When You Buy a Sack or a Barrel of

White Rose Flour

You have not only made the purchase of a necessary article which is guaranteed to give you entire satisfaction, but you have really made an investment in what we would term "Civic advancement", because practically every penny of the purchase price has been distributed locally for raw material, labor etc., and all your money remains at home to be used again in the channels of local trade.

When You Buy a Sack or a Barrel of

Foreign Flour

You do so perhaps because your grocer hands it out to you not realizing that you are taking a shingle off the roof of your own home mill, in which we believe you are interested, but are contributing to the advancement of some Ohio or Indiana town in which perhaps you have no interest whatever. When you buy a sack or barrel of foreign flour, your money, with the exception of the dealer's small profit, leaves your community never to return

As a consumer of flour may we not ask you to insist upon the home made brands?

TWO BOYS DROWN

Mother Saves Another Son Near Death In Rescue Attempt

Two small boys met death by drowning at Temple Hill, Edmonson county, last Thursday afternoon when a raft on which they were playing in a five foot pond on the farm of Dit Web parted and threw them into the water. They are Berdie Webb, 8 years old, son of the owner of the farm, and Hamlin James, 10, son of Mrs. Zella James, who lives nearby.

WHAT IS A SCOUT MASTER?

Leader of Local Troop Tells Duties Of Scout Chief

A sympathetic, friendly leader of boyhood, holding the respect of the boys; answering endless questions; listening to tales of accomplishment and failures in life plans; a kindly, big brother, using the Scout oath and laws to drive home points in character building; an educator of youth in the business of preparedness and usefulness for service to his fellow-citizens.

Scouting never loses the thrill of the great adventure for boys—the magic of the out-doors; the lure of the camp-fire; the romance of the Indian; the tradition of the pioneer. All teach the boys to enjoy their camp and to take part in each day's activity so that they may be prepared when tomorrow's sun rises for a wider happiness, a larger usefulness, and a deeper capacity to appreciate that greater adventure which we call "Life." Let us help to better the Standard of Scouting in our city.

SOUNDS FUNNY, DOESN'T IT?

There are some people who are always rushing personal items in to the papers, never missing an opportunity to get the names of themselves and families in print, and yet they have to read the item in a borrowed paper, being too stingy to subscribe for one themselves.—Flemingsburg Times-Democrat.

MAN HURT ON ROAD

Glenn Brittingham, manager of a Kroger store in Lexington, was found unconscious on McDowell road, near Lexington, about midnight last Tuesday. He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, where his condition was pronounced critical. It is believed he was trying to crank his automobile when it ran over him.

SINCLAIR LOSES

Harry S. Sinclair, millionaire oil operator, last week lost in his last effort to avoid sentence being imposed upon him in the District of Columbia Supreme Court for contempt of the Senate. Justice Hitz overruled a motion for a new trial, and sentence will be pronounced in a few days.

OLDEST PATIENTS DIE

Two of the oldest patients at the Eastern State hospital at Lexington last week.

John Hiles, 88, died at the institution Wednesday. He was admitted to the hospital in 1850, records show and had been a patient there for 68 years. He was admitted from Bracken county.

James Crawford, 75, died at the hospital Tuesday. Crawford has been admitted from Shelby county in 1872, according to the records.

Both men had been practically helpless for the last few years, Doctor Ladine said.

GUARDMEN AT HANGING

Sixty Kentucky national guardsmen will be sent to Madisonville Friday to preserve order at the hanging of Bunyan Fleming and Nathan Bard, negroes, for an alleged criminal assault on a white girl, Governor Fields has announced. The governor received the request for troops for Madisonville authorities.

FARMERS HARD LUCK

According to the London Enterprise, Newt Harmon, farmer, said friends a hard luck story while in town the other day.

The house in which he lived on Medlock creek burned a few weeks ago, but by hard work he succeeded in saving most of his furniture. He carried insurance.

After the fire he went to the home of Jesse Bohannon in Bradfordsville to temporarily make his home. Last week Mr. Bohannon's house burned along with practically all of Mr. Harmon's effects. His policy, he told, failed to cover his household goods in the Bohannon home.

"You see," Mr. Harmon said, "if our furniture had burned in the first fire it would have been covered by insurance. However, we succeeded in removing most of it at great risk to our lives only to have it burn later when I was without insurance."
