72 a year, according to the results of an investigation recently completed by the labor bureau.

• • •

Fire of an undetermined origin destroyed three cottages and damaged several small residence houses at Fredericksburg, Va., causing a loss of $40,000.

• • •

Eugene C. Bonniwell found guilty of murder in the first degree in Jackson County, Mo., for the killing of Mrs. Lucy Smith by the jury in the Pete Gentry court. Four counts were on the jury.

• • •

Eleven hundred employees of Armed the number parking companies in the Chicago yards went on a strike.

• • •

Corsets Approved, With Limitation.

Corsets are essential to women's comfort, according to a committee of physicians which has investigated, a New York health organization, which has never considered a year's investigation of the subject. The investigation allowed the trouble is that many women wear the wrong kind of corsets, it was announced.

• • •

Ears Are Caring Out.

"Show at least the tips of your ears and wave your hair," was the advance

Seven passengers and three members of the crew of the steamship Governor smith off Point Wilson, near Seattle, Wash., are missing, according to a wireless message from the steamer West Hermosa.

• • •

Students of Rice institute at Houston will organize a Woodrow Wilson club to perpetuate the memory of the ex-President and his doctrine. The club will be modeled after an organization at Harvard.

• • •

An eight-hour day and a wage cut are planned for the Gary (Ind.) mills of the United States Steel corporation, and will become effective on or about April 26, it was learned from reliable sources.

• • •

Miss Marie Anderson, seventeen, of Lake Mills, Wis., was killed by Joseph Wilcox, twenty-eight years old, at Mona City, Ia., who were said to have been "jilted." After killing Miss Anderson Wilcox killed himself.

• • •

J. Herman Wharton, dean of the school of business administration of the University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, Pa., was shot and killed by Hobart Brown, an instructor, who then ended his own life.

• • •

Foreign

Prince Christian followers of the Calvados theatre "ten-man revolution" were captured near Montemoreau, court martialed and executed within a few hours.

• • •

Prince Andrew of Greece, brother of King Constantine, has died from wounds received in fighting near Brussa, says a Constantinople dispatch.

• • •

Thirty-three persons were killed in a collision between a freight and a passenger train on the Mexican National line at Villa Garcia, Mexico.

• • •

Drastic measures taken by the Russian soviet government to allow foreign concessions of manufacturing plants in Russia to exploit their products under a regime similar to that established for the mines, says a Paris dispatch.

• • •

Ambassador Adolfo Lopezlopezlt in Mexico is to active again. Thousands of insurgents have been killed in clashes of gun and sulphurous smoke are shooting in Tamaulipas, Vera Cruz. Streets are covered with hot lava.

• • •

Crown Prince regained audiosubers in Germany, Bavaria, Saxony and Mayo. Four "republican flying columns" are operating in Thuringia, Brunswick, Thuringia, Kildare, and Queens counties, Dispatches say.

• • •

The Greek crisis has been settled back to the Rouan line by the Turks, with the country. Hot capital of Turkey was full of thrills.

"Devonshire is going to native the man who had swindled me," he said, "I'll return a hunt that took me through 18 states and 642 Metres. I took big me, Pete, out of the West Texas Normal at Canyon to assist me in the search, and it was he who located the man at Jacksonville. Upon arriving there we separated and reported at different hotels to watch for Furey. We had never seen the man, but had studied a picture of him, and a few minutes after registering at my hotel Furey emerged from an elevator. He was telephoned me a message from him. We followed our man into a restaurant and there I placed him under arrest, following a desperate struggle.

Norfleet exhibited his finger, showing where Furey bit him during the struggle. He also showed other minor injuries, scratches and bruises.

"At the police station Furey denied that he had ever seen me," Norfleet continued. "He officers asked me somewhat authority I had and how did I know he was the right man. I told them I was a Texas officer and I had a warrant for Furey's arrest; that I had Furey's police picture—and, above all, I knew he was the man who had taken my money. I told them that he was my man and that I was going to take him.

"They asked me if by what further right I expected to take him. I pulled out the requisition papers, properly honored by the governor of Florida. The officers looked at the papers. 'We can't do anything for you, Furey,' they said; 'you are a prisoner bound for Texas.'

It Took Four Policemen.

"Believe me, those words sure thrilled me. I started to rush him away. I was afraid that attempts might be made to have him released or to detain him through a writ of habeas corpus. I decided to take Furey 12 miles from Jacksonville and put him on a train. He fought. It took four big policemen to finally lock him securely in the cell. Pete and I kept Furey in the automobile and started to get the witnesses. We missed the train, the train was almost ready to pull out when we arrived at the station. His hands were in the cuffs, but he broke and struggled so much that the train pulled out before we got him aboard. We caught the next train and drove back to Jacksonville.

"Then the bonds Furey's lawyers were getting busy. We knew they might get a writ from habeas corpus. Therefore we decided we would take Furey to a private car and chain him to bed. We waited there until time.

Furey Jumps From Train.

We were nearing the end of a long, long trail. I had faith in our chance to get Furey to Texas. So far there had been no bloodshed. That is why I did not use my pistol. Furey had kicked and hurt me all he could. He was a husband.

