THE CARLISLE MERCURY

ESTABLISHED 1867

VOL. LVIII. CARLISLE, NICHOLAS COUNTY, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, MARCH 15, 1923. NUMBER 11

A game preserve containing 1 600 acres has been purchased by sporting club at Louisville.

Dr. M. A. Brown, prominent Winchester citizen, died at his home Tuesday at the age of 74 years.

Clarence Matthews, editor of the Maysville Public Ledger, has been appointed as postmaster at Maysville.

Benjamin McElroy 27, negro, was shot and killed by Hardy Grant, Louisville patrolman, who he resisted arrest.

The Kentucky Power Co., Ashland, has purchased the electric light and franchise at Mt. Olivet, from Herman Bruninger.

Clarence Lee, aged colored man was burned to death when his residence near Brooksville, Bracken county, was destroyed by fire.

Three brothers of Floyd Collins, Sand Cave victim, have filed petitions to have their father, Lee Collins, disqualified as administrator.

A mint farm with 18 goats imported from Switzerland, from the milk of which cheese will be manufactured, has been established in Kentucky.

The Kentucky Military Institute near London, which would be forced to close its doors unless another year has been declared bankrupt by federal judge Dawson.

J. L. Cardoza, who claims to be a Christian scientist, was killed on the grand jury at Ashland on charge of detained a woman against her will.

Fire persons were injured, one of them critically, in the burning of a gas explosion in the Pratt coal mine at Pratt, a mile south of Drift. The mine will was being drilled near Owensboro.

At Ashland last week, Joe Amery, 21 years old, was sent to life imprisonment for manslaughter in the murder of Oliver Cline, wife, filling station employe, who was held up and killed.

John Montgomery, 18 years old, farmer and his daughter, Glad Fee, years old, of near Lancaster, were arrested charged with the murder of Mrs. Montgomery, mother of the girl and wife of the farmer, whose body was found in the ground and burned.

Orville Stevens, of Bellevue, whose conduct last year in being classed as automobile thief ring of Campbell county, was sentenced to three years imprisonment last week in the penitentiary at Frankfort by Judge Lassing.

Winchester was named as the place for holding the 1923 convention of the Women's Missionary Society of the Kentucky Conference of the M. E. Church South and the Christian Endeavor of the world's held in Paris last week.

During the first six months and 22 days that the Kentucky River Dam at Tyrone was in effect 15 locks were removed. $1,500,414.14 is the amount of money that has been paid to autoowners under made Tuesday by the state road commissioner.

Roy J. Weatherall, 21, of Paris, held to a light estate left him in trust by his father, was arrested charged by a jury in criminal court with the murder of Judge Porter announced sentence would be passed Monday.

A four year old son of Joe Fox, of Calloway county, died from an accident recently. The boy was running about a farm yard with a wood chip in his mouth which he stumbled and fell, driving the chip much into broken down his throat.

Walter Chaney, negro, was convicted in the Boyle circuit court yesterday by a jury at Harrodsburg for manslaughter in the killing of Ward Winkle, white, of 264 Elkhorn, last November. The defendant showed a race riot among workers, which had to be quelled by troops.

Mrs. Aubrey Turner, of Mercer county killed a hawk which menaced her hen with her bare hands last week. Mrs. Turner discovered the hawk in the act of carrying away a hen and engaged it in battle. Her husband was hunted before she was able to crush the bird's head with her foot.

Augustus Singer com- "Jake," has been pleted a sentence of 18 months in the penitentiary, which he began in 1918, but was released on parole. He was returned to complete his sentence.

THE IMPORTANCE OF HOME CONTROL OF CHILDREN

Child Health Talks by Dr. Juanita Hoff, Assistant Director, Division of Child Health, State Board of Health, Louisville.

To my physician who works in a Child Health Conference the importance of home control of children is very evident.

Another gives the mother to overcome the malnutrition existing in her underweight child. Some mothers do not realize because the child cannot be made to obey instructions given the mother.

The mother cannot get him to eat the proper kind of food for health and growth, to go to bed for health habits, and bring the family to avoid the embarrassment, becomes a piece of drift- wood in his environment.

Like most acquired characteristics in normal child, obedience is a matter of training. So first, where there is no obedience, it must be assumed that there has not been proper training, and the fault is with the parents. The child with an underweight child with an underweight child with obedience is the former need dealing with the problem. This is difficult for the mother who must intersperse with her child's breaking up her daily routine. She will permit the physician to take time for Billy's health. Naturally, however, she will not permit him to take time for Billy's training. Yet training is as important as health. Indeed, it is impossible to establish the fullest rule with disobedience.

It is important that mothers learn to distinguish in what is and what is not obedience. There are so many mothers who have questions concerning the proper training for children, that there has been organized a child hygiene clinic in connection with the Child Welfare Conference, where the mother has a health problem and her child can be examined and advice to it and teach her how to train her child. Mothers who live in the child will. One of the things we fail in teaching children is that the child is allowed to disobey with impunity because parents do not "see" him disobey, or do not know when they say it.

FEATHERED FRIENDS OF OURS

BARN SWALLOWS AND MARTINS

By Alvin R. Grimes, Assistant Extension Department, International Harvester Company.

The barn swallow is just a trifle smaller than the martin, but has a longer tail and more wing spread. Its color is a steel blue, with a reddish tinge on the under parts. The only time the barn swallow is on the ground is when it is getting the pellets of mud which it uses in building its nest on the rafter of a barn or shed. The chicken is the only bird that I have seen which uses mud in building its nest. The barn swallow is one of the most graceful birds that we have. It is almost constantly driven out over the water eating bird. Sometimes it will alight on the ground to get a mouthful of mud, but it will not stay there long. It