SELECTING COCKERELS

Poultrymen who have been trapnesting and pedigree hatching or those who have used small matings to produce their breeding cockerels will have no trouble in deciding which cockerels to save. It should be remembered, however, that all cockerels that look good when broiler age will not prove out to be satisfactory breeders; therefore, at least two cockerels should be kept for each breeder needed next spring. If cockerels are to be selected from the general flock, now is the time to make the selection, before all of the early-hatched birds are sold for broilers.

In selecting cockerels the following characteristics should be given consideration. Select those that have made rapid growth, that show vigor and vitality and that are good representatives of the breed. Vigor and vitality is denoted by a broad head, a short, stout beak and a bright clear eye. Cockerels that feather slowly should not be saved for breeders, as this indicates late maturity, which character will be transmitted to the pullets raised the next year. The legs should be stockily built rather than long-legged. The back should be broad not only over the hips but the entire length of the back.

If one plans to buy cockerels now is the time to begin trying to locate them. Often cockerels at about three months of age can be bought at a reasonable price, and if so this is a good time to buy. It enables one to get cockerels before they are picked over and also allows time to develop the cockerels with one's own flock, which will prevent the fighting that always causes trouble when a new male bird is brought into the flock.

TWO AMENDMENTS

To Constitution Will Be Voted On At November Election

Two amendments to the state constitution are to be voted upon at the November election this year.

Chapter 72 of the Acts of the General Assembly of 1926 calls for the people to pass on the matter of giving the Legislature power "to fix reasonable compensation for all public officers, and the method of paying such compensation." The amendment, if adopted, would make it possible for the General Assembly to remove the $5,000-limitation on salaries of public officers. At present no officer of the state except the governor receives more than $5,000 a year.

Chapter 71 of the same Acts submits an amendment making it possible, in event of its adoption, for Kentucky to have an absent voters law.

The proposed changes affect Sections 246 and 247 respectively of the state constitution.

WARNS OFFICIALS

Failure to Report Unstuffed Judgments to Mean Action

All Circuit Court Clerks, County Judges, Justices of the Peace and trustees of jury funds in Kentucky were warned by T. Erwin Thayer, State Inspector and Examiner, that they would be charged with every unsatisfied judgment and replevin bond not reported, and they would be reported to the Franklin Circuit Court for action.

Mr. Mayes in a letter to the officers cited laws passed by the last Legislature and recommended that every Circuit Clerk file his judgments and replevin bonds with the State Auditor before June 25.

After that date, he said, he would make a vigorous effort to collect all unsatisfied judgments and would prosecute delinquent officers.

Mr. Mayes also cautioned the officers to get a "judgment book." Failure to keep such books subjects them to a fine of $10 for each omission, he said.

CURES FOR POISON IVY

Victims of poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac will find their troubles very easily, according to James F. Couch of the United States Department of Agriculture.

"Just ask your druggist to make up a 5 percent solution of potassium permanganate," says Mr. Couch, "and wash it on the poisoned places with a bit of absorbent cotton or a soft cloth. The permanganate destroys the ivy poison, but does no harm to the skin, except that it makes a brown stain. Most of us do not want to let that remain, and it can be removed by washing with a 5 per cent solution of oxalic acid. Oxalic acid is a poison, so that if you are afraid of children getting hold of it, you should use instead a 1 per cent solution of sodium hyposulphite."

ONLY 135 PLEDGES TO HOSPITAL FUND

Many Citizens Have Failed To Assist in Maintaining Institution

BRADLEY DONATES $100

The campaign for funds for the Johnson Memorial hospital has not been as successful during the past week as had been hoped, only about sixty names having been reported since our last issue.

The largest single subscription received during the past week was from E. R. Bradley, prominent Lexington turfman, who subscribed $100. Mrs. George C. King, of Cincinnati, is the only former Nicholas resident who has signed the card pledging a donation of $10 per year for three years.

The Mercury feels that the citizens of Nicholas county will not let this opportunity, probably the only one they will ever have, of securing a hospital, pass. No person is asked to contribute more than $30, although larger sums will be welcomed, and the small amount scattered in payments of three years would work no hardship on anyone.

