Quality does tell! Measured by covering capacity and length of wear, one gallon of Hanna's Green Seal Paint proves itself equal to two gallons of so-called "cheap" paint. And there's a reason! viz.—no paint can be better than the ingredients that go into it.

HANNA'S GREEN SEAL PAINT contains only highest grade ingredients, universally recognized as necessary in making good paint. If a paint is sold at a ridiculously low price it simply means that it is lacking in these necessary ingredients and contains cheap adulterants.

The exact formula is printed on every package of Green Seal.

History's Great Men Were Warm Friends of the Thoroughbred

The annual spring season of thoroughbred racing will soon be at its height in Kentucky, and there is every indication that interest in the famous old sport, this year, will surpass any of the days that have gone before.

Chief among the present evidences of renewed widespread racing is the Lexington meeting. The thoroughbred has its charms for us all today just as he did in the days of George Washington and Andrew Jackson.

Both these presidents of the United States were great lovers of the thoroughbred and loyal supporters of the sport of horse racing. They bred and raced their own horses, and like any records the fact that the former acted as a judge at the Newmarket Course, Charleston, S. C., on one occasion. Washington, as we all know, was a noted horseman, who took keen his spirited thoroughbred for riding and hunting through the field until very late in life, and his stable had a reputation for the number and quality of the horses it contained.

Andrew Jackson was an enthusiastic patron of horse racing long before he became president. He maintained a formidable stable, which included Truxton, a horse of which he was exceedingly proud, and with which he won the famous match race for $2,000 against Greyhound. After his inauguration as president, he brought his horses to the Capitol, and in 1834 trained them in person. Vice President and Mrs. Van Buren often being present to witness the morning work-outs of the horses personally superintended by Jackson. Jackson's interest in thoroughbred blood probably reached its "high water mark" when he imported the celebrated race horse, Sir Archy, at a cost of $2,000.

The Washington Course, located about two miles from the Capitol, was built in 1802. The Jockey Club, under whose auspices it was operated, numbered among its members the most distinguished men in the country. Horse Racing was regularly attended by the presidents, from Jefferson to Van Buren. On one occasion John Quincy Adams wished to find Mrs. Madison, surrounded by the equipages of the wealthy.

"Generals Washington and Jackson," writes one leading commentator, "are examples of the fondness that great statesmen and military men have so generally entertained for the horse and sport of the turf. Though equally bold and aggressive riders in the field, General Jackson was the more successful on the course. The racing annals of the west record his unusual use victories, and according to the assertion which are told of him, he sometimes intimidated his adversaries of the boldness of defiance, where his might not have won by the speed or bottom of his horse.

One of General Jackson's chosen friends was the Rev. H. B. Dyer, a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who was a breeder of thoroughbred horses and who raced them. The Rev. Dyer was a fine horseman, (Old Hickory, himself a fine gentleman, having been charged with horse racing, was summoned before the tribunal and asked if he had anything to say in his defense. "Nothing," was his reply, "except that I never like to have you let me know how I can arrange it for my half of the horse to stand in the stable while Gen. Dyer's colt is racing. The horse belongs to a minister. He has the same right to control him that I have, and he will run his race and I mean keep him from it."

Needless to add, Mr. Cryer was duly acquitted.

The utter absence of prejudice against the turf in earlier days brings into sharp contrast our sporadic, belligerent attitude in disapproval.

That racing is mentioned in the Catholic catechism, published at Annapolis in 1744, that among the legislative guardians of the population which met with the approval of the church itself, was the new era of racing horses, which had grown to be highly popular among the gentry of the country. Harwood, of Oella, have every reason to believe that the turf is on the eve of a greater measure of popular support than it has received in a decade, for only as a matter of healthful out-of-door entertainment but also because of the importance as an adjunct to the industry of breeding thoroughbred horses for use in supplying the army with cavalry mounts and other highly utilitarian purposes.

A CARLISLE INTERVIEW

Mrs. Crump Tells Her Experience

The following brief account of an interview with a Carlisle woman eight years ago, and its sequel, will be read with keen interest by every citizen.

Mrs. W. T. Crump, Dorsey Ave., says: "I certainly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for they did me a great deal of good. They should always be used in a case of kidney trouble. I was nervous and dizzy, my head ached and I had backache and my kidneys were out of order. At night I was restless and morning I felt tired out. This continued until I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and used some. They soon made me strong and well." (Statement given January 16, 1921.)

On November 15, 1920 Mrs. Crump said: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of a severe attack of kidney trouble many years ago. I felt so grateful that I gave a public recommendation in 1921. I can only now pleased to show my high regard for Doan's by giving them another endorsement." 60c, at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

CARDUI HELPED REGAIN STRENGTH

Alabama Lady Was Sick For Three Years, Suffering Pain, Nervous and Depressed—Used Her Own Story of Recovery.

Paint Rock, Ala.—Mrs. C. M. Stegall, of near here, recently related the following interesting account of her recovery: "I was in a weakened condition. I was sick three years in bed, suffering a great deal of pain, weak, nervous, depressed. I was so weak, I couldn't walk across the floor; just had to lay still with little sense to do the work. I was almost dead. I tried every thing I heard and a number of doctors. Still I didn't get any relief. My husband got me a bottle of Cardui. I believed it would get relieved. Cardui I would have died. I bought one bottle, after a neighbor told me what it did for her.

"I began to eat and sleep, began to gain my strength and am now well and strong. I haven't had any trouble since . . . I sure can testify to the good that Cardui did me. I don't think there is a better tonic made and I have used quite a few bottles.

