WILL MAKE SANITARY VISITS

Public Health Workers To Visit Counties For Sanitary Inspection

Public health workers in Kentucky soon will be graduated from the School of Public Health, operated jointly by the State Board of Health and the University of Louisville, in January. These men all will be sent to counties out in the State, and the Board of Health now is prospecting inquiries to learn where they are most needed and where they can be used most effectively.

Each of these men, in addition to having pursued technical and theoretical studies in the School of Public Health, last summer was given practical work under the supervision of the health officer in one of the full-time health departments.

In connection with its present investigation of the places where these men are the most badly needed, the Board of Health also is conducting an investigation to see what is the general need for sanitary inspection in order that, if it is found desirable, the facilities offered this class of workers in the School of Public Health may be expanded.

ESCAPE OFFICERS BY CATCHING FREIGHT

Paris, Ky., Dec. 22.—Sallie Green, Grace Parker and Eliza Gray, three 18-year-old girls who escaped from Police Inspector Katherine Keyes of Winchester, at Covington while the latter was taking them to the Convent of the Good Shepherd, made a short visit to Paris early this morning, but left on a freight train before they could be apprehended.

According to a story told by Charles Schaeffer, taxicab driver of Cincinnati, the three young women secured his services to drive them from Cincinnati to Paris last night, leaving the Queen City at about 9 o'clock and arriving in Paris at about 4 o'clock this morning. Upon their arrival, Schaeffer stated that he requested his fee of $30, which the girls had told him they would pay upon their arrival in Paris. His passengers "gave him the laugh" and thanked him for his kindness, he said, after he had taken them to the L. & N. station here.

Schaeffer called Chief of Police Fred Link, who hurried to the station. He found upon his arrival that two of the girls had escaped and were running through the L. & N. yards here. When Schaeffer turned his attention from the third girl, after Mr. Link's arrival, she too escaped. It is understood that the three later boarded a freight train and left Paris.

The three girls are the ones, it is claimed, who were confined for some time in the Winchester jail, and who were mentioned frequently in connection with the Hardman trial and attempted jail escape at Winchester.

The taxicab driver, who came without money, was furnished sufficient funds to take him to Cincinnati by order of Mayor

FIERY DRINK

A drink of moonshine whisky came near proving fatal to Will Ward, who resides near Tyrone, the liquor rendering him unconscious, eating the membrane of his tongue as tho it had been a powerful solution. Shortly after imbibing the liquor Ward was thrown into convulsions and it was scarcely possible to hold him on the bed.

Mrs. Patsy Ward, wife of the moonshine victim, swore out a warrant for Phil Norton, from whom her husband said, it is claimed, he had obtained the fiery liquor, charging him with unlawfully selling or giving away intoxicating liquor.

Norton was arrested and later gave bond for $300.

Ward is slowly recovering from the ill effects of the whiskey and altho his life was despaired of for a time, it is thought he will recover.—Harrodsburg Democrat.
