Audience Only Judge of Scenes That "Go"

As a rule, it is easy for the author to discover before opening night how to go and where the weaknesses, if any, of his play exist. It is a peculiarity that a play which reads well often acts badly; and vice versa, writes Dorothy Hamilton in the Saturday Evening Post.

I have noticed many times, with my own work and with the work of other men, that there are certain scenes which seem to be extraordinarily amusing on paper, but which—as we call to be put to the test of rehearsal to drop dead from the lack of a laugh. In less expensive days, the orchestra tuned up. It is, too, quite impossible to ascertain, until a play has been well rehearsed, what lines are to be cut, what entrances moved and what exits are to be brought about with greater or less rapidity.

It has been proved again and again how important it is to make a true estimate of a play's appeal to an audience until it faces one. There are few authors and even fewer directors who dare to prophesy exactly how a play will take. Scenes which have been rehearsed for laughs and which have appealed to all concerned as being extremely funny during rehearsal may be received with stony silence by the people in front on "the night."

Other scenes which appear to be trivial and unimportant may go with roars of laughter, while tragic moments and those in which the whole drama of the play has been worked up to a high pitch may fasle like damp gunpowder when put to the final test.

LAWTON NOT TO ACT

Evidence in Election Fraud Case Not Sufficient, He Says

In reply to Gov. William J. Fields' request that he take action against parties said to have been guilty of fraud in the recent election in the Republican victory in the Louisville city election, Joseph S. Lawton, commonwealth attorney, said: "I am thoroughly convinced that the evidence submitted," in the Democratic contest suit, "to support indictments and sustain conviction of the responsible parties.

"I have examined the record again in the light of the chancellor's opinion and am thoroughly convinced that the evidence is wholly insufficient to support indictments against the alleged inner circle of practical men, and unless something is obtained that found in the contest record, there is neither law nor fact warranting an indictment and prosecution," Mr. Lawton declared.

What She Wanted to Know

Mandy, black and ponderous, had been with Ted's family as their cook long over some dental plates.

"Could Ah eat wid you as good as Ah used to eat wid mah own?" she asked.

"Oh, to be sure," replied the dentist. "These plates are so scientifically fashioned that mastication is facilitated to a degree equal to, if not exceeding, Nature's own product."

"Yassuh, passuh," from Mandy, still unconvinced, "but Ah wants to know is kin you chew wid 'em as well as you could wid 'em?"—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Fiction and Frying Pans

If the city of Brotherlovia, which it is proposed to publish in commemoration of its centenary, reveal anything in the way of a truly successful writer of fiction as well as a gastronomist, he may perhaps be regarded as repaying the interest which the famous novelists have taken in matters of the table. Balzac took a keen interest in cookery, as befitted a man of gigantic appetite. So also did Dickens, whose cookery must have been pretty good, since it was reputed to be as exciting as her recipes. Joseph Conrad, as he admitted in connection with a cookbook written by Mrs. Conrad, gave a high place in his esteem to the culinary art. George Meredith left a book of cookery recipes in his own handwriting which figured in a bookseller's catalogue some years ago and sadly puzzled that enigma in print.—Manchester Guardian.

Africa's Treasure Tree

The most important tree of Africa is the oil palm, being first in beauty, in utility and in fecundity.

If the traveler is athirst and weary, the luxurious foliage gives him shelter, while from its tree trunk pours forth a draught of foaming wine. He is ill and palm cordage proffers a meet fit for a sylvan prince. Among the natives it is considered the tree of African wealth, the bunch of stems, the "regime" of fruit, the size and shape of an almond, gives a white oil, red, and of the consistency of the "pure Spanish olive oil" of commerce. The kernel is inclosed in a hard shell, which is in turn clothed with a mass of fibrous matter, the whole incased in a strong red-and-black skin. From this fiber are obtained lubricating oil, a substitute for cane sugar, margarine and an ingredient for explosives.

The Cansville and Exeter railroad, operating in the Ozark region of Missouri, is said to be the smallest passenger-carrying steam railroad in the country. It is less than five miles long and its "rolling stock" consists of one locomotive and one coach. The president of the road runs the train.

