HOW LIME INCREASES CROPS

Making Two Dollars Grow Where One Grew

Every farmer would like to make two dollars grow where only one grows now. In fact he does by soil feeding. In fact you must soil to feed soil, if you would get the most from you. It has been shown by experiments that the application of lime to the state, the ground up rocks found on your farm, will greatly increase the soil-rebuilding and in increasing the yield of crops. The following figures are taken from actual experiments of lime:

Crop	Yield Per Acre	After Lime
Mammoth Clover	1566 lbs.	3063 lbs
Clover Hay	1566 lbs.	3063 lbs
Alfalfa	1566 lbs.	2760 lbs
Soy Bean Hay	1566 lbs.	4386 lbs
Wheat	22.5 bu.	31.5 bu.
Corn	29.7 bu.	39.6 bu.
Oats	102 bu.	160 lbs
Cow Peas	1566 lbs.	3063 lbs
Velvet Bean Hay	4112 lbs.	5063 lbs

You can have lime ground right on your farm now. We have ground about 150 tons for Mr. C. B. Layson, about 50 tons for Mr. Ben Miller, are now grinding a large amount for Mr. W. D. McIntyre. After finishing at Mr. McIntyre's farm, the grinder will be moved to Carlisle by way of Headquarters. Call Fisher Henry at 190 or 20 or see W. E. Fisher at Mercury office, and make arrangements to have your rock ground.

RESOLUTIONS

Men's Bible Class

In the wisdom of Almighty God, who has seen fit to remove from this earthly life to a higher and better world our sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Mc Cormick Naughtney. Therefore, Be it resolved,

That the Men's Bible Class of the Christian Church, of which he is a loyal member, desires to extend to him and his daughter in this, their hour of sore trial and bereavement, their deepest love and heartfelt sympathy and confidence that they mourn the loss of a loving and devoted companion and mother who was loved by all who knew her. Be it further resolved,

That in her death the Church has lost one of its faithful and untiring workers, the community a good Christian, and devout member, richly endowed with christian graces that made her a power for good, who has exemplified in her life the beauty of holiness, and we, the class, who adorned the gospel of the Son of God. Resolved,

That a copy be sent to the family and to the Carlisle Mercury for publication.

Signed, Hardy Myers, W. T. Norton, L. T. Potts, Committee.

RESOLUTIONS

Men's Bible Class

Since it is the will of our Heavenly Father to remove from our midst our sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Mae Jackson, mother of our classmate and brother, Bruce Seaton, the Mens Bible Class of the Christian church desire to express their heart-felt sympathy in their bereavement and to commend them to Him who deals all things well and who knows all our troubles and who cares for us when the way sometimes seems so dark and dreary.

"Oh yes He cares; I know He cares, His heart is touched with my grief;
When all my days are weary; the long nights dreary,
I know my Savior cares."

Hardy Myers, W. T. Norton, L. T. Potts, committee.

HIGHWAY SAFETY SLOGANS

The State Highway Department of Ohio is using a number of safety slogans in an effort to reduce motor accidents. Several of them were originated by the Department and have found wide vogue. Here are some of them:

1. Don't try to score locomotives with your motor.
2. A road hog roots up macadam and gravel.
3. Our roads are wide and safe on only don't try to turn them.
4. Death is so permanent—take no chances on two—you may need them.
5. Tragedy in seven words: Speed increases, Breath ceases. Rest in peace.
6. Horse sense as well as horse power should enter into the operation of motor vehicles.
7. Less to ride another day by obeying all warning signs.
8. Believe in highway warning signs—they mean what they say.
9. Drive with care—you may need it.
10. A reckless driver is a criminal.

Keep your hands on the wheel—but your girl hug here.

12. The three "R's"—"Reckless Reduces Returns" 13. Speed—75 per cent of the motor accidents.

"Now fifty my home," said Joel, but he hesitated.

"It's a bargain," I said, when he began on business connected with my estate when home affairs appeared to be on Fourteen reached me, by means of a note from Speed. "Jake explained. "At first I couldn't make Jake Slider fit it. It was so bad it seems. So I took it to a young fellow I know with lots of hustle"; and he took him on account of the interest he'd have taken in the people of the two; he found out I located young Joel Bent, and I'm glad I did, for he's a good boy, and he's got a good head on his shoulders, and he's made a success here. Besides, he's got a wife that makes you think she's the right one when she's in the ticket. Well, he's a credit to you, Joel, and I think in the best place I know of to start a young man. Joel's not only one goes best, but deserved if he don't get it. I'm glad you've come to live here this time."

Jake fished into a pocket and brought out a little gold pendant a charm and dandled it on the end of gutbeath's act. He held it for a moment, then put it back and looked at me. "Joel's got a girl," he said.

"Is that why you're glad he's come?" I asked.

"Yes, and why I'm glad you've come. Good you were lonely in the baptismal color of her eyes—and as her hand fell by my side I found it surrounded by my own.

"Oh, Jean, why not make it tonight?" I whispered, and my voice was hoarse.

"It's quite impossible," she answered, but she did not immediately withdraw her hand. She left it there for a little more and more over the tantalizing encirclement of her attentive fingers.

Fortunately, the interest of those about us had been quickly turned by Jake. "Slavin' a little weak—that's my own," Jake was saying, and though I never could make a score with Jake, I was glad to start a score with him. "Fifty-five on Fourteen." And with that Jake's self-satisfaction was complete and he turned his attention to the hands of Marjorie.

"I'll leave it to Charlie," Jake declared. Speed, after the excitement over Jake's gift had died down, had returned to the table and was sitting with his arms folded across his chest, a curiously stoic air about him. "Charlie, you're a farmer, you've got a farm. Is Joel a good boy?"

"Yes, Jake," I said, perhaps, for the moment, I was not quite myself. "Particularly well was he thought of by those who knew him best. He's a good boy, and I'm glad he's come. Now, Jake, I'm going to leave you to gloat over your bargain, and I'm going to see Jean home. Good night, Speed."

"Good night, Charlie," he answered, but he did not look at me. He was sitting with his head bent, and I knew that he was thinking of Jean Bent, and I knew that he was thinking of Jean Bent, and I knew that he was thinking of Jean