There are hundreds of Nicholas county people well able to afford to subscribe who have not done so. Only about half of the 260 persons required to make the institution a success have signed.

GRASS SEED CROP SHORT

Reports Indicate Crop This Year Will Be Third of Last Year

Kentucky's 1927 bluegrass seed crop amounts to just one-third of the crop produced in 1926, according to a bulletin received from the United States department of agriculture by W. B. Talbert, manager of the Blue Grass Elmendorf Seed Company, in Lexington.

The bulletin shows that only 500,000 bushels of cured bluegrass seed were produced in Kentucky in 1927, whereas in 1926 the crop amounted to 1,500,000 bushels. Freezes on April 23 and 25, raise when the seed was being pollinated and sapping of moisture from the plant due to the heavy seed yields of last year were among the reasons given for the marked reduction of the crop this year. The quality of the Kentucky crop is much superior to the quality of last year's crop and being light and weedy is expected to shrink more than 50 per cent in cleaning compared with a 35 per cent cleaning shrinkage of the 1926 crop, it was pointed out.

Vickers Awarded Damages of $40

In Suit Against Otis Caswell In Which He Sought $5,000 For Injuries In Fight

In the Nicholas circuit court last Wednesday afternoon the jury trying the $5,000 damage suit of Vickers against Otis Caswell returned a verdict awarding damages of $40, the amount of the physician's bill, to Vickers. The trial lasted all day, many witnesses being heard.

The suit was the aftermath of a fight between Vickers and Caswell December 26, 1926, on a farm upon which both were tenants. Vickers alleged in his suit that he was attacked by Caswell with a pitchfork handle and that he was permanently disabled as a result of injuries suffered at that time.

J. P. McCartney, and Sam Conley were attorneys for Vickers and Samuel Holmes and I. B. Ross were attorneys for Caswell.

At the conclusion of this trial, Judge Dedman adjourned the special term of court. trials scheduled for Thursday being postponed until the September term.

BROTHERS GIVEN LIFE

Hugh, Roy and Ray de Autre mont, brothers, were convicted at Bartlesville, Okla., last week and all three given life sentences on the charge of holding up a train in the Osage Indian nation in October 1923, in which four men were killed. The brothers were recently removed by United Secret Service men after more than three years' search to which rewards totaling $20,000 for the arrest of the men dead or alive, were offered. Shortly after the men entered prison their demonstrations were held in several parts of the state protesting because the men were not given death sentences.

Kelly and other linemen were working on a line six miles south of Lawrenceburg. He climbed to the top of a pole, which toppled over in soft ground and was caught under the weight of the heavy timber. He was injured internally and suffered several fractures.

NATIONAL RED CROSS

To Send $100,000 For Relief Of Kentucky Flood Sufferers

Details of a plan for cleaning up the flood-stricken counties in Kentucky were contained in a message from Herbert Hoover, general director of Mississippi flood relief, to Senator Fred M. Sackett, director of relief for flood sufferers in eastern Kentucky. The message stated Mr. Hoover has arranged for the transfer of $100,000 from the Red Cross to be added to the money already raised in this state for the relief of the sufferers.

The message was followed by a statement from Senator Sackett in which he declared that "the cost of relief will be greater than originally supposed," and that "as chairman of finance, I wish to publicly urge further generous donations to the fund."

Secretary Hoover in his message said he would keep in close touch with the Kentucky situation and that he hoped to visit the stricken areas later on.

FATHER KILLS ASSAILANT

At Duncan, Oklahoma, Arch Gilbreath, 42 years old, farmer, shot and killed R. F. Cox in district court when the youth went on trial for alleged criminal assault on the farmer's daughter. With more than sixty spectators in the room, the youth had just started when Gilbreath walked to a door near the prisoner and fired three shots into his body. He then surrendered.

Injured Boy Is Improving

Myron Throckmorton, Struck With Base Ball Bat at Blue Licks, Reported Out of Danger

Myron Throckmorton, of Mt. Olivet, who was seriously injured when he was struck with a base ball bat at a base ball game at Blue Licks on June 19, is reported as being better at the Hayswood hospital in Maysville, where he was taken after being given medical treatment in Carlisle. Young Throckmorton is able to see out of one eye but may receive the sight of the other. For several days both eyes were badly swollen, and it was feared he would become blind from his injuries.

