MAIL EARLY

Cards and Packages Must Be Mailed Before Christmas

George D. Scott, Carlisle postmaster, requests the patrons of this office and the rural routes to do Christmas mailing early, especially cards and packages.

Christmas this year falls on Sunday on which day no deliveries will be made. The early mailing of cards is just as important as parcels. Millions of these cards are mailed throughout the country during Christmas, resulting in a great congestion. In order that cards and packages may reach their destination before Christmas the following rules should be observed:

Mail addressed to points within one day's travel should be mailed not later than December 18; within three days travel not later than December 16, and for more distant points not later than December 14.

A LITTLE TALK ON THRIFT

(By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.)

We are standing today on the threshold of a new year when, more than at any other period, our character or fame. We believe that any man or any woman who is leading a good life, who is living with the true meaning of good citizenship, is a success. If this were not so, there could not be the progress that we see all about us.

But, for purposes of example, we can make use of the names of those whose success in life has made them well known. They illustrate the great truth that by adhering to practices of thrift it is possible to raise from the most lowly position to a place among the leaders in thought and action.

Frank W. Woolworth began life as a clerk in a store in Watertown, N. Y.

Cyrus H. Curtis, Philadelphia publisher, started his career as a newsboy.

E. H. Harriman, earned his first money as a clerk in a broker's office.

Andrew Carnegie began as a bobbin boy in a Pennsylvania cotton mill.

Charles M. Schwab was a clerk in a small store and later became a teamster driver for an engineering corps.

John Wanamaker began his career as an errand boy.

James J. Hill clerked in a steamship office.

Henry Ford was originally a machinist.

Thomas Edison began selling newspapers on trains running out of the same city when 12 years old.

The list might be continued indefinitely.

All success, small or great, must rest primarily on the policies of thrift. Without it the start upward is never made.

DON'TS FOR COLD SUFFERERS

In the fall and winter seasons we find the greatest number of sufferers from colds. The common "bad cold" is responsible for a lot of suffering, disability and loss of time and money. It is so infectious that all of us fall victims to it from time to time. It has a way of running through families and even communities. The germs that cause this ailment are usually carried by some infected person. Well people get the germs from air contaminated by a cold sufferer. These germs multiply rapidly in the mucous membrane that lines the nose and throat. There are several kinds of these germs. The greatest trouble maker is the hemolytic streptococcus, which causes the head cold. Besides causing a lot of suffering, etc. many colds develop into something more serious and frequently cause death.

If certain simple sanitary rules were followed by everyone many lives would be saved and much sickness prevented. The following Don'ts for cold sufferers adopted by Dr. Charles Hastings, of Toronto will, if followed, aid materially in warding off colds as well as many other communicable diseases:

Don't sit or work in an overheated room unless under doctor's order and instructions.

Don't use sprays or douches for your nose unless under doctor's order and instructions.

Don't clear the throat unless in a handkerchief, and keep well but quiet the ravage of nervous unnecessary coughing.

Don't allow any member of the family who has an acute cold to come in contact with other members of the household, or use the same eating and drinking utensils.

Don't go to any public meetings if you have a cold.

Don't stand close to anyone with whom you are talking when you have a cold.

Don't under any circumstances touch any article of food, whether for yourself alone or anyone else unless you have previously cleansed your hands.
