An Editorial.

An editorial, according to old man Noah Webster, is "a leading article in a newspaper or magazine, published as the expression of the views of the editor." Keep that in mind, if you please, as you read this screed.

From where we (availing ourselves of the prerogative of the editorial plural) sit, the good years 1924, every promise of being an "open season," so to speak, on the expression of editorial views, (Chamberlain's hair-dope and 2½ grains of powder.) A deal of "material," of the high-explosive type is to be dealt with, if one takes his job seriously and attempts to give each problem its proper consideration.

First, particularly in this county, is the "tobacco question." There can be little doubt of the attitude of the majority of the growers in Nicholas county as to that question. Most of them seem to have that "passing a crop" will solve the problem of tobacco growers. As it remember we said in a former editorial they will not solve the problem by a "cut-out," for the whole tobacco-growing area has been enormously wiseed since the formation of the cooperative system of marketing. No longer is Kentucky king of the burley-producing world, either states grow a larger crop of the burley type as well as Kentucky. We have gotten "done to death" with the idea that it is the control part of Kentucky, to do the raising of white burley. As the editor of this paper sees it, we are back into the frog in the hole. In this instance we are likely to pay of our self ourselves too much.

No one can deny that the reduction of acreage, if accomplished, will settle the problem of the tobacco raiser. But that "if" is a conglomeration of ponderous dimension to this case. Mr. Land, of the cooperative organization says that the "amount is on." That means that a number of tobacco growers have declared that it is best to "pass a crop." Just how far their declaration is representative of the whole of some of the growers of their respective counties depends upon viewpoint.

Reciprocal Noah's definition is in mind, we are unable to see anything to a much more as the solution of the tobacco question. Nature is strong in its manifestations. Tell us we can't control a cyclone, a tornado or a flood, but we can. On the other side is the man who has control of a "cut-out" in the best thing for him and for his neighbor, whether his neighbor thinks so or not. Ponder and how!

And so, looking forward on 1925, we see it as a year full of potentialities, a year of editorial opinion may be dangerous, but to be it unreasoning Webster, you have a the expressor license, and that's the way I look at it. And that's that.

O-TOBER RECORD MONTH FOR TESTING OF CATTLE

More cattle were tuberculin tested during the month of October, 1924, in the nation-wide campaign to eradicate bovine tuberculosis than were ever tested in any previous month, according to a summary of work just compiled by the United States Department of Agriculture. A total of 642,652 cattle were given the tuberculin test during next month by the force of veterinarians engaged by the Government and those cooperating in managing the costly cattle plague.

This exceeds by more than sixteen thousand the previous record number of cattle tested in one month. In Nov., 1924, there were tested 626,417 cattle, which was the highest number until the recent month of October. The total number of cattle now under supervision for the eradication of tuberculosis is 8,134,875. There the work of tuberculosis eradication is popularly supported is shown by the fact that in a waiting list of more than two and one-half million cattle whose owners desire to have them tested as soon as practicable.

Of the 642,652 cattle tested in October there were 24,402 which reacted to the test, indicating that they were tuberculous. Such animals are immediately disposed of in accordance with regulations for the prevention of their eating as spore of the infection of tuber-

NO MORE GOSSIP

(Louisville Herald).

The late lamented Legislature of Kentucky, passed among many others bills good, bad and indifferent, one that is no new as to be more than one hundred years behind the times. It is called the "anti-gossip law," and prohibits the spreading by word of mouth, reflections upon character not capable of proof and not in the public interest. The libel laws we have but with the many years but they have touched only or chiefly the publication in print of statements of the sort described. The newspaper does not print a statement to the effect that a certain specified person is a criminal or a liar unless they are prepared to prove it and in addition to prove that it is to the public interest to publish it. But so far the home tongue has gone unrestrained.

Gossip is one of the chief diversions of the people everywhere. Some of it, most of it perhaps is harmless enough. It is simply talk about people and as people are the most interesting things in our lives it is natural that we should like to talk about them and reasonable too. A great deal of this talk is critical and there is no harm in that. If a friend of ours happens to be stupid there is no reason for not mentioning it to other friends who have good reason for mentioning it to him. It may be a hard fact but it is a fact. It will do our reputation for perspicacity more harm than it will do him.

But unfortunately we humans have a predilection for saying of a person sort of goody round in the bush when one appears within our range who is more popular or more accomplished than we. That what we call "human nature" to which we have no wish to do violence. If we find none we may invent it. Most of them do that by making others believe it we come to believe it ourselves. Then the mere gossip of this sort has ruined men's careers and perhaps women's. It is completely unjust but where there is some basis of truth that, exaggerated out of all proportions, becomes almost as bad as if it were all a thing that the Kentucky Legislature was thinking of perhaps when it passed the "anti-gossip" law.

In Owensboro, Mr. Busham is said to have been convicted under a statute that makes malicious slanderous remarks about the police officers. Sooner or later it will be impossible for the state one's private opinion of the Legislature or even one's wife. A pretty condition of affairs. If this thing goes on at the rate it has been going most of us will lose the use of our tongues. But if we can not gossip what is there to say?

ONE DAY'S MAJOR TRAGEDIES

(Lexington Herald.)