Floyd Price and Jay Pryor, who were arrested and charged with assault and battery in connection with the affair, both executed bond for their appearance at the September term of the Nicholas circuit court and were released from jail last week.

Kendall Seeks State Office

Nicholas County Republican Announces As Candidate For Clerk Of the Court of Appeals

Elva R. Kendall, well known young Republican of the county, last week announced as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, subject to the action of the Republican party at the August primary.

Mr. Kendall declared he had decided to announce for this office after repeated solicitation by influential men of the party throughout the state. Mr. Kendall recently resigned from the Internal Revenue service, where he had served for five years as a field deputy collector, to enter the race.

His work took him to all sections of the state, and he is widely acquainted throughout Kentucky.

Mr. Kendall is an ex-service man and has taken an active interest in soldier activities. He is at present chief de gare of Lexington Voiture of the Forty and Eight Society and is past commander of Nicholas Post No. 17, American Legion.

PRISONERS SURRENDER

328 Mutineers, Convicts in Kansas Coal Mine Give Up

A short, fierce battle within the ranks of 328 mutinous convicts in the Kansas penitentiary coal mine at Lansing, Kansas, resulted in a victory late Friday afternoon for the forces favoring surrender and ending the uprising. In the battle about 270 men, driven by fear and hunger after 77 hours of self imposed incarceration 720 feet below the ground, allied themselves against the fifty ringleaders and overpowered them.

The prisoners went on strike last Tuesday after delivering an ultimatum of "no cigarettes, no coal." The warden refused to give in to their command. Fourteen prison guards were locked in a room in the mine, and both guards and prisoners were without food for more than three days.

CHAUTAUQUA OPENS WEEK FROM TODAY

Annual Seven Day Program Promises to be one of Best Ever Given

TICKETS ARE ON SALE

One week from today the annual seven day deluxe program of the Redpath Chautauqua will open in Carlisle with what promises to be one of the best programs ever offered here. Many feature attractions, including Kryl's band, two plays, Lazarus, the magician, and other headliners will be offered.

The big tent, as usual, will be put up in the court house yard and everything will be in readiness for the opening next Thursday afternoon, July 7.

Guarantors have been experiencing little difficulty in disposing of the season tickets this year. The Mercury feels, however, that the citizens of Nicholas county will not let this wonderful institution face a heavy deficit because of lack of patronage. When it is considered the attractions cost little less than 20 cents each, the chautauqua offers one of the cheapest forms of high class entertainers to be found anywhere. If ticket holders can attend only the night performances they will get their money's worth. See one of the guarantors and buy a ticket today.

Man Robbed and Tied to Machine

Highwaymen Holdup Man Enroute to See Sick Wife Near Richmond Tuesday Afternoon

Charles W. McIlvorne and his six-year-old son, of Goliff, Whitley county, enroute to Richmond, Ky., were held up and robbed of $40 by two men between Livingston and London Tuesday afternoon, Mr. McIlvorne reported to officials at Richmond. He had stopped at a soft drink stand to get his small son a drink. The stand was closed and when he returned to his machine he found another car, occupied by two men, parked nearby.

The men asked Mr. McIlorne if he had any money and on his answer in the affirmative, one of the men drew a gun. After taking all the money he had, they bound him to the steering wheel of the machine with barbed wire and drove away. The child was not molested. After some time McIlorne was able to free himself and went to Richmond where he told his story. Mayor O'Neil gave him a tank of gasoline and he continued on his journey. The money to take him on to Owen, W. Va.

Mr. McIlorne was going to West Virginia to get his wife who is recovering from an illness there. The money that the robbers took was all he had.

Scoutmaster D. W. Sapp and approximately twenty-five members of the local Boy Scout troop returned Saturday from their camp on Licking river after ten days camp. The boys, all tanned from their trip, were enthusiastic over the outing.

Mr. Sapp said the Scouts will not go on another trip until about the latter part of July.