CORN YIELD TREBLED

(The Times-Star)

What limestone, acid phosphate and rotation will do for crop yields is told by George W. Hurst, proprietor of the Gateway Stock and Poultry Farms near Flemingsburg, Ky., in a letter to the College of Agriculture.

"My memory fails me, but possibly you recall my having brought you to my farm from Flemingsburg about twelve years ago," he wrote to a member of the Agronomy department, "in order to get your advice as to the treatment of a very cold, waxy clay, unproductive field, that had produced only fifteen bushels of corn per acre the previous cultivation.

"Having followed your advice as to the treatment with ground limestone and acid phosphate, we have just completed harvesting 1,200 bushels of big, sound white corn, or a yield of sixty bushels per acre. A grain of forty-four bushels to three rotations seems rather good to us."

VOLUME LX. ESTABLISHED 1867 CARLISLE NICHOLAS COUNTY, KENTUCKY THURSDAY, MARCH 10, 1927 PUBLISHED THURSDAYS NUMBER 30

GEORGE D. SCOTT NEW POSTMASTER

"Dark Horse" Appointment To Position Surprise To Many Here

TOOK POST SATURDAY

George D. Scott, well known young Republican, last Thursday received an appointment as acting postmaster at Carlisle to serve until a permanent postmaster is selected to fill the post. The announcement of Mr. Scott's appointment came as a great surprise to the majority of the residents of Carlisle, who were unaware that he was an applicant for the position.

Simultaneously with Mr. Scott's notification of appointment, Wyatt M. Insko received notice from the Postoffice Department to turn over the office to Mr. Scott, effective immediately, and the transfer was made Saturday morning.

The appointment of Mr. Scott brings to an end one of the most stubbornly contested fights in political appointment in the history of Nicholas county, continuing for almost a year. The term of Wyatt M. Insko expired almost a year ago, and last July an examination was held with three applicants taking the examination. Because of charges and counter charges, it is said, the announcement of eligibles was held up until about two weeks ago when the Civil Service Commission announced that Wyatt Insko and Mrs. Tillie Hamilton Fretwell were eligibles for appointment, H. B. Bryson, the other applicant, having passed the age limit in the meantime.

Following announcement of the Civil Service Commission, it was believed Senator Ernst would recommend Mr. Insko or Mrs. Fretwell at once, and friends and supporters of the two were surprised at the result.

Mr. Bryson is said to have had the endorsement of seventeen of the eighteen members of the county committee, and when it was evident that he would not be given the appointment because of his age, it is said the majority of the committee switched to Mr. Scott, who has been secretary of the committee and active in Republican politics.

Mr. Insko succeeded the late Judge A. B. Tilley as postmaster shortly after the election of President Harding and has served for five years and six months. By reason of long experience in business and clerical work he was admirably fitted for the place and has made a most capable and efficient postmaster.

The appointment of Mr. Scott is no way effects his position as one of the employes of the postoffice, as all are under civil service regulations.

FRUIT NOT YET DAMAGED

According to Louis Hillenmeyer, of Hillenmeyer Nurseries, Lexington, who is an expert horticulturist, no damage has been done in the fruit crop so far by the cold weather.

Peaches and Japanese plums are the most susceptible to all frosts and cold. Mr. Hillenmeyer declared, and at this time of the year, in the stage of maturity at which they are, a temperature of sight to 10 degrees is necessary to cause serious damage.

Bandit Holds Up Six Young People

Three Boys And Three Girls Robbed On Richmond Road Near Lexington Sunday Night

Three young men and three young women were held up at the point of a pistol Sunday night by a highwayman who searched and robbed the boys, hitting one of them in the face with the butt of a pistol when he reached for a cigarette. The robbery occurred about three miles from Lexington on the Richmond road. The loot was only $40 or five dollars, the boys estimated.

The sedan in which the six young people were riding was stopped on the road while a tire was being changed when the highwayman drove up in a small roadster, stopped, and commanded them to hold up their hands.

The victims were George Southern, Raymond Harmon, James Morgan, Misses Eleanor White, Mary Duncan and Miss Sallie Roberts, all of Lexington. After the robbery the bandit drove away.

