You Must Be Satisfied

When we make a delivery of coal we feel that our responsibility does not cease. You must be COMPLETELY SATISFIED.

We buy only the kinds of coal which we know we can absolutely guarantee and we are willing to stand behind any sale we make until the last lump is burned.

We would not have our customers shiver over a dead fire and then "warm up" by carrying out a lot of ash and clinkers.

Such coal as Blue Gem, King Mountain, Red Ash, Everglow and Elkhorn are dependable. We have been selling them long enough to know we are perfectly safe in any recommendation we make regarding their superior qualities.

PROGRAM

Tonight, Tuesday, Thomas Linan Barrymore and Marie Alba in "ROAD HOUSE," a melodrama of past moments. Don't miss it.

Friday—Greta Garbo and Conrad Nagel in "THE MYSTERIOUS LADY." This is one you sure want to see. It is a good one, full of action.

Saturday—Buddy Roosevelt in "THE BANDIT BUSTER," one of those old-time Red Blooded Western. Full of action and thrills. Also a comedy.

Monday—Charlie Chaplin in "OLD KID BROTHER." If you want to see a good one, don't miss "Kid Brother." It is full of comedy, romance and thrills and fighting action, different from Harold Lloyd's general run of pictures. To appreciate it you must see it. Come. Also a Paramount News Reel.

LYRIC THEATRE

See advertisement of Harper's Garage on Page 5.

A small crowd attended county court day here Monday but merchants reported fair business.

Wilburn Atkinson has taken a position as salesman at the store of R. T. Kirkland to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Earl Moore.

Willian Brannaman began his duties here Monday as general agent for the L. & N. Railroad Company to fill the vacancy caused by the transfer of H. C. Bonar.

Everett English, of Paris, was arrested here Monday afternoon by Sheriff L. B. Barton on a charge of being drunk in a public place. He was given a fine of $40.50 by Judge Darnall.

County Clerk John A. Westfall has not yet received the automobile license plates for 1929. Last year's tags and the plates will no doubt cause a congestion in the last few days of the year.

Sparks from a flue burning at the home of Mrs. Jennie Huffstetler on Turneman avenue about midnight ignited the roof, causing a fire alarm to be turned in. The blaze was extinguished without any damage.

Earnest Powell, lecturer, addressed a fairly large audience in the city school auditorium last Friday night. Mr. Powell's address was the second number of the lecture course which is on the Senior class being given here this winter.

Berry Burnaw, of Carlisle, who has been manager of a store at Berryville for P. Company at Portsmouth, Ohio for several weeks, has been transferred to Millersburg as manager of the store there. Mr. Burnaw was formerly a clerk in the Millersburg store.

A large attendance is expected at the dinner to be held in the banquet room of the Masonic building here on the Men's class of the Carlisle Christian Church Sunday school. Ron Young of Brown promises Lexington attorney, will be the principal speaker. The dinner will be held at 6:30.

The Christmas turkey market has been dreary here for the past week with dealers offering 25 cents per pound for first grade turkeys. Usually turkeys bring a better price for the Christmas trade than do the Thanksgiving trade. But the public dropped ahead five cents per pound this year.

City Marshall Wyatt Irwin calls attention to the ordinance which prohibits the shooting off of fire works on the streets and alleys of Carlisle. Mr. Irwin stated that he has warned a number of boys against the practice and if the ordinance is violated the offenders will be made to pay a fine.

Frank Howell, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Howell, of Huntington, W. Va., formerly of Carlisle, has been appointed sports editor of the Huntington newspaper. Howell is one of the best players Huntington ever turned out.

Postmaster George D. Scott calls attention of patrons of the postoffice to the necessity of properly tying packages and placing the name and address of the sender on the upper left hand corner of all packages. Mr. Scott urges all persons to mail packages early, as no postoffices will deliver mail on Christmas Day.

County Agricultural Agent C. B. Smith and Ralph Kenney, of the College of Agriculture, held a meeting at the Stony Creek school house last night and will hold another meeting at the Maple Grove school house tonight. Both meetings were held in the interest of encouraging farmers to grow more alfalfa and other legume crops.

