Fall Cutting of Alfalfa

The experience of farmers last winter indicates that it is not good practice to cut alfalfa too late in the fall. Then should be left a growth of six inches or more for cover and protection through the winter.

It is seldom advisable to cut alfalfa in this county later than the middle of September, while in many cases no damage would be done from pruning and heering, yet growers would be taking chances by leaving the ground exposed.

Since the recent rains I believe the late fall growth will be heavy, this can best be utilized by grazing, being careful to leave enough length to the stems to afford some protection during the winter. Cutting the alfalfa field would be a splendid place to build up the cows before winter sets in, close grazing however, will shorten the life of the crop and reduce the yield of hay harvested next year.

Some farmers have expressed fear that failure to cut alfalfa may injure the stand, but experience has proven that such practice is real ly beneficial to the plants. Many experienced alfalfa growers are now making a practice of cutting their last crop but twice a year whereas they formerly cut the crop 3 times per year. The two cuttings will yield a greater tonnage of hay per season than the three cuttings and the crop will stand through a longer period of years if it is not cut so often.

POULTRY ITEMS

Whether pool halls will be large or small, the question of house cleaning and sanitation cannot justifiably be not make the mistake of trying to crowd too many birds in to more house or pullets than the house will comfortably accommodate.

There seems to be a fairly definite limit to the number of eggs that can get from a house of any given size. Crowding more than the right number of birds into the house is not likely to result in more eggs but in more loss.

If housing conditions are satisfactory, it is usually best to keep too many are kept together in which to eat together, such hen is the flock will be lower and the profit from the would produce. Make small flocks the rule and then study out under whether she is laying well or profitably. Any hen that does not earn by on highest priced land, it pays to keep necessary to turn to dinner. Such hens are boarders every banker and farm leader see to it.

A SCHOOL SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS OLD

The only school in Kentucky founded and maintained solely for the purpose of training teen age orphan girls, unable otherwise to obtain an education that will make them self-supporting, is the Kentucky Female Orphan School located at Midway, Kentucky. The school is small, accommodating but one hundred and forty, while annually a good many about one hundred and fifty for want of room and equipment.

The beginning was made seventy-five years ago with sixteen girls in the student body. Rev. Lewis L. Pinkerton first caught the vision of such a practical wisdom of James Ware Parrish helped materialize the dream. Under their fostering care the board is composed of members of the Christian Church, and when it comes to the student body, the foundation is as broad as humanity. While most of the pupils are members of the Christian Church, children of all faiths and of no faith at all are welcome. About four hundred young women have been graduated from the school.

The school authorities have been men and women of vision. They have insisted on teachers real educators attracted by the high character of service rendered rather than by the salary paid.

No school develops higher character than one founded upon the Bible, learn to cook, to sew and to keep house, and in addition to these, they study profoundly. A diploma means a thorough education. The principal Mrs. Ella Johnson Mountjoy, has held this position for more than twenty years and has associated with her ten splendid women as assistants in the work.

The school was opened on October 1, 1924, with an enrollment of 140. On October 5, 1924, the Christian Women's Board of Missions will participate in the birthday services to be held in many of the Christian Churches and Sunday Schools of the state. Birthday gifts in money will be received by these services and forwarded to the Kentucky Female Orphan School. Kentucky Day will be set aside by W. J. Clarke, Financial Director.

KENTUCKY DAIRY SITUATION SURVEYED

One third of all the dairy cows in the state of Kentucky is losing money, a third is making up for what the first third is losing and other third is reaping profits for their owners, according to a survey of the state dairy situation, just completed by the Blue Valley creamery Institute. Better feeding and better breeding is the solution of this problem, the Institute asserts.

"The state of Kentucky," continues the report of the Institute "has 1,000,000 dairy cows" Think of her farms. In 1909 the state had 2.45 per cent of all the dairy cows in the United States; in 1924 —2.24 per cent. In 1919 the state had 78 heads of all kinds of cattle per one thousand acres of improved land. Now, in 1924, it has only 70 head. A few head more or less matters little. Have they improved in fourteen years? What will they be found to be fourteen years hence? These are the questions on which the Institute's experts will enlighten the farmers.

"Farmers want happiness and contentment. To get it they must make money. There are two ways of doing this—one for what you produce or lower cost of production. A quarter saved is 25 grain cost of producing a hundred pounds of milk by feeding better milk making grain rations, a dime saved in producing a hundred pounds or dozen of eggs is money ahead for the farmer. We don't need more cows, hogs or farms, but better ones. More efficient animals mean more profits. Our state's average is one hundred pounds of milk and butter fat per cow per year, the entire state's income went to farmers. Think of manufacturing the state's experts point out.

