Fear of the "chicken plague" prevalent in certain midwest states, has so intimidated the housewives of New York that all railroads serving that city Tuesday set up a solid embargo against shipments of live turkeys, chickens, ducks and geese. The railroads acted after health inspectors had rejected many car loads of poultry which arrived Monday.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

THE CARLISLE MERCURY Eight Pages

ESTABLISHED 1867

VOL. LVII. CARLISLE, NICHOLAS COUNTY, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1924 NUMBER 81

The following is the sixth of a set ist of 9 lessons on "The Proper Use of Light." Don't fail to read each lesson, as they are highly instructive.

LESSON NO. 6

LIGHTING THE DINING ROOM

In some ways the dining room is just the opposite of the living room. Whereas in the living room the furniture is moved about and changed in form to suit the occasion, the arrangement of furniture rarely changes.

The dining table is in the center of the room, and is the most important piece of furniture. It should be the most brightly lighted object in the whole room. Hence the ceiling fixture should be directly over the table. It should be hung from the ceiling and almost all of them may be used improperly to provide bad lighting.

THE CENTER CEILING FIXTURE.

Whatever the kind of fixture, it is important that the eyes of each person seated at the table be shielded against the glare of the bulbs which furnish the light. Usually there are two ways to do this. 1. By using a shade which is large enough, and of the right shape. For example, a shade which is shown a foot or more wide (A) is well shaded and the one only 8 inches wide (B) is badly shaded.

The shade which is narrower at the bottom protects the eyes of only the person at the table. The one given shaded at the bottom gives light over the table (but not too low as to be in the way of) and makes it impossible to see the person sitting opposite).

Now look at the fixture in (C) and (D). When the fixture is as high above the table as it is in (C) the glare from the bulb is directly at the eyes of everyone seated at the table, but if it is pulled down close to the table as in (D) the fixture completely lights the bulb, and we have excellent light for dining without glare. For most fixtures it is best to see that the bottoms of the shades is not more than 26 inches above the table. For (D), where candle fixtures are used, shades are necessary to protect the eyes from the glare, but to reflect some of the light which would otherwise go up to the ceiling or down on the floor.

The fixtures over the table will need bulbs with a total of from 200 to 250 watts.

OTHER LIGHTING

Brackets on the walls and candlesticks on the buffet may be used. The same rules provided they are well shaded and are not so bright as to be annoying, to produce glare and eyestrain. Bulbs of 25 watts or more should not be larger than 15 or 25 watts.

Convenience outlets should be installed on the dining room. If used on the dining table the convenience outlet may be placed in the floor under the table, or on the under side of the table itself, so that the unsightly cord need not hang from a bulb socket and cause the shade to be pulled down to one side. Proper convenience outlets which permit the use of electric appliances may be installed for practically the same cost as the other style single outlets.

Dear Santa Claus:

I am a little girl five years old. Just big enough to play with dolls. Please bring me a doll that can cry and say mama and bring me a little stove, a set of dishes, a little dresser, some good candy and plenty of nuts. Please don't forget my little brother. He is only five months old so it won't want much for him. Don't forget mama and daddy, bring them something nice. I will be a good little girl and look for you Christmas Eve night. From Christine Crump.

Dear Old Santa Claus:

I will write you a letter to tell you that I want for Christmas. I want a little boy six years old and I have never been to see you. But I can talk Santa and tell her what to say. I would like very much to have some things for Xmas and after you have gone to see all the other little children if you have anything left, I would like to have them. I have a little brother two years old and of course he don't know what he wants but Santa bring him a doll It is a boy for he has been good and a kiddy car, and anything else you ought to have. Don't forget Santa you come to see my little cousins living Wesley, a wagon and horse. Also a doll and don't forget Matthew and Mary Ann Stephenson's and Sam Hall's something. Remember mother and daddy and my grandparents. I am looking for you. So good luck and good bye. Your little boy, Billie Mastin.

Your Store Pogue's in Cincinnati
"The Store for All People"

Christmas is only a few days away. If you have put off your buying until now, you will have to hurry. Perhaps you cannot decide upon what to give. Let Jane Alden, our personal shopper, help you. Come in and see her or write her a letter and tell her what you want. Give her a list of the people you want presents for. Tell her their names and ages. Tell her about how much money you want to invest. Put it up to Jane. She will be glad to select things for you.

You can depend upon Jane Alden's good judgment.

Write or Telephone your Christmas orders if you cannot come to the store. Just call Pogue's "Main 4700" and ask for Jane Alden.
