TO THE PARENTS!

Statistics carefully compiled by former United States Commissioner of Education, Dr. W. T. Harris show that of ten thousand men who have risen to prominence in the United States in the first hundred years of our history, not more than thirty were self-taught men; that a boy with only a grammar school education has one chance in nine thousand of reaching distinction.

"Dr. Harris says: "A boy with a high school training has one chance in four hundred; that is, he has twenty-two times the opportunity of the boy who stopped at the end of the eighth grade."

Dr. Harris further says: "It is necessary to extend high school to women. Education is practically but only door to efficiency."

The investigations of the First International Conference of Masonic Clubs show that neither power nor advantage is gained by entering as industry or an early age, and that the child who thus goes to work for wages closes behind him the door of progress to a living wage later. Two boys leave school, one at the end of the eighth grade, one after graduation from high school. Statistics show that at twenty-five years of age the high school graduate has received on an average of $500 more than the other man. From then on, his earning power is much greater. Statisticians have figured that each single month's high school training is worth a push. This is only a small part of the real benefit of a high school education.

Education increases the opportunities for greater success, for higher enjoyment and for a richer, fuller life. Education gives to every child's life may be one of drudgery without much compensation; a life of only limited enjoyment of the best in the home, in business, in literature and art; a life short of its greatest usefulness and influence among his neighbors and friends, a life with only limited opportunity and ability for service.

A high school education is not for the boy or girl who will work that he may achieve the richest reward for himself and the greatest good for others.

Consider these facts before you decide that your child shall not enter the high school.

Decide now that however great the sacrifice to yourself now, your child shall have a High School education.

BOOSTERS AND BOOSTED ED

Governor Morrow is to open the Republican campaign in Indiana at Evansville on September 19 and then will be home interest in Kentucky as to the subject matter of his address. ## PREPARING TO BURN WOOD

A good many of our citizens are putting in a good deal of wood with the purpose of avoiding the robbery which the coal operators are preparing to make at the expense of the people under the stipulation made by Gov. Morrow, at chairman and highbrow-mark of the coal distributors of the State, has given the coal operators of this State the right to charge $4.50 a ton at the mine, and no doubt that when the coal gets scarce and the weather gets cold he will give them leave to charge even higher than that. So it would be well for everyone who can to have a pile of wood by the time the frost begins to nights come on. No matter which they burn the coals, the consumer must pay the freight.—Flemingsburg Times Democrat.

A TERRAPIN TALE

(Anderson News)

When Sam Gadpel, a tenant on the farm of H. S. McBrayer, cleaned out his spring a few days ago he found a terrapin which supplies the stock with water. Wriggling ways were scanned from the mud and sediment which had accumulated during the past month.

From this same spring there came a terrapin ten years ago which Mrs. McBrayer, then a little girl, was feeding unmolested when the spring was cleaned out. The ointment and terrapin returned to its old accustomed stated in the last two years.

LIVING CONDITIONS BAD AT STATE REFORMATORY

Living conditions in the Kentucky State reformatory at Frankfort are so bad that the State board of charities and corrections is faced by the immediate necessity of providing additional space for housing prisoners. As a result the board is planning to utilize for living quarters a building now being used for a workshop.

There are now 890 white and 625 negro prisoners in the institution. There are 400 cells in the white section and 648 in the negro section. The cells for white prisoners are to be 7½ feet and those for negroes 5 feet 10 inches by 7½ feet. As a result of this condition two prisoners are housed in each of the cells in the white section.

OUT OF THE NEST

The boys are nearly laid away,
The pup neglects his bone,
And oldest girl is married off,
Unfriended and alone.
For he who held them all so long
Beneath his gentle rule
Has suddenly grown brave and strong
And pure-cured forth—to school.

He's put away the childish things
So lately his delight,
To try his downy little wings
In life's stern upper flight.
He trudges stoutly forth to meet
A world of strange affairs,
Where frightened boys may not retreat
To mother's slathering arms.

He's gone.
Yet gay adventures writ him there,
And presently he'll find
The friends we have and show as fair
As those he left behind.
And teachers may be stern and cold
But, gosh, life—when one is six years old—
Is pleasant, after all.

But there's a wound in mother's heart
That will not heal,
While Time, with all his healing art,
Can never take away
The knows that when from out the
The baby bird has flown,
The nest is empty long ere time for her.
He is not hers alone.

MANY FORMER PASTORS TO BE HERE FOR CENTENNIAL

ABOUT TEN MINISTERS HAVE SIGNIFIED INTENTION OF ATTENDING

ONE PASTOR 50 YEARS AGO

The committee in charge of arrangements for the centennial celebration and home coming of the Carlisle Christian church is following up the four days beginning September 5, have received letters from about ten former pastors of the church stating their intention of coming here for the occasion, and it is expected more will come.

Any person who have expressed their intention of coming for the event are: Judson H. Sweet, Owensboro; Wheeanis; Wallace Tharp, Pittsburg, Pa.; E. R. Bourland, Lancaster, Ky.; F. M. Tinder, North Middletown, Ky.; W. G. Eldred, Eminence, Ky.; E. T. Edwards, Georgetown, Ky.; D. W. Carr, Lexington, Ky.; E. J. Willis, Henderson, Ky.

One of the most interesting letters received is from James E. Flynn, of Milwaukee, who was pastor of the church here fifty years ago, and which in part, is as follows:

"It is a matter of pride to me that I preached amongst you as pastor of the Carlisle Christian church when it was fifty years of age, and it was further enhanced by the fact that near three was the first woman born of Sallie Harvey, who was my great-grandmother, and who was married to Mr. Flynn, my grandfather, both of whom lie in the old cemetery on the Cynthiana pike.

"It is a matter of pride to me that I was the first minister to be called to the Carlisle Christian church since its organization, and was further enhanced by the fact that three women born of Sallie Harvey, who was my great-grandmother, and who was married to Mr. Flynn, my grandfather, both of whom lie in the old cemetery on the Cynthiana pike.

"It is a matter of pride to me that I was the first minister to be called to the Carlisle Christian church since its organization, and was further enhanced by the fact that near three was the first woman