On one page of one issue of The Herald there were accounts of three children being electrocuted by a live wire, three adults, a grandmother, a son and a grandaughter, being killed by gas, a man being wounded with a shotgun, a child crashing into a burning home to rescue her three children and giving her life in the effort, 20 persons being killed and a score and more probably maimed or blind by a flood in Virginia, a list of 16 being wounded by a conspiracy after a duel in which they shot at each other from a car which could shoot the bear," the number of deaths in the holocaust at Hobart increased to a maximum of 34, a husband, his wife, their daughter and a brother killed at a train crossing, an account of the being by the jury in the McCoy murder case, the test made to ascertain the cause of the death of the "millionaire orphan" in Chicago.

All of these during Christmas week, the period when "peace and good will" reign on earth. all of these in the greatest nation of the civilized world. These tragedies, these deaths, accidental some, intentional others, are only a few of the total when the comparatives. The highly limited scope of the news gathering agency could ascertain. It seems useless to make comment. If the mere recitation of the facts, inadequate as is this recitation, does not stir private citizens and public officials to earnest endeavor to prevent such tragedies, no comment nor suggestion could possibly have effect.

BARLOW SHIPS SEVEN HORSES TO MIAMI

Last Wednesday's Lexington Herald had the following account of the shipment of horses belonging to L. S. Barlow, of Lexington, formerly of Carlisle. Mr. Barlow is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Barlow, of this city.

Seven thoroughbreds, the property of L. S. Barlow, of this city, were shipped yesterday for Miami, where they will be campaigned during the coming season in charge of Joseph Hatfield who has been with the Barlow horses for five years.

The string is headed by the veteran, Squire Wiggins' with others being Ada Doc, Dancing Blasonria, Quince Bush, Doc Barlow and Asbleton Star. Mr. Barlow has three yearlings that he has been tuned with.

Mr. and Mrs. Barlow will motor with friends to Miami about the first of the year and will remain throughout the meeting.

THE TRIBUTE TO WOODROW WILSON

Wilson, and the President of the University of Virginia appropriately delivers the memorial address in Charlottesville. Then Dean Winston Cole or grow as time goes on! To ask the question—Is Woodrow Wilson and the shouting die, the little actors drop out of sight, the great speakers about it are forgotten in Congressional Record. Yet this thing that Wilson kept the faith and died for has lived on. In 1919 it seemed that he had failed, but he has not failed. The vision of a just and world-wide Peace, and it is becoming a loftier Peace, and it is becoming a truer one we are learning the lesson that Wilson taught us that it is true for many years in the hills of the Legislature, but he does not say what.

A QUERY TO PARENTS

Child Health Talks by Dr. Joanida C. Jennings, Assistant Director Child Hygiene, Health, State Board of Health, Louisville, Ky.

In many communities doctors and nurses are working in schools endeavoring to give your child a better chance for health than they had. They weigh and measure the children and notify the parents of conditions found. Are you, as parents doing your part by cooperating with this health movement, Answer for yourself the following questions:

1. Are you teaching your child to eat fresh fruits daily?
2. Are you practicing what you teach?
3. What does the school health program mean to you?
4. Do you ever visit your school?
5. Do you know the sanitary condition and equipment of the institution?
6. Do you know the district superintendent, teacher, school, doctor and nurse who look after your school?
7. Do you have anything to do with the selection of your teacher or school doctor?
8. Did you employ the best one or the cheapest?
9. Did you ever see a school medical examination?
10. Have you scales in your home?
11. Is your child's weight recorded regularly on these scales?
12. What are you doing to keep your child well?
13. Do you respond promptly to the suggestions which the doctor finds found by having corrections made?
14. Do you serve a hot lunch at your school? If not, why not?
15. Do you provide the right sort of lunch-box for your child? Is it filled with "trash" or with fruit? Does it include a bottle of milk in his lunch box?

Answer these questions honestly and your child can receive the attention he deserves.

BILL'S IN TROUBLE

I've got a letter patron from my boy away out west,
And in it makes me feel as heavy as a chest
Of gold would on my breast,
I think the boy whose future
Is in such a fix
Should wander from the path to right and come across an extra

hold him when he left so only three short years ago,
But he's gone in a slightly crooked row—
Oh, I wish I had the courage to resist,
And as he left I warned him o the ever waitin' snares,
But like fiddlers dance to music in life's pathway everywhere.

But Bill he promised faithful to be Hard build a reputation that would;
He'd build a reputation that would make him famous
It seems as if my counsel not
Or failed from his mind,
As was the fate of trouble of the very wantest kind.

His letters come so seldom, that I almost feared
But Billy was a-tramplin' on
Some rocky road,
But never once imagined he would
Be one to shirk
In the dumb waiter his ol' dad
Up's heart.

He writes from out in Denver as the country's most excellent
But can't tell his mother.
It was her boy her grew
So as I reckon, person, you might
Be one to know
Bill's in the Legislature, but he
Ain't any wiser.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When a word is to be guessed it is placed in the white of the six sheets which words both vertically and horizontally. The clues intended to be indicated by a number, which refers to the relative position in the puzzle. Thus, if the number is 1 the clue will be found below the puzzle. Then in the white spaces in the puzzle the word which will fit the white squares is to be found. Each word which will fit the white squares is to be found. Each word which will fit the white squares is to be found. Each
