Swinford, both of Harrison, at Paris.

GROWERS CALL HALT ON OPENING TOBACCO SALE

Sales Stay Here When Growers Demand That No More Be Sold At Low Prices

After one row of tobacco had been sold at the Peoples Warehouse Tuesday morning, at prices ranging from 16 cents per hundred pounds to 49 cents per pound, the top price paid for any basket, growers took matters in their own hands and stopped the sale.

Men climbed upon baskets around the auctioneer and in no uncertain terms made known their wishes that sales cease.

They ceased.

In one or two instances, revolvers were in evidence, but no attempt at violence of any kind was made. The auctioneer readily agreed to stop selling, and no effort was made to begin sales at either of the other two warehouses in Carlisle.

Immediately after suspension of sales here many growers left for Paris to witness the expressed intention of stopping sales at that place.

Warehousemen stated that they were simply servants of the growers and when the growers ask that sales be resumed, they will be glad to comply.

Nicholas county has a much better crop this year than was produced last season and the opening bids were a distinct disappointment to both growers and warehousemen.

Good judges of tobacco told a representative of The Mercury that tobacco which sold at 5 cents Tuesday morning would have brought 25 and 30 cents last year. In many instances prices received would not have paid for stripping out the crop.

A telephone message to The Mercury from Lexington immediately after sales had been called off here stated that growers had demanded the closing of the Lexington market, threatening violence, if their wishes were not complied with and that the market had closed at that place. The markets at Winchester and Richmond were also closed Tuesday morning.

1920 DEATH RATE DECREASES

Statistics Show 86 Interments in Carlisle Cemetery During 1920 Against 96 in 1919. Tuberculosis Leads List

The Carlisle cemetery reports that during the year there were a total of 86 graves were opened in the Carlisle cemetery, five of which were re-interments. The 81 interments are divided as follows:

Male adults, 28; female adults, 22; male children, 6; female children, 7; re-interments, 5.

The report shows that most of the deaths in Nicholas county the past year were caused by tuberculosis, which exacted a total of twelve deaths, with pneumonia a close second with a total of ten deaths. It is gratifying to note that there was only one death caused by scarlet fever and only one death caused by typhoid fever in the year.

Following is the total number of deaths caused by each disease: Tuberculosis, 12; pneumonia, 10; Bright's disease, 8; senility, 8; acute indigestion, 5; apoplexy, 2; paralysis, 5; cancer, 3; old [illegible], 8; scarlet fever, 1; typhoid fever, 1; various diseases, 15.

During the year 1919, there were 96 graves opened, 71 of which were for adults and 25 for infants.

E. J. SECREST FOR TAX COMMISSIONER

In [illegible] proper column of The Mercury this week will be found the announcement of E. J. Secrest, who seeks the Democratic nomination for Tax Commissioner of Nicholas county, subject to the action of the Democratic party at the primary to be held Saturday, August 6, 1921.

Mr. Secrest is too well known to the citizens of Nicholas to need introduction by us. He is a staunch Democrat, a gentleman and he needs but to be elected to the office he seeks will make an efficient official. Mr. Secrest held this office some years ago. In the last county election he was a candidate for deputy sheriff, and was defeated by a small margin.

He has many warm supporters in Nicholas county and will make a good showing in the race. Mr. Secrest earnestly solicits your patronage.

During the year 1920, 989 new corporations were formed and incorporated in Kentucky, according to figures made public at Frankfort Tuesday by Secretary of State Fred A. Vaughn.

PRODUCE REVIEW

(Prepared by Swift & Co.)

Poultry movement was very light, as usual during holiday week. There is still a fair amount of poultry to be moved in some sections, and indications point to somewhat higher values. The demand for dressed poultry from the consuming trade is very good.

Fresh egg production continues heavy. None of the low types offered this season are heavy and but very little green and trash of any kind in evidence. Because of a lightness and better quality it was thought that the market would be steady to a fair prop.

Bids were below even the expectations of those who predicted low prices for the 1920 crop. More than 50 per cent of the lots offered on the breaks was rejected, at a estimated and in many cases slightly below the market value. This realized 43¾ a [illegible]