POULTRY RAISERS FORM ASSOCIATION

Nicholas County Poultry Association Organized At Meeting Here

TO MEET ON MARCH 19

About thirty poultry raisers of the county met at the court house in Carlisle last Friday afternoon and formed an association to be known as the Nicholas County Poultry Association. Practically all of the persons at the meeting announced their intention of becoming members of the association.

J. R. Smythe, field agent in poultry in the college of agriculture, University of Kentucky, and County Agent S. W. Anderson presided at the meeting. The purpose of the organization is to endeavor to improve the poultry flocks of Nicholas county, and the requirement for membership is that the member be the owner of a pure-bred flock of chickens. Only owners of good flocks will be eligible.

At the meeting R. T. Gaffin was elected president of the association, R. C. Clark was elected vice president and Mrs. Matt Gaines was elected secretary. An executive committee composed of one member from each magisterial district will be appointed.

Another meeting of the association will be held on Saturday afternoon, March 19, at 1:30 o'clock, at which time a permanent organization will be effected, and a definite program for the work of the association for the year announced. The subject for discussion at this meeting will be the feeding of baby chicks and every phase of this question will be discussed. All those who will be present at this meeting and will join the association are poultry raisers on any question.

IDENTIFIED BY VICTIM

Hugh Fowler, 23 years old, and his brother, Henry Fowler, 22, were identified last week by Henry Cooper, 29, at the Harrison Memorial Hospital, in Cynthiana, as the two who assaulted and mutilated him last Tuesday morning.

Cooper said the men persuaded him to go into the rear of Marr's livery stable on West Pike Street, just across the street from the county jail. He said when they reached the rear of the stable one of the men pretended to look about "insulting a woman" and grabbed him around the neck, the other Fowler jerking his feet from under him. He said one held his arms and the other a head while the other sat across his feet and legs.

The Fowlers were arrested at the Automobile Inn, near Ed Bailey's, with whom Cooper lived, told Policemen Harry Liter and Henry Wilson they were the men who had assaulted Cooper, Policeman Wilson and Mr. Bailey made the arrest and the Fowlers were placed in jail, pending investigation of the charge.

The men denied any knowledge of the crime or having any part in it. Policeman Liter, Deputy Sheriffs Odus Kitchen and Virgil Florence took the men to the hospital Tuesday and Cooper identified them.

ONE MAN KILLED, FOUR OTHERS HURT

When C. & O. Train Strikes Automobile In Maysville Tuesday Night

TWO SERIOUSLY HURT

One man was killed, two others seriously hurt and two slightly injured when an automobile in which they were returning to Maysville from work was struck by a fast C. & O. passenger train at the Poplar street crossing in Maysville at 6:45 o'clock Tuesday night. The men, employes of Joe Simons, Sr., contractor, were returning from work on the W. E. Tyler farm in Mason county.

Taylor Poynter, with a crushed head and badly mangled body, died soon after being removed to the Hayswood hospital. Paris Ewin and Walker Johnson suffered severe cuts, bruises, possible fractures and other serious injuries, but may recover. Joe Simons, Jr., suffered cuts on the right side of his head, numerous other cuts about the head and body and a badly wrenched back. Buckley was the least hurt of all, suffering a gash on the forehead and bodily bruises. Buckley was driving the machine, which was completely demolished, pieces being strewn along the track. Poynter is survived by his wife and five children.

NEW DISTRICT LOSES OUT

Establishment of a third federal judicial district for Kentucky lost out at this session of Congress, which adjourned last Friday. Representative J. M. Robsion, of the Eleventh district, and Senator Richard P. Ernst sponsored the measure, which provided for creation to be known as the Nicholas County Poultry Association. Practically all of the persons at the meeting announced their intention of becoming members of the association.

The lad broke away from his mother and was running across the road and started to run around the rear of the vehicle. As he did so, his father, unconscious of the fact that is son was behind the car, backed up and a rear wheel passed over the boy's body, crushing him to death. Death was instantaneous.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Penrose were almost prostrated by the tragedy which was witnessed by a large number of people leaving the church.

Chicken And A Half Hatched At Sharpsburg

A freak of nature was unearthed at Sharpsburg last week when a chicken and a half hatched from one egg. It is living, and has four legs and feet, and a body and a half joined together, but has only one head and but one pair of wings.

