EXCHANGE WAR SAVINGS STAMPS FOR CERTIFICATES

Postmaster Wyatt Insko has pointed out that although the 1918 series of War Savings Stamps do not mature until January 1, 1923, the holders of these stamps are now privileged to exchange them at their face value of $5.00 each for Treasury Savings Certificates which will mature five years from January 1, 1923. Treasury Savings Certificates are issued in denominations of $1000, $500 and $25, costing $720, $12 and $20.50 each, respectively.

Postmaster Insko further stated that it was his opinion that a majority of the owners of the 1918 Stamps would take advantage of the government's offer to exchange them for Treasury Savings Certificate in order to eliminate the possibility of any further depreciation in the value of the 1918 War Savings Stamps.

All details in connection with the foregoing exchange can be secured at the local post office.

DEATH OF MAN FOUND NEAR RAILROAD PROVES

Danville, Ky., Nov. 27.—Authorities here are continuing an investigation into the shooting yesterday of Michael Neal, 26 years old of Oneida, Tenn., who was found in a semi-conscious condition Sunday afternoon within a few feet of the Southern Railway tracks two miles from this city. He died a short time after he was found at 227. He died while being brought to the hospital here.

Three persons arrested at Somerset when they alighted from an empty box car from a Southern freight train being pending an investigation were brought here today. Officials do not believe they are the guilty persons.

Walter Miller living near by, heard the shots and saw three negroes running from the place. The point where Neal before he died told him of the attack and robbery.

Neal had been in this vicinity for about six months.

MAN SEEKS $250 IN CHARGE; MUST PAY $15

Burley Association members as a rule are not rushing their stripping crops yet, as they did before the days of the pool. The receiving system of the association whereby members take their turn at delivering their crops has done away with the necessity of rushing loads to market to take advantage of good opening prices and comparatively clear breaks; the growers feel that their crops can take more time and grade their crops better than in the old days.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL CLOSES SATURDAY NIGHT

Campaign Extended Few Days In Order To Give Everyone An Opportunity To Give To This Cause

COUNTY FALLING FAR BEHIND

From Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day is the time fixed for the payment of annual dues of $1.00 to the American Red Cross. Campaigns are expensive and troublesome. Every dollar saved by the paying of dues will form his patriotic duty by paying his dues either with them or sending to Cross without solicitation.

Red Cross headquarters have been the subject of a drive of Sam K. Veach, and will be open every day from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m., until Saturday, December 2, when the campaign will close. Those who have not paid their dues are requested to call at the bank in Carlisle or at the Red Cross headquarters and pay their dues.

The Red Cross now appeals to every citizen to perform his duty, and have this appeal on services rendered in time of need, and to be rendered in the future.

Carlisle and Nicholas county people have not forgot the splendid service rendered by the Red Cross during the flood here in the summer of 1920. A few hours after the news of the flood was received Headquarters of the Red Cross arrived here with a check for $5,000 to relieve the flood sufferers. This money, or as much as was needed, was spent in purchasing food and household goods for persons who were in need. Money given in this great organization is used for such humanitarian purposes as this.

It is a source of deep regret that the citizens of the county have not responded more heartily to the call this year. Slightly over $100 is all that has been subscribed up to this time.

NICHOLAS IN THE DISTRICT

Organization of the Farmers Union Creamery Association, a concern capitalized at $250,000, was completed at a meeting of the stockholders at the court house in Maysville last Saturday afternoon.

Maysville is the headquarters for the first twelve districts in Kentucky to be treated for the cooperative marketing of cream, butter, eggs, poultry and other products under the auspices of the Farmers Union, whose state headquarters are located at 310 Security Trust building, Lexington.

The adoption of the constitution and bylaws and articles of incorporation which will be filed this week in the Fayette county clerk's office, the $250,000 corporation started in business, followed the election of directors.

Twelve district directors were chosen by the stockholders of the first district, composed of Mason, Brackin, Nicholas, Fleming, Lewis, counties of Kentucky and several Ohio counties. The directors are G. L. Carter, and John Dunn, Nicholas county; R. G. Downey and Pat Conoy, Mason county; C. D. Embry and H. Cline, Bracken county; Charles Marshall, George W. Hurst and Oscar Greer, Fleming county; W. T. Hughes, Lewis county, and C. W. Grimes representing the Ohio counties.

These twelve directors, according to the constitution and bylaws, elected three directors at large, as follows: J. F. Beatty, Lexington; E. L. Harrison, state president of the Farmers Union, Lexington; and H. C. Pierce, produce director of the Farmers Union. The fifteen directors next elected officers as follows: Elmer G. Downey, president; Pat Conoy, first vice president; C. D. Embry, second vice president, and E. L. Harrison, secretary and treasurer.

Following the organization of the company, a large central creamery will be erected at Maysville to handle all the milk that has been signed to the association. A poultry plant will not be established.

An active canvass has been made in this county for the past several weeks and many farmers have become members of the association, pledging their milk and poultry to the cooperative plan.

In the Ninth District, with Harrison and Bracknitt county missing, W. J. Fields, Democrat, received a total of 21,645 votes, while J. H. Brooks, Republican, received 11,454. Both missing counties give heavy Democratic majorities in normal years, and the actual majority of Mr. Fields was considered safe enough to issue the certificate for his Republican opponent.

SWIFT'S PRODUCE REVIEW

Bowing of live poultry a season-able feature in New York, as well as Chicago, and the movement continues heavy this week throughout producing sections. Arrivals of live poultry in New York alone are reported as 100 carloads, or about one third of the previous week.