"After we had put him on the train leaving Jacksonville he tried to grow friendly. Standing by the window in the Pullman car he smiled and waved through the window. The train was moving slowly. Suddenly he ducked through the window like a panther and leaped into the air. He stopped the train as quickly as we could. Furey had been thrown off by a train crew. He offered the members of the crew $1,000 to let him go. They put him on a switch engine and took him back to Jacksonville and me. He was still handicapped by his handcuffs. He claimed he could not walk because the injury he received in jumping from the train.

"Another switch engine took Furey and myself back to Jacksonville and we again took charge of our prisoner. Furey said he could not walk and the pain from his leg and did not want to be taken to the hospital. I told him that I still had him where he was going to be.

Dodged Habeas Corpus.

Upon arriving in New Orleans, Norfleet said he still realized the possibility of being served with legal papers which might cause Furey to be taken from on board and which might delay the trip back to Texas.

"So we carried Furey where I went. We had to spend part of Sunday in New Orleans. The papers would have to be served on me because I had secured the requisition papers. I went to church. I knew the officers would not go there to find me. And I stood two of the finest sermons I ever did hear. I left my son at the police station to help watch Furey.

Norfleet said that he and his son were joined by special officers from Fort Worth before leaving New Orleans with their prisoner. Furey was brought to Fort Worth and jailed there to await trial on the charges on the indictment found against him by the Tarrant county grand jury.

Before he reached Texas Norfleet said, "Furey did tie to me by his own self and had he done so I was more pleased to do. I think that was

A general view of the three-acre site at Aldwych-the-Strand, London, on which the great Bush International Sales building will be built, most construction time in twenty hours started at midnight, when completed will represent an investment of $50,000,000. It is said to be the largest single building enterprise undertaken in London in 20 years. The interest was taken at the Aldwych end of the Strand, and shows the famous church of St. Mary le Strand, to the architecture of which the new Bush building will conform.

TEXAS RANCHMAN DOWNS "CON MEN"

Norfleet Spends $18,000 Trailing Them, but Feels That It Is Worth It.

ONE LIVES UP TO HIS NAME

Furey Puts Up Stiff Fight, but the Ranchman Proves to Be Something of a Fighter Himself—Saved by His Automatic.

Fort Worth, Tex.—Frank Norfleet, a ranchman of West Texas, delivered to Joe Furey into the hands of the local police here, the third of a trio of con-men he has come to be run down by Norfleet, who either fleeced out of $45,000 from the bogus oil stock deal about a year ago. One of the other two committed suicide in jail in Washington; the other is under a ten-year sentence.

Besides losing the $45,000, Norfleet spent $18,000 trailing the swindlers through the country. Hot capital of Turkey was full of thrills.

"Devonshire is going to native the man who had swindled me," he said, "I'll return a hunt that took me through 18 states and 642 Metres. I took big me, Pete, out of the West Texas Normal at Canyon to assist me in the search, and it was he who located the man at Jacksonville. Upon arriving there we separated and reported at different hotels to watch for Furey. We had never seen the man, but had studied a picture of him, and a few minutes after registering at my hotel Furey emerged from an elevator. He was telephoned me a message from him. We followed our man into a restaurant and there I placed him under arrest, following a desperate struggle.

Norfleet exhibited his finger, showing where Furey bit him during the struggle. He also showed other minor injuries, scratches and bruises.

"At the police station Furey denied that he had ever seen me," Norfleet continued. "He officers asked me somewhat authority I had and how did I know he was the right man. I told them I was a Texas officer and I had a warrant for Furey's arrest; that I had Furey's police picture—and, above all, I knew he was the man who had taken my money. I told them that he was my man and that I was going to take him.

"They asked me if by what further right I expected to take him. I pulled out the requisition papers, properly honored by the governor of Florida. The officers looked at the papers. 'We can't do anything for you, Furey,' they said; 'you are a prisoner bound for Texas.'

It Took Four Policemen.

"Believe me, those words sure thrilled me. I started to rush him away. I was afraid that attempts might be made to have him released or to detain him through a writ of habeas corpus. I decided to take Furey 12 miles from Jacksonville and put him on a train. He fought. It took four big policemen to finally lock him securely in the cell. Pete and I kept Furey in the automobile and started to get the witnesses. We missed the train, the train was almost ready to pull out when we arrived at the station. His hands were in the cuffs, but he broke and struggled so much that the train pulled out before we got him aboard. We caught the next train and drove back to Jacksonville.

"Then the bonds Furey's lawyers were getting busy. We knew they might get a writ from habeas corpus. Therefore we decided we would take Furey to a private car and chain him to bed. We waited there until time.

Furey Jumps From Train.

We were nearing the end of a long, long trail. I had faith in our chance to get Furey to Texas. So far there had been no bloodshed. That is why I did not use my pistol. Furey had kicked and hurt me all he could. He was a husband.

