into your box, or another, first. She'll be all right now. Bedsides—I planned behind me "yonder comes Fred."

His eyes followed mine. "Then I'll leave you to Fred," he said. "Good afternoon!" he raised his hat and turned away.

"Oh! Well—please!" I falsely shrieked the words. "Good afternoon! I went on as he faced me again "Aren't you going to tell me who you are?"

He laughed. "Gladly!" he said "But why?"

"Why?" I echoed. "Father will want to thank you. And—and I will want to thank you. I—I can't do it properly now and—"

Once more he laughed. He certainly did have a nice laugh. "I guess we'll pass the thanks," he said, finally. "I'm very glad to have been of service to you, but—Good-by!" This time he was gone in good earnest.

What could I do? I couldn't sit on there and pull on him. I couldn't gallop up to that bus load of staring sightseers that I looked at there. I thought they looked sort of queer—and dressed the same and wherever he came and give him another chance to answer my question. Since he hadn't, I couldn't even sit still and watch him. I couldn't do anything but ride to meet Fred. I turned my horse's head and he was a lot more excited than I was. I wanted to make him gallop after the bus, which was fast disappearing, but he decided on whatever people and things do disappear into, and to find out all he could about my presence. And I didn't do it; after all, saving a girl's life doesn't give a man under any obligations to her; and if M. P. (my preserver) wanted to remain anonymous, I had no right to stop him. Besides, Fred wouldn't have let me. I was fussing about me like a hen with one chicken, and he insisted on carrying me home on his saddle. I wanted to, anyway, sticking up out of every horse-cover. He gave me a lift and we started off at a word. But it certainly was tough to be remembering that I'd seen with my eyes—the first here I have ever met personally, too—go out of my life in an awful way without even so much as a name as a memento of his putting it cried myself a little that night.

Blue Grass Seed Almost Failure

Stems Too Short To Strip In Fields Where There Is Grass Farmers Declare

The blue grass seed crop throughout this section will be almost a complete failure this year, according to reports from various counties.

The stems of the grass are too short to permit stripping with machines and in addition the fields are extremely light with the seed. In some fields the seed is fairly plentiful, but dealers say it would be unprofitable to attempt stripping.

Usually at this time of year the fields are full of strippers. The seed crop will be ripe within the next few days, it is said, and little effort will be made to strip it.

The failure this year will cause no shortage, dealers say, as thousands of bushels were left over from last year.

Car Driven By Miss Tempest Lawrence Struck By Freight

Miss Tempest Lawrence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lawrence had a narrow escape Saturday afternoon when her automobile was struck by a switching freight train at the Carlisle mill crossing. Miss Lawrence had made a purchase in the mill and was leaving. An engine was pushing a string of cars up the track, Miss Lawrence's view being obstructed by cars on another track. She failed to hear the warning of bystanders and trainmen and drove directly on the track.

The radiator and fender of Miss Lawrence's car were smashed and the machine pushed off the track. Except suffering greatly from the shock Miss Lawrence was uninjured

Joe Shea and Melvin Sampson Injured When Their Car Collided With Another Machine

Joe Shea and Melvin Sampson of Blue Lick, this county, were suffered serious injuries last Friday afternoon when their automobile was struck by another car and overturned on the Falmouth pike about a mile from Cynthiana. The accident occurred on the north a northbound bus which also struck the car.

Shea received severe cuts on the hands and head and Sampson had a deep scalp wound. Sampson was unconscious for several hours. The two young men were taken to the Cynthiana hospital where they are reported that their injuries were dressed and remained there for treatment. Two other occupants of the car escaped injury.

The driver of the car coat collided with Shea and Sampson did not stop and the only clue to his identity was the fact that he lives at "Corbin, Ky," on it. Shea and Sampson told authorities that they were on their way to Covington.

Ogden Family Enroute Home

Rev. and Mrs. James C. Ogden and Two Children Left Thet In April Or May

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Ogden last week received a letter from their daughter-in-law, Mrs. James C. Ogden, telling of the intention of the Ogden family to leave Thet in April or May for the United States on a visit. Mr. Ogden will be required to make the journey, as the trip from Thet to the coast of China must be made by boat, on horseback and by camel train. Mr. and Mrs. Ogden have been missionaries in China for more than twenty years. The letter follows:

Thet, Hutang, February 17, 1928

Dear Folks,

I am writing this time because I seem to be the one that has time before the mail goes in the morning.

We have been telling you for a long time we are coming home this year. We are packing up now, and planning to leave in April or May. We have not definitely decided the date yet, but either in April or May. I have wanted to leave in the spring so the children can go to school this fall, and I hope it turns out that way, but traveling in China is so slow it may take us some time to get home. There is a lot of business to attend to all along the line, and that will all take time. Tatsienlu will need to have supplies and money looked after for the folks who stay and the Orphanage. I think Jim has a big list of errands that will need attention all along to the coast. It seems now like the summer would be quiet for us to get along all right. The tribes people Washe, will take us to Tatsienlu. The Yunnan route is practically closed, anyway, from here to Atuntze for us, since the Duncan, MacLeod robbery last June We are not going to risk it anyway. The Szechuen route our Province, seems fairly safe now.

The apricots are all in full bloom, so you see spring is here at last.

It will not be spring in April going over the mountains, but it is not the real rainy season, so we ought to get along fine.

We will stay at the Mission Home, 28 Quinsan Road Shanghai. We should be there if all goes well by the travel fairly fast about July 1st or somewhere along there.

You can please tell any of our folks you meet as it is almost impossible for us to do much writing now.

I must close now. I only wanted to let you know about our starting from here in April or May.

Love and best wishes to all.

Minnie F. Ogden.