For over 40 years, thousands of women have used Cardui successfully in the treatment of many womanly ailments.

If you suffer as these women did, take Cardui. It may help you, too. E 18

TIBET NEEDS MISSIONARIES
NICHOLAS MAN WRITES

Nov. 15, 1920

The eyes of the church should be turned upon Tibet and Central Asia for immediate missionary activity. The Greatest Needs are MEN first, and then equipment. There has been no advance in ten years, and on the other hand there has been a decided loss in missionaries and support. Overworked missionaries are struggling to hold stations already opened, rather trying to deepen the work, with the help of native helpers.

The work of the F. C. M. S. in Batang has grown and deepened, but no out-stations are yet opened for lack of men and equipment. We are not able to occupy more than a small per cent of the territory open to us. It is a great pity. We must face facts.

Attendance in day school in Batang 107 pupils. Average attendance at S. S. 123. Average attendance at Chinese Church 50. Treatments at the Hospital over 500 last month.

There are three missionary families here now in charge of Education, Evangelistic, Medical and Orphanage. A new school building is being built at a cost of $7,500.00 for building and equipment. This will house the 22 orphans and the school for a few years.

Young men and women in Volunteer Bands should consider prayerfully the needs of Tibet and all the nations around Tibet. Information will be gladly furnished to any who drop a postal to the undersigned.

Yours for Christ in Tibet,

JAS. C. OGDEN,
Batang, Eastern Tibet. West China

Apropos of the failure of so many children to pass the examination, the Cynthiana Democrat says: "There is surely something awry and suggests the following explanation:

"An ant is crawling around the outside of a bale of cotton. He is not impressed, with a whirling, outcurve ball pitched by Walter Johnson. The ant is crawling around the bale and is proceeding toward Akron, Ohio, at the rate of 2 miles per hour. The fast ear is moving over an earth which is spherical in form and 25,000 miles an hour and at the same time circling the sun at the rate of 68,000 miles a second. The sun is revolving in the direction of the constellation Hercules at the rate of 12,000,000 miles a second. Problem: When the ant in on the bale of cotton? Also what is the relativity in speed, direction and time of the bale?"

NEW ICE WEEKS IN CHINA CRITICAL CRANE CABLES

Mr. John G. Hait, chairman of the China Famine Fund in Nicholas county, has received from State Headquarters at Louisville a copy of a telegram sent to the Secretary of State at Washington, D. C., requesting the United States Minister to China, the Honorable Paul Reinsch, to cable Mr. Hait.

Unless help is received before the 15th it will be too late for the subscriptions to reach people before the harvest. Imminent danger that people will devour the growing grain unless helped. PROPERTY OWNERS MUST PAY FOR STREET OILING

Council Drafts Ordinance Requiring Owners Entitled Thereto to Pay For Oiling of Streets

At the regular meeting of the city council Monday night, the most important matter to come before the body was the question of oiling a number of the principal streets of Carlisle. Three bids were submitted for supplying the oil, and as all of them were close, a special meeting will be held some time this week to discuss which company will be awarded the contract and price per oil in use, installing free. It will be about 8½ cents per gallon.

The oiling will be done this year at the expense of owners of property abutting on the streets oiled instead of by the city as has been the custom. Assembly of 1918 gives cities of the fourth class authority to spread oil on streets and levy a special tax for the purpose. The ordinance drafted by the building is front and oiling of oil is placed, whether owner or tenant, has been the custom.

The streets to be oiled are Main entirely, Eighteenth from Main to North; Elm from Market to Mulberry; Locust from Market to North; Maple from Market to North; Walnut from Market to Mulberry; Mulberry from Walnut to Maple. The work of oiling will be done by the city marshal.

By O. S. Kash, county road engineer, the Cynthiana Democrat says: "It is estimated that the State Board of Health has appropriated $1,000 to eradicate typhoid from North street in Brushy Fork precinct. Dr. Hall, of the Department of Health of Frankfort, and the County Health Board of Health had instructed that all wells be closed and that carrying their wash water in the ditches. This will be done by the septic tanks. The council declared the road impassable and ordered that it be covered at once all sewers emptying into it. The road will be oiled by the State Board of Health. The work will undertake to adjust the matter so that the property owner will not be put to any expense to each of the property owners on the road."

Dr. Y. F. Scott was elected City Physician of Paris Monday night. He succeeds Dr. Overstreet, resigned.

Police Judge C. B. Thomas reported collections of fines amounting to $1,000 for the month of April to the amount of $10; fines reported.

A TEST FOR KENTUCKIANS

(Louisville Times)

"I am from Kentucky," has been for many years a password to the hearts of Kentuckians in foreign lands. Now this common saying has a passport among the people of Kentucky. Coming from the old Commonwealth is to be welcomed in all walks of life and society everywhere. But to what extent is the test of fealty and love of native State to be applied?

Such for the ex-patriates. What of the Kentuckian who has so much clear State that no pull has been possible to him? Must he, too, be compelled to send them to old Kentucky? If love for State is to be measured by the Federal Hill is as good as bought, under the present rule of party loyalty or superiority have been as sounding brass.

The appeal to Kentuckians to "Buy Old Kentucky Home" is a worthy one, and has been given, even as a call to the colors is given, but the test of love for State and by them who can respond. The Old Kentucky Home is the empty grave for Saville. Do his friends, Kentuckians have the right to call himself a Kentuckian and expound his views to the exiles?
