Take her up tenderly, Lift her with care; Fashion'd so slenderly, Young, and so fair! Look at her garments Clinging like ceremints Whilst the wave consta-Drips from her clothing Take her up instantly. Loving, not loathing.

Make no deep scrutiny Into har mutiny Rash and undutiful: Past all dishonour. Death has left on her Only the beautiful.

Loop up her tresses Escaped from the comb, Her fair ashurn tresses; Whilst wonderment guess Where was her home?

Where was her father?
Who was her mother?
Had she a sister?
Had she a brother?
Or was there a dearer one
Still, and a nearer one
Yet, than all other?

Sinterly, brotherly, Fatherly, motherly Prelings had changed: Love, by harsh ovidence, Thrown from its emission Even God's providence Seeming estranged.

Where the lamps quiver So far in the river. With many a light From window and casess From garret to basemen She stood, with amasem Houseless by night. The bleak wind of March Made her tremble and ahir But not the dark arch, Or the black flowing river

Mag from life's history, Clad to death's mystery Swift to be hurl'd— Any where, any where Out of the world!

Take her up tenderly, Lift her with care; Fashion'd so slenderly, Young, and so fair!

Dreadfully staring Thro' moddy impurity. As when with the daring Last look of despairing Fix'd on futurity.