The basket ball season of 1928-29 will be officially opened on the night of Dec. 21 at Carlisle with Bourbon County High as the opposition. Both boys and girls teams will play. This will be the only game before Christmas. The annual Alumni-High school game will be staged some time during the holidays. The remainder of the schedule will be announced in the near future.

E. G. Browning, farmer of the Goose Creek section, who was first prize on his tobacco at the agricultural fair here in September, last week sold his crop on the floors of the Virginia Avenue warehouse in Lexington for an average of $33.80 per hundred. One basket brought $44 per hundred pounds, the highest price paid for a basket of tobacco on the Lexington market that day.

More than one hundred students of the University of Kentucky will be awarded degrees the first of the year for work completed during the first semester this year and in summer school. Among the students are James William Bowen, formerly of Carlisle, who will be awarded a Master of Arts degree in education, and Marion Taylor Mathers, who will be awarded a Bachelor of Arts degree in education.

Social and Society

The Mercury will appreciate it, if those wishing to give us personal and social items of interest, will call Mrs. R. W. Keller, telephone 13.

THE MAN AND THE SQUIRRELS

A queer suburban Gentleman
Was walking with a palm-leaf fan.
With philosophic step and slow
And pace a-nodding to and fro.
Around his leafy bungalow
He marked the skipping Squirrels play
Upon their haunches with their paws
Against their bums, each with head
Atilt and bowed. And then he said
"I think I can explain the cause.
All men perceive how great I am,
And even the Squirrels here salaam;
And could they speak, they would not fail
To extol. O gracious Master, hail!"
Whereat he loosed unto the dumb
A largesse of a nut and crumb.

Moral I
O blest is he who can construe
Whatever other people do.
To suit his pride and point of view.

Moral II
And blest is he who's self-conceit
Yet gives the hungry things to eat.

Football Banquet

—On Wednesday evening, December 5, the members of the 1928 Football team and substitutes were graciously entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Rose. This has become an annual custom of the Rose family and each year the boys look forward to this festive occasion.

The house was decorated in green and white, the colors of the Carlisle eleven, and on each table was a lovely bouquet of the season's flowers in pottery.

At six o'clock a delicious turkey dinner was served. The ices were moulded in the shape of pottery and footballs.

At the conclusion of the dinner Mr. Rose made a few remarks extensively to West Virginia and in some Kentucky cities and Mr. Wallace responded for the council. It is understood that the council has decided to establish a new tree and decorations. Of course, keep by them. The Carlisle eleven finished the first half of 1929 in certain and great success was made.

Territory adjacent to the Louisville and Cincinnati markets—and this is particularly true of those sections east of the Mississippi River—is heavily stocked with feeders which is plentiful and cheap. Along almost every railroad and river in the Blue Grass section and shorthorns and the range cattle of the West, may be seen consuming feed as fast as the supply of it to them. Cattle feeders seem to understand, by the time, that there is danger of a temporary expansion of production and they are not rushing all their fat stock to the market before the price slumps.

Two years hence, as a result of the frenzied buying of range cattle, a real shortage may come in sight. Appearance of the boom in cattle was such in the fall of summer as early fall that the Western breeding herds were depleted. Heifer calves which should have been retained for breeding purposes were in the feed lots of the corn belt along with thin cattle and immature calves. The problem of the West is to recruit its herds up to normal, and this cannot be done overnight. The sacrifice of breeding cattle including older cows, is certain to cause a shortage of feeder stock in 1930. Everybody seems to believe.

A few factors may operate to save the feeders heavy losses. For one thing, the dairy industry has grown to large proportions in Kentucky and elsewhere that native or farm-grown beef cattle have diminished in numbers. This removes considerable competition. Feeders can also use their heifer calves, their stock at a cheaper per pound cost, since corn is more plentiful than last year. The best way however, for feeders to avert serious drops in price is to spread out their marketing over a longer period, holding more cattle till after the middle of the year. This may be followed to a great extent because many lightweight cattle have been brought to the feed lot and these may not be ready until a time when the market may have recovered.