There has been a steady fall of popularity in intensive farming as agriculture is brought face to face with higher costs of production and lower prices that only cannot get by on highest priced land. It pays to keep necessary to turn to dinner. Such hens are boarders every banker and farm leader see to it.

COUNTRY CHILDREN ARE THE HEAVIEST LOSERS

About 20 millions of American children have just begun their school year of 1924-25. Each one of them should attend as nearly 200 school days as possible. That is the length of school term, in our 9 months' schools. On the average, children are in school not much more than 145 days. For rural schools the term is much shorter. The cost of keeping the schools open will be not less than 1¾ billions of dollars. It has been estimated approximately correctly that every day in school is worth from $14 to $15 to a child because he will be able to earn that much more in later years. It is fair then to say that 20 millions of children attending 145 days each this coming year represent actual production by the schools of some 50 billions of dollars of potential wealth, nearly thirty times the expenditure for the schools.

Not many investments are as good as that or pay such enormous dividends. We could estimate the school day as worth much less than $14 a pupil and still have many times a good justification for all the money we spend on education. But great as the return is we can not afford to reduce it by keeping children out of school or by letting them go irregularly. A child ought not to throw away a $14 day for any trivial reason. In a few years he will be compelled to compete with others who have made the most of that day and of as many

Its double utility satisfied a most urgent need—it is revolutionary as the self-starter and electric lights.

And the price is the same as that of the open car—with advantages in cloth, fittings, room and comfort no open car could ever give!

Framed and shaped in steel, the upper part of the Duplex Body is built integrally with the lower part—it functions perfectly with the lower part—it is permanently beautiful.

But even without the "double-value" of the Duplex Body the new Standard Six would still be the same great Studebaker success. For its introduction marks the beginning of an era in the automobile industry when fine cars of real quality, plenty of room and comfort, impressive appearance, splendid power and performance may be had at a price the average buyer can afford to pay.

Experience what real comfort means in plenty of room, soft deep cushions, genuine balloon tires; long, supple springs.

The new Standard Six will tell you a story as it has never been told before by any other car in Standard Six price.

NICHOLAS COUNTY FAIR THIS WEEK

Big Agricultural Fair Will be Held In Growers Warehouse in Carlisle On Friday and Saturday, October 10 and 11

MANY PREMIUMS ARE OFFERED

Nicholas county's free agricultural fair will open Friday morning at nine o'clock in the tobacco warehouse on Sand Main street, with a good list of exhibits in every department. The stalls and booths have all been erected and everything made ready for the opening of the big display of agricultural, school and domestic science products.

The fair is being given under the supervision of County Agricultural Agent B. W. Anderson, who has worked tirelessly to make it a success, and from the interest manifested in the fair it will be well rewarded.

All is believed the fair will draw one of the largest crowds seen in Carlisle for many months, both on Friday and Saturday. Besides the agricultural and domestic science exhibits there will be a number of displays from the college of agriculture at Lexington, as well as from the Kentucky Tobacco Growers Association and a number of displays put on by local firms.

Athletic contests, a mock trial of a scrub race on Friday evening, music and other entertainment have been arranged, and there will be a full moment during the two days.

The fair will be the first fair held in Carlisle for many years, and will be held under the most favorable circumstances. It is the first in the past year agricultural fairs, corn fairs, school fairs, etc., are held but were never planned on so large a scale as the one to be held Friday and Saturday.

Space for booths have been cleared by the following: Frank Cooper & Chastlain, Howard Hardware Co., Brentfield Bros., Hopkins Drug Co., Carlisle Drug Co., Sam T. Howe & Co., R. T. Kirkland & Co., Carlisle Milling Co., Swift & Co., Central Ky. Motors, Inc., Ford Store, Miss Nancy Smoot, Ky. Children's Home Society, O. M. Scherer, Carlisle Building Supply, George H. Noyes, Frank C. Powell, H. C. Galbraith, Carlisle Mercury.

All exhibits must be in by 10 o'clock Friday morning, as the fair will begin promptly at 7 o'clock a free dance, open to the public, will be given. The dance will be out in the open air, and everybody is invited to attend the old fiddlers contest at the court house.

Through the courtesy of Miss Carrie Hall, Manager of Swift & Co's. local creamery, who has agreed to buy milk from individual cows in any quantity that may be on hand during the fair, free of charge during the Agricultural Fair.

This is an opportunity for all persons who own cows and desire to know the quality of milk they are getting this knowledge with very little trouble and at no expense. It will be worth any man's while to prepare a sample of milk and bring it to the fair grounds on the fair and have an accurate test made.