"After we had put him on the train leaving Jacksonville he tried to grow friendly. Standing by the window in the Pullman car he smiled and waved through the window. The train was moving slowly. Suddenly he ducked through the window like a panther and leaped into the air. We stopped the train as quickly as we could. Furey had been thrown off by a train crew. He offered the members of the crew $1,000 to let him go. They put him on a switch engine and took him back to Jacksonville and me. He was still handicapped by his handcuffs. He claimed he could not walk because the injury he received in jumping from the train.

"Another switch engine took Furey and myself back to Jacksonville and we again took charge of our prisoner. Furey said he could not walk and the pain from his leg and did not want to be taken to the hospital. I told him that. I told him we were going to take him.

Dodged Habeas Corpus.

Upon arriving in New Orleans, Norfleet said he still realized the possibility of being served with legal papers which might cause Furey to be taken from on board and which might delay the trip back to Texas.

"So we carried where I went. We had to spend part of Sunday in New Orleans. The papers would have to be served on me because I had secured the requisition papers. I went to church. I knew the officers would not go there to find me. And I stood two of the finest sermons I ever did hear. I left my son at the police station to help watch Furey.

Norfleet said that he and his son were joined by special officers from Fort Worth before leaving New Orleans with their prisoner. Furey was brought to Fort Worth and jailed there to await trial on the charges on the indictment found against him by the Tarrant county grand jury.

Before he reached Texas Norfleet said, "Furey did tie to me by his own self and had he done so I was more pleased to do. I think that was Four destroyers of the Atlantic fleet passing through the Miraflores locks of the Panama canal after taking part in the maneuvers with the Pacific fleet off the west coast of South America. This picture gives a hint of the magnificent scenery encountered by the fast from Gatun Lake, across all the lock machinery called into operation.

U. S. Destroyers in Panama Canal

Negro Kept Hog "Farm" in Parlor of Her Home

Belle White, negro, was taken this police court at Dallas, Tex., on the charge of violating the local sanitary law by raising hogs in the front room of her home. She converted her flat into a hog pen, the discovery that she had also converted her flat into a hog pen, the discovery that she had raised five fat porkers in the front room and that four of them were slaughtered there and the rest sold. The remaining hog was also ready for market. No fine was imposed, but she was warned to change her location or be prosecuted for continuing the hog-raising business.

To stop the pain of Corns, Bunions, Callouses, Blisters, Tired, Aching Feet, Shoes Rub or Pinch, Wear

ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE

THE ANTISEPTIC POWDER TO SHAKE INTO YOUR SHOES and sprinkle in the foot-bath

Sold Everywhere 25c

NEW PENSION LAWS

Just Issued—Contains all the new pension laws passed by the 69th, 70th and 71st Congresses, including the Act of June 7, 1924, and the Act of March 4, 1925. Also contains all the rules governing the Bureau of Pensions. Price 50 cents postpaid.

FOR SALE BY THE CARLISLE MERCURY

U. S. HAS NOT SURRENDERED ANY OF HER RIGHTS

SAYS SECRETARY HUGHES IN NOTES SENT TO BRITISH, FRENCH AND ITALIANS.

United States Must Be Consulted on Any Further Measures Affecting Wilson View—Text of Cablegram to Tokyo Kept Secret.

Washington.—The American Government, although not a party to the treaty of Versailles, has surrendered none of its rights in the overseas possessions of Germany secured by the principal Allied and Associated Powers by that treaty, the Governments of Japan, Great Britain, France and Italy are informed by Secretary Charles E. Hughes in parallel notes dispatched by the State Department.

Specifically, in the mandate agreements dealt, it was learned, with the award of Yap to Japan, the United States, Paris, May 7, 1919, and Islands under the Pacific ocean, and that secretary Hughes says the American Government trusts that "this action which, it must assume, was taken under a misapprehension of fact."

The notes are the first important diplomatic communications prepared by the new Secretary of State.

They point out that the charge of Administration in Washington has been assumed by the mandatory of the provision of the United States under President Wilson's fourteen points, the principal contributors to the common victory attained by the United States upon the exercise of its lawful rights as an associated power in the determination of the terms of the peace settlement.

Publication of the communications, that sent to Great Britain, was made public by the White House, and finally are understood to be substantially identical with those sent to Japan, in giving out the note to the Japanese government, the White House announced that the text of the correspondence between the two Governments.

It added that the correspondence with Great Britain was sent first in time, but no other explanation was given for the delay in sending the reply to one on the subject of Yap and Islands under the Pacific ocean.

Japan, they have hadn't done nothin' with it when he came away, but some time ago they started to put up in front of the Yap the thinks I am a good deal like Japan, and I'll be there to get my share. The Japs are about keeping the Yap.

Court Decision Sought.

Boston, Mass.—The question whether Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of Christian Science, died a citizen of Massachusetts or New York was argued in the Supreme Court in one of the most important cases involving the power of government of the church, in which the Christian Scientists are defendants.

Girl Died of Poisoning.

Washington.—Secretary Goverall has authorized return to heirs of Herbert Lee Pratt, New York, of $1,000,000 in Liberty bonds, which he had retained at approximately $1,000,000, which he had retained at approximately $1,000,000, which he had retained at approximately $1,000,000