'TWAS A HEALTHY PLACE

There are telling a story of a Tennessee farmer who was having a visit from a doctor who was an old friend. It was before the days of the high price pea pod outside the house, between a window where the family slept. The doctor noticed this and remarked to Mr. Tennessee that it "seemed to be a mighty unhealthy situation." The farmer replied that "the pizn had been kept there nigh onto twenty years" and he reckoned it had a pig die on account of the location of the pen."—Bowling Green Times-Journal.

ANNOUNCEMENT

To the Democrats of Kentucky:

I submit my formal announcement for Commissioner of Agriculture. Of my qualifications and honesty I refer you to my busy life and business such as Mercer or adjoining counties. My life has been spent in farming, livestock and merchandising. I am a practical farming business. With such experience and not be of much service to them.

CLELL COLEMAN,
Harrodsburg, Mercer County, Ky.

A few days ago, the writer talked to an Augusta physician about the building here he has been "carrying a lot" for, as mentioned. This man's wife is totally blind and has been so for several years, being helpless, practically. The husband has suffered acutely as if she were a baby. He did the cooking and other household work, and was every day. The husband never complains or seems to be too weary to look after the wants of his wife at any hour of the day or night. He takes the condition of his wife as a matter of course and says about his duties unexplainingly. Many of our residents could show the same spirit, week after week, month after month, and year after year, as this man has done.—Augusta Chronicle.