Prices have eased off a little, due to increased receipts, but the most noticeable feature in New York was on ducks and geese, which were quoted at 26 and 27 cents respectively on November 15, and 19 and 20 cents on November 20.

Fresh eggs have been selling more slowly, due to high prices, with some accumulation in the warehouses. Extra fancy candled eggs are selling easier with a decline of fully 5 cents per dozen on the 20th.

The make of butter has just about reached the low point of the year, with higher prices ruling for butter in the larger markets. Some District butter of fine quality has reached 40 cents a pound in New York, and more in the wholesale way. The high markets will attract some shipments from New Zealand to arrive about the first of the year. The better grades of butter are in firm demand, the prices for butterfat are generally higher throughout the producing territories.

FARMING IMPLEMENTS WERE RUDE IN THE EARLY PERIOD

Implements of Agriculture Used By Pioneer Farmers In The County Were Extremely Crude

LOCAL MAN INVENTED PLOW

The implements of agriculture used in the early days were few and extremely crude. The "Carr" plow that was used for breaking up the ground had an iron bar and wooden mold board, and made a furrow about eight inches wide and about three inches deep. While the soil was fresh and had depth, the quality of the plowing was not an material. But when the soil began to be exhausted, particularly where the surface was hilly, the shallow plowing put the soil into a condition most favorable to be washed away by the first hard rain.

The process of clearing out a fresh piece of ground was so tedious and involved so much hard labor that the farmer raised the same kind of crop year after year on the same piece of ground. The result was the soil was exhausted, the land was washed into great gullies, and in that exposed and non-productive condition it was turned out into the commons. In many instances no effort was made to repair the waste that had been committed, but the old field was relegated again to Nature for her reclamation by whatever renovation powers she might possess.

Prior to 1840, the "Diamond" plow was introduced, and was a great improvement. It was a strong, steel mold-boarding plow, capable of plowing the ground any depth that might be desired. It was manufactured as far back as 1840 by T. J. McCormick, who lived on the Maysville and Lexington pike in Bourbon county. He had a shop near his home. Other plows were introduced the Diamond, but none were ever found to be more satisfactory.

In process of time the harrow came into use. The principle improvement in the present harrow from the first one is the increase in the width and number of teeth, thus adding to the weight and effectiveness. At first the harrow came the roller. He advanced step by step, and its crushing effect upon them was viewed with the liveliest satisfaction by the unfortunate boy who was driving the plow; but was regarded as just the proper age to hoe the corn.

Farmers are, gradually awakening to the folly of allowing their old fields to lie out fallow. A non-crop year is not only a loss of time and capital, but is a sad disfigurement upon the face of nature. To reduce fruitful land to a barren condition is a positive abuse of the bounty of a beneficent Creator.

At first the sickle was the only instrument used in harvesting wheat. The reaper would cut a "through" about four feet wide, binding the grain with his left hand as he cut it, then dropping it in bundles and tying it into bushes the grain he had just cut. That reaper cut about one acre per day. The wages paid ranged from fifty to seventy-five cents per day, leaving a margin of from two to three dollars for the binder.

In those days the grain, whether wheat, rye or oats, was separated from the straw by means of a flail. This consisted of two sticks of wood fastened together at the ends by a swivel, leaving a space of two or three inches between the ends of the sticks. One of the sticks, the one which the fallman took in his hands, was about six of eight feet in length, and the other was about half that length.

The bundles were untied and laid upon rails, underneath which was a sheet that received the grain and chaff as they were threshed from the straw. The grain was separated from the chaff by throwing both up in the air, and as the grain fell to the ground the chaff was blown away by the wind.

Afterward, the grain was trodden under the hoofs of horses, either upon the floor in the barn or upon the ground in the open air, and the grain and chaff were then separated by the use of the wind and sieve until, then ready to wheat fan.

The chief products of this county have remained very much the same since its formation as they are at the present time, corn, tobacco, hay, wheat, oats and rye. The existence of slavery before the civil war had very little effect upon the agriculture of the county. At the beginning of the civil war there were 2,250 slaves in the county. Most of them were owned by farmers living in the western and southern parts of the county.

ALL WRONG

The Mistake Is Made by Many Carlisle People

Look for the cause of backache. To be cured you must know the cause.

If it's weak kidneys you must set the kidneys working right.

A Carlisle resident tell you how.

Mrs. D. Sparks, Locust street, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills on different occasions and never had them fail to do me good. I was in a weak run down condition and backache was so severe I had to go to bed for two weeks. I was running a hotel and being on my feet so much caused the trouble. I was advised to use Doan's Kidney Pills so I got several boxes at Watkins and Squires' Drug Store. After using them, the trouble was ended. I take pleasure in recommending Doan's."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doans Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Sparks had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Does Chiropractic Cure Disease?

Chiropractic corrects the cause and nature restores the symptoms by back to health.

Subluxations are symptoms or a warning of some disorder of the body.

If you have fever or a cold or any digestive disorder, eye, ear, nose or throat trouble, kidney or bladder trouble, it can be corrected by adjusting the movable segments of the spine. These are not the only conditions we correct, but it applies to any disorder of the human body.

Hundreds of women have been relieved of painful suffering from female troubles through Chiropractic adjustment. Have your local Chiropractor correct your condition and enjoy health.

Always Use The Telephone Directory

Many times, every day, telephone patrons call the wrong number. This is bad for everybody. If you've been called out of bed at 4 o'clock in the morning by the wrong number, you're been madder than a hornet and you blamed Central for it, and the one who tried to call the party got mad, too, because there was a delay.

Here's a Safe Rule for Everybody— Consult the TelephoneBook.
