Distinguished Painter Will Lecture Here

Max Meldrum Comes from Paris for Redpath Tour.

Max Meldrum, one of the most honored and distinguished of contemporary painters and art critics, has been secured to come to America from Paris for a tour of the big Seven Day Redpath circuit and will give his vividly interesting and informative lecture "Depictive Art" on the third night of Redpath Week here.

This great painter was persuaded to make the American tour by the vice president of the Redpath Bureau, who made a personal trip to Paris last winter to see him.

Max Meldrum, describes the theory of art simply and clearly and illus trates it by a matchless collection of Masters slides of the old masters. His lecture has been aptly compared to Whistler's famous "Ten o'clock Lectures."

Charles Hackett, noted American tenor, writing of Mr. Meldrum, says: "I know him to be a great painter, but greater still, for the world of letters, as one who can explain what he does and what the great masters did. He does not envelop the art of painting with a mysterious cloak or fog of misunderstanding. He does not, but he talks a direct line understanding, satisfying and enjoyable to both lay listeners in art, as well as the layman in the street."

His accomplishments speak for Him. Playgrounds founded from coast to coast in two nations are a monument to his work. Skating rinks and, fologgan slides all through the north country are evidences of his visits. Community houses in twenty towns testify to his ability.

DEMOCRATS CHOOSE SMITH, ROBINSON

Candidates For Both Places Selected On First Ballot At Houston

HARMONIOUS MEETING

Alfred Emanuel Smith, Governor of New York, was nominated for Pres dent at the Democratic convention on the first ballot at the Democratic national convention at Houston, Texas, last Thursday night. The votes which turned the trick were contributed by Ohio, which on first roll call of the states had voted almost solidly for Senator Atles Pomerene, of Ohio. When the roll was completed Smith had 724 2-3, with 733 1-3 needed to nominate. The chairman of the Ohio delegation, obtaining recognition, gave Smith 45 of Ohio's 48 votes.

Mississippi, Indiana, Kansas and Nebraska then climbed on the band wagon and Smith's total vote was 816.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, who presided as permanent chairman of the convention, was chosen as the running mate for Presidnet by the overwhelming vote of 1,032. The next high candidate on the final roll was Major Gen eral Henry T. Allen, native of Sharpsburg, who had a total of 21 Senator Allen was the only one of the fifteen votes.

The convention, the first held in the South since the civil war, ended Friday afternoon in a spirit of harmony.

In nominating Senator Robinson the party linked the north and south for the first time in history.

Highlights in the platform adopted were as follows:

Prohibition—An honest effort to enforce the Eighteenth amendment and all other provisions of the federal constitution.

Agriculture—Credit aid to cooperative marketing associations; creation of a federal farm board; reduction of the spread between what the farmer receives and what the consumer pays.

Finance and taxation—A further reduction of the internal taxes of the people.

Foreign policy—Outlawry of war freedom from entangling political alliances with other nations.

Veterans—Generous appropriations, honest management, removal of vexatious and administrative delays, and systematic assistance to veterans of all wars.

Truck Burns In Fire At Garage

Lindsay Walker Burned About Hands In Fire Caused By Backfire Of Gasoline Engine

Lindsay Walker suffered slight burns about the hands Friday when a truck belonging to Harry Hamm was burned and another automobile was damaged by fire which started in the basement of the Main Street Garage Monday morning. The fire for a time threatened to destroy the building, but was extinguished with hand chemicals before the chemical tank of the fire department.

The fire was caused by a backfire from a gasoline engine. The engine was submerged during the high water and the fire was then ignited off with gasoline. Walker was cranking the engine when a backfire ignited the gasoline which had been used to clean it and spread to a small can. Walker grabbed another can filled with gasoline but in some manner spilled some of it. The can caught fire on the floor and the flames quickly spread.

The gasoline engine, which was used to fill the air tank, was ruined.

Grade School Law Attacked In Suit

Flemingsburg School Board To Test Act Requiring Maintenance Of Negro Schools

A suit to determine whether or not passed by the last Kentucky general Assembly relieves county boards of education of the control and maintenance of negro schools is slated within the territorial boundary of any graded school district, has been filed in the Fleming circuit court at Flemingsburg against the State Board of Education and the Fleming county board of education by the board of trustees of the Flemingsburg graded school district.

The suit, following a ruling from the state board of education to the Flemingsburg graded school district that the closing of the negro schools which requires graded school boards to maintain negro schools is their boundaries.

The Flemingsburg board holds that under the law as it stands they have no authority to take such steps and refuse to do so.

The result of this suit will be of interest to all graded school districts of the state. Cadiz has a similar situation to Flemingsburg and the result will be watched with much interest here.

WOULD ABOLISH COUNTIES

Counties Of Less Than 10,000 Unable To Support Themselves

Counties with less than 10,000 population should be abolished because they are unable to support properly their local government, Prof. Simon Leland, of the University of Kentucky told the County Tax Commissioners' Conference at Frankfort Friday.

