NOTICES

YOUR COUNTY AGENT

In last week's Mercury gave you some good information on proper raising fire egg production, and the style you make on your flock will depend upon how many eggs you get this winter.

At the present price of eggs it will pay you big to follow his feeding instructions, and put the hens in condition to lay by their full capacity.

We have in stock the ready mixed TUXEDO EGG MASH, which we are perfectly willing for you to have your County Agent analyze, and see the various feeds which he recommends for home mixture.

We also have the famous Early & Daniel line of TUXEDO FEEDS for chickens, and would be glad to tell you about the good qualities of any of them or the Cow, Horse, Hog Sheep or Poultry.

The proper feeding of stock and poultry is so important that every farmer should heed the advice of his County Agent, then select the feeds that will assure him up to the standard.

WNU Service Copyright by Dodd Mead & Co.

A toilet cease to end of the past and blurred the unsteady letters until they were indeed the work of a child of eight. They had startled her back to the fact that she was a child, and that Satan of life which comes before the fall. Yesterday was the first day. The years between had been a void, a gulf, a blank. Now she was back in the little room where Lizzie Spring, petulant, unfailingly meting ourselves for the future, made the witnessing over of the great plan. That had been one of the days of my life, when I had not known it then. I wonder how often we have the great day when it is actually upon us? But it that day I had found in something which has been part of my system; part of my flesh and bone and marrow, part of my hope, my superstition. Oh, and how I had found it, too! Nevertheless I pretended to be bored. I put my lips and suddenly the face of my governess-to-be grew sad, and tears rushed down upon me. With a heart stained I threw myself upon her. I was not ashamed of my tears then. I was a child, and suddenly the door