The hen that hatched the egg is a Barred Plymouth Rock, owned by Mrs. Maggie Kitts. If the one hound can eat enough for the body and a half, it bids fair to live, and thus far, the one head is manipulating the bill vigorously.

Strange Malady Fatal To Farmer

Cynthiana Man Dies At Lexington Hospital From Disease Which Is Rare

Cyril Waits, 31 years old, of Cynthiana, died at the Joseph Hospital in Lexington last Friday afternoon from an actinomycosis infection of the jaw, according to hospital records. Mr. Waits had been at the hospital for the last two weeks, and five days before when he first visited the hospital he practically lost the sight of his eyes.

Actinomycosis is a ray-fungis infection, closely associated with tuberculosis, a disease of animals, according to Dr. J. E. Rush, head of the department of hygiene, University of Kentucky, who declared that the disease is extremely seldom transferred to humans, but is practically universally fatal to man. The infection may be caused by chewing a grain or a straw from animals, directly, according to Dr. Rush, who said the infection is most often in the jaw or tongue, and is called "wooden tongue" or "lumpy law."

Mr. Waits was a tenant on the farm of C. K. Bailey on the Millersburg pike, near Cynthiana, and suffered the infection there, it was believed. Mr. Bailey has a flock of sheep and other livestock on the farm, as well as hay and grain.

Fields Sets Time Of Execution For Attackers Of Girl

On April 8, in Madisonville, two negroes, Nathan Bard and Bunyan Fleming, will pay the death penalty by hanging for criminally assaulting Miss Catherine Breithaupt, of Birmingham, Ala., Governor Fields has announced.

The crime for which the negroes were convicted was committed last summer in Hopkinsville, where Miss Breithaupt and her mother were visiting. In company with Adam Stum, the young woman went to the Madisonville Country Club. Stum was held up at the point of a pistol by Columbus Hollis, another negro, while Bard and Fleming attacked the girl. Hollis confessed and was given a life sentence.

POOLERS URGED TO HOLD STOCK

Stone Warns Against Selling Securities Worth More Than Offered

CROP PAYMENT SOON

Warning to the 100,000 members of the Burley Growers Co-operative Association in the states of Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia, Tennessee, Missouri and Virginia against selling their stock in association warehouses and their participation certificates on the various pooled crops was given Saturday in a statement to the press by James C. Stone, president and general manager of the burley organization, in which Mr. Stone says that the securities are worth far more than those seeking to buy them are offering.

Mr. Stone says, in his statement, that the attempt to buy up these securities at "only a fraction of their fair value," is widespread and points to the experience of the old pool of 1906 to 1910, which finally paid 110 cents on each dollar of par value, but in which few of the growers stuck because most of them sold their stock for as little as 10 cents on the dollar, as evidence of the probable value of the stock which soon will be issued to the growers.

The burley chief also points out that an effort is being made now to purchase from members their participation certificates on the various crops and says that the growers will receive from the pool full for the 1926 crop within a few weeks, as payment will be made as soon as the selling season closes and the calculations can be made, and that they will receive money on the other crops as soon as they are sold.

"In view of these facts," Mr. Stone said, "I warn the growers not to sacrifice the fruit of their toil. The profit of the men who are buying this stock will be enormous, if you sell. Why not keep your stock and make this profit yourselves, and at the same time keep control of your own properties for the future potection of yourselves and families."

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE AVERAGE OVER 95 PCT

Tabulation For Fourth Period Of Six Weeks Shows Good Record

TARDINESS PREVALENT

Below is given a summary of the attendance record of the Carlisle Schools for the fourth six weeks of the current school term.

This is an excellent record; far above the average. We should however like to better it and with the cooperation of the parents it can be done. The number of cases of tardiness here shown should be reduced to a minimum and the child should be penalized by being kept from school only when absolutely necessary. The majority of our pupils are prompt and regular in attendance We have a few who have done much to lower our record.

Parents by consulting this report may know whether their children have contributed to column 2 or lowered number four or belong to that unlawful class of "Neither Absent nor Tardy."
