News of the Week Cut Down for Busy Readers

Washington

The senate confirmes on the naval appropriation bill at Washington, agreed to accept the Borah amendment providing for international curtailment of naval expansion.

• • •

Charles G. Dawes, the Chicago banker, has been selected by President Harding at Washington for diplomat of the budget, under the budget law recently enacted by congress. Mr. Dawes will take office July 1.

• • •

Plans for passing the Porter disarmament resolution as a separate measure were abandoned by Republican house leaders at Washington.

• • •

No sealing down in railroad rates as an emergency of road can be expected until fall, at the earliest, Secretary of Commerce Hoover at Washington said.

• • •

The senate finance committee at Washington voted to make a favorable report on the veterans' adjusted compensation bill, known as the bonus bill. The measure will be voted on as passed by the house.

• • •

The new Yanktonai bill designed to make the Sioux Indians "self supporting" was blocked in the house at Washington, opponents declaring it largely a pork-barrel measure.

• • •

Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair at Washington announced that in round up delinquent collections from the recent returns, special attention will be paid to soda fountains and drug stores alleged to be curious in turning over entire tax.

• • •

The administration at Washington is to continue Daniels' policy of maintaining a fleet of fighting fleets; the Pacific fleet will be composed of several battleships and cruisers; the Atlantic of older cool-burning vessels.

• • •

Fishing rights in and about Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, are now protected by the United States government under a bill passed by the senate at Washington.

• • •

Maj. Gen. Peyton C. March, chief of staff of the army at Washington, will retire from active service on November 1.

• • •

"It is my firm and unalterable opinion the navy should have an enlisted personnel of 120,000 men," Secretary Denby wrote to Senator Poindexter, acting chairman of the senate naval affairs committee at Washington. Denby's statement was considered as reflecting the views of the President.

• • •

The most packer control bill was passed by the senate at Washington substantially in the form in which it came from the house.

• • •

Attorney General Daugherty at Washington said business has piled up to such proportions that two months may elapse before he can name his recommendations to the President in the Insta case.

• • •

President Harding in a letter to representatives of government employees at Washington denied their request that he issue an order giving government clerks Saturday half holidays throughout the year.

• • •

Attorney General Daugherty ordered United States Attorney Isaac Wright at Newark, N. J., to make a thorough investigation of the manner in which machine guns and ammunition had found their way upon the steamer Tuz Sidi at Hoboken just before she sailed for Ireland.

Domestic

A landing containing jewels and money valued at between $50,000 and $100,000, belonging to Mrs. Leona Vincent Moss of Cleveland, was reported stolen at Cleveland, O.

• • •

Naval aeroplane NC12 caught fire 1,500 feet in the air and fell into Hampton Roads with the crew of three officers and seven men. All were saved. No one aboard was injured.

• • •

Joseph Coughlin, employed in a bank at Cleveland, O., and Harry Cvitko, a high school student of Cedargrove, a high school student of Cedargrove, a high school student of Cedargrove