$6,929 DUE STATE

Former Treasurers Made Illegal Expenditures; Examiner Says

In a report on the office of the State treasurer for a period from July 1, 1920 to March 31, 1928, filed Saturday with Gov. Flem D. Sampson by State Inspector and Examiner John Asheraft, former State Treasurers James A. Wallace and E. B. Dishman are charged with owing the state a total of $6,929.96 which in Mr. Ashcraft recommended that the attorney general collect.

Of the total amount, $2,009 is charged against Mr. Wallace representing the salary paid his assistant treasurer in excess of the salary fixed by law. Mr. Dishman is charged with $4,920.96, of which $2,829.96 was paid his assistant treasurers in excess of the statute limitation. The remaining $2,100 is of a negro. Three negro men came along cursing and talking loudly. The officer remonstrated with them when suddenly one of the negroes pulled a pistol and fired one shot. Before Wills fell he fired one shot at the fleeing negro.

Two of the negroes made their escape while the other was captured by negro spectators. The captured negro furnished officers the name of the negro who fired the shot, and Garland Wilson, negro, was arrested in the county early Sunday morning and lodged in jail. Wilson admitted the shooting, but declared he fired in self defense when someone on the porch fired at him. Spectators deny he was shot at before Wills fell to the street.

Howard Wills is a native of Carlisle, where he was born and reared and attended school. He was formerly engaged in business here, but was a member of the Lexington police department for several years.

New High Record Established On Cynthiana Market

Lamb prices in Kentucky reached a new high record for the year at Cynthiana last Thursday when 72 spring lambs weighing near 70 pounds each, sold for a price of $21.25 per hundred pounds. This price is 85 cents higher than the previous record of $20.40 set on the Danville market.

Delegates to the state Democratic convention to be held at Lexington today will be given the most part be free to exercise their own preference in the election of delegates to the National Democratic convention at Houston, Texas, and in the instruction of delegates.

In county organization meetings in the 120 counties of the state Saturday, most of the delegates were instructed to vote for Al Smith. Only 35 counties instructed their delegates to vote for Al Smith for President and in many other counties delegates known to be favorable to Smith were selected. It is believed the state convention will instruct for Smith.

G.O.P. National Convention Opens

Hoover Will Probably Be Nominated, With Dawes As Running Mate, At Kansas City

The Republican national convention opened at Kansas City Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, and after the opening address by Chairman Butler, appointment of committees and preliminary organization, the convention was adjourned until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Wednesday's session was taken up with speeches and nominations, and today will probably be a repetition. It is not thought that balloting will start before Friday morning.

Herbert Hoover will be nominated on the first ballot, because the friends of Hoover have combined to prevent his nomination, and may succeed. Dispatches to the Louisville Herald-Post, noted political writer, in announcement over the radio, Hoover will be nominated on the first ballot with Dawes as his running mate on the first ballot.

It is generally conceded now that President Coolidge will not accept the nomination under any conditions.

Nine Men Given Life Sentences

Alleged Members Of Mob Which Set Fire To House and Shot Occupants Guilty

Tried jointly, nine men, one of them a negro woman, were sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of an aged woman whom they killed in their home, because she had furnished prohibition agents information which resulted in a raid upon a moonshine still which they were charged with operating.

The verdict was reached after 13 hours deliberation by a Jury in the Bullitt circuit court at Shepherdsville last Thursday. On the night of baffles the jury stood three for the death penalty and nine for life sentences. The defendants were: Magistrate John Bolton, Frank Linder, James Harris, Elmer and Ernest Cummins, Jeff Mattingly, Selby and Golden Hodge. Never before in the history of Kentucky had so many defendants been tried jointly and all convicted on a murder charge.

The night of May 4 Mrs. Kate Browning, an aged woman, awoke to find her cabin in flames. With her aged sister, her two daughters and her two sons, she attempted to escape from the burning building. The only door to the cabin was bolted from the outside and the occupants were forced to cut an opening. As they left the burning building the family was fired upon by a mob, Mrs. Browning being killed instantly and all other members of the family were injured, none seriously. The family identified members of the mob, leading to arrests.

Attorneys for the men have announced that new trials will be sought.

The others sentenced to die are Hascou Dockery, white, convicted in Harlan county in 1926 for the triple murder of Joseph Jenkins, Mrs. Jenkins and Elizabeth Howard; Milford Lawson, convicted in Whitley county in 1926 for the murder of John Stansberry, and Clarence McQueen, negro, convicted in Harrison county of the murder of Louis Williams, negro.

Howard Wills Is Shot By Negro

Lexington Patrolman, Native Of Carlisle, Wounded Saturday Night, Will Recover

Sgt. J. Howard Wills, of the Lexington police department, was shot through the right groin Saturday night at 11:05 o'clock while on duty in plain clothes in a negro settlement in Lexington. Wills was rushed to a hospital where it was found that a bone in his thigh was fractured, and although suffering considerably, the wound is not thought to be serious and he will recover.

Wills was sitting on a porch in front of a grocery store on Wilson street, where he had gone in search of a negro. Three negro men came along cursing and talking loudly. The officer remonstrated with them when suddenly one of the negroes pulled a pistol and fired one shot. Before Wills fell he fired one shot at the fleeing negro.

Two of the negroes made their escape while the other was captured by negro spectators. The captured negro furnished officers the name of the negro who fired the shot, and Garland Wilson, negro, was arrested in the county early Sunday morning and lodged in jail. Wilson admitted the shooting, but declared he fired in self defense when someone on the porch fired at him. Spectators deny he was shot at before Wills fell to the street.

Howard Wills is a native of Carlisle, where he was born and reared and attended school. He was formerly engaged in business here, but is now a member of the Lexington police department for several years.