To prepare a suitable sample milk your cow dry and all of her milk into a pail, stir the milk thoroughly, then dip out about one-half pint pour it into a clean bottle or can and bring it to the fair ground. It will be best to prepare the sample in the morning of the day you intend to bring it in for testing. Free testing will be done both Friday and Saturday. Bring in your sample and see them tested, thus determine whether your cows are the milk produced by your cows.

TAXES OVERCOAT, HEATS BOARD BILL AND SKIPS

A warrant has been issued in county court for the arrest of, George Vaughn, Carlisle negro, white man, wanted here on charges of larceny and defrauding a boarding housekeeper. Hesdorf, who has been boarding with Mrs. Ida Curtis for the past few weeks, left last Thursday, leaving a board bill of $27 unpaid. As warrant belonging to the boarding house keeper was taken, it is reported by Hasdorf.

The authorities here notified Chief of Police Fred Link, of Paris, to be on the lookout for Hasdorf, and Mr. Link stated he had a warrant from Chattanooga for Hasdorf. He has not been located.

Hasdorf has been employed with the company which has the contract for oiling the state roads in this county. He was discharged about two weeks ago.

AGED MONTGOMERY MAN SAVES INVALID NEPHEW

Lewis Anderson, afflicted son of the late David E. Anderson, of Montgomery county, was seriously burned about the face and hands last night when the cottage he occupied was destroyed by fire. The boy lived alone in a cottage in the rear of the home of his uncle, George W. Anderson, and it is thought that the fire started in the kitchen.

George W. Anderson, 84, years old, despite his advanced age, rushed into the building and succeeded in bringing the boy out, being badly burned himself. Owing to his extreme age his condition is serious. Young Anderson is one of the wealthiest men in Montgomery county.

Options Taken on Licking Dam Site

80 Per Cent of Options On Proposed Dam Have Been Secured

S. E. Touchet, of Indianapolis, representing the Northern Kentucky Power Company, has taken options on the land on both sides of Licking river as far up as the flood will reach if the proposed hydro-electric dam is built near Falmouth, according to a statement made to the Falmouth Outlook.

Options have been secured on eighty per cent of the land which will be covered, the paper states. Touchet has been in the city in touch with Mr. Teacher for the past three weeks getting options through the Licking valley. Having secured 80 per cent of the land on the dam site project, the company is now in position to go ahead with the work. The remaining lease may be acquired and condemned through courts, but it is believed options will be given another opportunity, Mr. Teacher said.

The terminus of the great lakes which the Licking river navigation dam will create is at Myers Station. Here a large terminal will be constructed, will be similar to the one at the present site of construction on Ohio river.

Mr. Teacher has made numerous trips to Carlisle in the past few months, and has become well acquainted with many of the business men here.

New Storage and Redrying Plants To Be Built May Mean Saving Of Million Dollars in the Handling of Crop

CARLISLE TO HAVE NEW PLANT

Directors of the Burley Tobacco growers Cooperative Marketing Association at the meeting held in Lexington last week approved arrangements made by the executive committee for the erecting and storage of the 1924 crop by authorization of the Licking river valley. Having secured 80 per cent of the tobacco in the district, the company is now in position to go ahead with the work. The remaining lease may be acquired and condemned through courts, but it is believed options will be given another opportunity, Mr. Teacher said.

The terminus of the great lakes which the Licking river navigation dam will create is at Myers Station. Here a large terminal will be constructed, will be similar to the one at the present site of construction on Ohio river.

Mr. Teacher has made numerous trips to Carlisle in the past few months, and has become well acquainted with many of the business men here.

Additional redryers at Carlisle, Carrollton, Cynthiana and Maysville, it was stated, will complete the association to serve a considerable section of the district not yet so organized. CLINTONVILLE MURDERERS MAY SECURE NEW TRIAL

Elmer Hall, George Parrell and Richard Shannon, all of Clintonville, Ky., who were sentenced to die in the electric chair October 24, by a jury in Bourbon circuit court several months ago, for the murder of Frank Buckman, prominent retired farmer, during an attempted holdup of the Clintonville, Bank, probably will be granted a thirty-day stay of execution, according to Attorney Phillip Ryan, of Paris, counsel for the condemned men.

Attorney Ryan reported such an appeal was taken to the Kentucky Court of Appeals at Frankfort after the three men were allowed until November 7 to file briefs. As soon as it takes the Court of Appeals a week, or ten days to pass on the appeal, the court must be granted. It is customary to grant a sixty-day stay, it was said.

The trial of the three men and Charles Mullins, who, however, was sentenced to life in the penitentiary, was the most sensational in the history of Bourbon county, and was followed closely by jurists after deliberation of less than 30 minutes.