Professor Leland asserted that the small counties with less than 10,000 persons are compelled to pay a higher tax rate for the upkeep of their legal government than is county with a larger population and more wealth.

He asserted that prior to 1917, in Kentucky, real estate was assessed anywhere from ten to eighty-five per cent of its true value, since the creation of the present State Tax Commission, Professor Leland said the tax rate is now on an equitably balanced on real estate throughout the state.

He told his audience that many of the complaints about property being assessed too high or too low in certain localities was in many cases the fault of the County Tax Commissioner himself, unacquainted with property.

Local Man Suggests Plan For Eliminating Present Unsightly Hitchrack At Court House

The regular monthly meeting of the Nicholas fiscal court was held Tuesday with all of the members present. Current accounts were allowed and other routine business transacted.

Sam K. Veach was before the fiscal court and suggested a proposition which, Mr. Veach explained would be a great improvement and would beautify the public square. Mr. Veach proposed that a concrete pavement be placed on Locust street and Maple street, adjoining the court house yard, and to be approximately five feet wide including the curb.

In the yard would be base rock rolling for hitching horses. The pavement would eliminate the present unsightly and unsanitary method of hitching horses. The present hitching place becomes muddy in wet weather, and it was pointed out that with the five buggies now used most of the space in front of the curb would be used for parking automobiles.

The proposition was deferred until the next meeting of the court.

Nicholas Citizens Asked To Give Poor Children Of Louisville Ten Days Vacation

Twelve counties in Kentucky and three states, Illinois, Indiana, and Tennessee have invited boys and girls of Louisville to spend summer vacations with them as a result of the Fresh Air Campaign of the Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times. The Carlisle Mercury is cooperating with the Fresh Air Committee to find homes in this county.

The Children's Bureau of the Louisville Community Chest receives applications of poorer boys and girls of Louisville for vacations. The Health Council gives all applicants a physical examination before any one is allowed to leave Louisville unless they pass. The Fresh Air Fund, for which the Courier-Journal and The Times accept contributions, pays the transportation and laundry for the vacationists. Persons in this county who are willing to entertain a child for a week are invited to write the Fresh Air Committee, either in care of The Mercury or the Courier Journal and The Times of Louisville.

Committees Appointed To Arrange For Annual Event Here

TO BE WEEK EARLIER

At a meeting held in the office of County Agent C. B. Elston last week, the date was set and plans made for the annual free agricultural fair, which will be held in the Grovers warehouse on East Main street.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 27, 28 and 29, have been set as the date for the fair, which will be a week or two earlier than in previous years. This was done in order that a better collection of vegetables and flowers would be available before frost.

Judge Paul D. Darnell was appointed general chairman of the fair committees, with Wyatt Ingram as assistant, and George C. Myers as secretary. John Parker Ross was appointed chairman of the committee to secure the warehouse and W. C. Clark and L. B. Barton were appointed as a committee to arrange for the old fiddlers contest. Burley Tobacco Hit By Storms

5 Percent Ruined, Another 5 Percent Damaged, Experiment Station Men Say

Possibly 5 per cent of the burley tobacco crop was ruined by the cloudburst and resulting high water in about 20 counties in the district in Kentucky last week and another 5 per cent was damaged, according to estimates by county agricultural agents and officials at the Burley Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington.

Because of the high prices received for burley tobacco last winter, farmers have planted an unusually heavy crop this spring and the flood reduction will fail to bring the crop down to a normal yield.

FLOODS CAUSE BIG DAMAGE IN STATE

Every County In Central Kentucky Suffers From Storm Friday

LEXINGTON HARD HIT

A terrific windstorm, coming as a climax to other heavy rains of the last month, swept over Central Kentucky Friday morning, causing heavy damage in every county in the Blue Grass. The reports indicate that the damage will reach $2,500,000.

Lexington was probably the heaviest sufferer. The loss from high water in the tobacco district of that city totaled more than $500,000. Machinery in redrying plants was put out of commission and hundreds of hogsheads of tobacco, stored in the warehouses, were ruined. A great number of Lexington residences, with South Broadway, the worst flooded, the greatest damage being to the Phoenix and Lafayette hotels. The loss at the Phoenix hotel is estimated at $100,000, the basement being flooded. The Lafayette hotel suffered a loss of $60,000 due to the flooding of the basement.

The greatest damage throughout the district was to growing crops, however, hundreds of acres of tobacco and corn being washed.

For several hours Friday morning a repetition of the flood of 1920 was threatened in Carlisle. Gardens and basements were flooded and East Main street and West Main street were impassable from the high water.

Throughout the county heavy damage is reported to crops, tobacco and corn being either washed from the ground or covered with mud to such an extent that it was ruined.

Busses were unable to travel between Carlisle and Lexington Friday morning, due to the high water and the electric current was off here for several hours because of the fact that the power connection between Lexington and Paris was under water.

New York state, with a wealth of $40,000,000,000, is richer than 42 states fourteenth in per capita wealth.