TWO DEMONSTRATIONS

To Be Held on Farms of E. T. Gaffin And Cleve Gromer Today

County Agricultural Agent C. B. Elston has scheduled two espoming demonstrations to be held on the farm of E. T. Gaffin, near Headquarters, beginning at 9 o'clock this morning, and in the afternoon a similar demonstration will be held on the farm of Cleve Grover, near Miranda, beginning at 2:30. A special from the state office of agriculture will be present to assist Mr. Elston in the work.

Farmers are urged to bring with them four or five cockerels weighing about a pound and a half which have not been fed or watered for at least 24 hours.

This is the first demonstration of this kind ever given in Nicholas county and poultry producers are given an opportunity to have capons for Thanksgiving and Christmas dinner and to produce chickens which will sell for higher prices than turkeys.

Beckham Against Pari-Mutuel Law

Would Remove Practical Politicians From Highway Board; Opposes Tax on Coal

J. C. W. Beckham, former Governor and former United States Senator from Kentucky, opened his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor before a crowd estimated at 8,000 at Franklin, Simpson county, Saturday afternoon.

In stating his platform Mr. Beckham declared the present plan of road building in the one he has favored from the beginning, and that if elected he would carry out agreements already made with counties. "If I am elected governor the first service I will render in the cause of road building will be to drive from the highway department from top to bottom anyone and everyone that I have just reason to believe is more interested in politics than road construction or spends more time in building political fences than working the roads."

He declared himself against the pari-mutuel law, against a coal tax, and promised Kentucky a business administration if elected governor.

Outsiders Denied Burley Pool Stock

Sale of Burley Association Stock Securities Banned By Court Of Appeals

Non-members of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association are not entitled to hold stock in subsidiary corporations of the Association, the Court of Appeals ruled last Friday. The question was involved in the case of O. O. Carpenter, a member of the pool, and Elden G. Dunnell, a non-member, who had acquired some stock in the central district warehousing corporation.

The Clark circuit court held that Dunnell was entitled to the stock and the Court of Appeals upheld the lower court in that contention. The court, however, reversed the decision of the lower court, in that Dunnell was entitled to a guaranty of eight per cent on the stock.

GALVIN THE ISSUE

Declares Mr. Lucas, Republican Candidate in Opening Speech

Maurice Galvin—shall he control the Republican party—shall the Republican nominee owe his nomination to Galvin? This is the one issue, declared Robert H. Lucas, of Louisville, in his speech at Greensboro, formally opening his campaign for the Republican nomination for governor.

Mr. Lucas described Republican Boss Galvin as a resident of Covington, but a lawyer in Cincinnati, attorney "for the school book trust, the Kentucky Jockey Club and other similar interests." Mr. Lucas said Galvin was not interested in the success of the Republican party.

He charged that "road building in Kentucky has been a matter of favoritism almost entirely."

GALVIN THE ISSUE

Declares Mr. Lucas, Republican Candidate in Opening Speech

Maurice Galvin—shall he control the Republican party—shall the Republican nominee owe his nomination to Galvin? This is the one issue, declared Robert H. Lucas, of Louisville, in his speech at Greensboro, formally opening his campaign for the Republican nomination for governor.

Mr. Lucas described Republican Boss Galvin as a resident of Covington, but a lawyer in Cincinnati, attorney "for the school book trust, the Kentucky Jockey Club and other similar interests." Mr. Lucas said Galvin was not interested in the success of the Republican party.

He charged that "road building in Kentucky has been a matter of favoritism almost entirely."

M. E. REVIVAL CLOSES

Three Weeks Meeting at Methodist Church Ended Sunday Night

The revival meeting which had been in progress at the Methodist church for three weeks, closed Sunday night with one of the largest audiences ever assembled in the church. Rev. O. H. Cullis, who assisted the pastor, Rev. B. O. Beck, in the meeting, left Monday for his home in Winona and Prof. H. S. Jenkins, song leader, left for his home in Atlanta, Ga.

Great interest was taken in the three weeks meeting and a number of persons united with the church. Large crowds attended the services each night and the singing services were well attended.

Rev. Cullis made many friends during his stay in Carlisle. He is a splendid preacher of unusual personality, and possesses natural gifts of oratory. Prof. Jenkins is a wonderful song leader and his work in the direction of the choir added materially to the success of the meeting.
