MIRANDA

Friday night, March 16, was observed as Father's Night by the Miranda P. T. A. Gen. Carter led the program. The program consisted of recitations, readings, and songs, which were given by the fathers. After the program a plate lunch was served.

The next meeting will be held at the school house on April 20.

BANTA

Thieves entered the chicken house of Mrs. Ina Mann, Monday night, stealing a dozen of some of the best White Rock hens she had. This stealing has happened a dozen or more times in this vicinity in the last month or so.

Harvey Wagoner is having a new addition built to his home. Its Mitchelltree, of Cynthiana, is doing the work.

BARTERVILLE

Our good neighbor Allie Snapp, tapped some trees for maple sap, and made some tree molasses.

Our school put on an entertainment last Friday night, consisting of song jubilee exercises, and a high school play entitled, "Too Much of a Good Thing." Winds, rain, sleet and snow, all came on the same time, and many thought that "too much of a good thing."

Uncle William Greene was quite critically ill with a form of heart trouble, with little, if any recuperation.

Sorry not to be able to report our near neighbor, Mrs. McVey convalescing. His condition remains about the same.

Mrs. Estill Anderson, quite suddenly, became very ill last week, but is better now. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are our new neighbors.

Homer Moreland and family, of Paris, were guests of Hosett Ritchie and family last week.

For ordinary...n days ago Mr. Sam Day had a surprise when he went out among his sheep and found by one mother ewe and two normal size lambs, fully developed in every way, except one had no head. The ewe had not furnished evidence that it died at birth, because of no way to breathe.

Some people may remember when Butler's English grammar was taught in our schools. The author's name was Noble Butler. We have in a "noble Butler" now in our vicinity. (Butler Ritchie.)

A distressing accident was narrowly averted last Tuesday afternoon, when little Dortha Marie Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Miller, fell through the door of their automobile, while running rapidly towards same, and struck the pike with stunning force, all unnoticed, until her mother chanced to look backward, time for which she had child. On rushing back, they found the child with face cut and bleeding. She was rushed to Dr. Reynolds' office, Carlisle, where a severe cut over the eye and other minor bruises were dressed, and the child is now getting well.

Mrs. Strawder Feeback spent Sunday with Mrs. Chas. Jones.

Peculiar Rainbow

A rainbow may sometimes be seen all day long in a cloudless sky in Siberia. It is stated to be due to reflection of the sun on fine particles of snow in the air.

William Schwan Awarded Prize

For Best Essay Submitted On Recent Trip To Frankfort By City School Students

On March 13 some 91 of the upper six grades of the Carlisle city schools, supervised by Superintendent Pfanstiel, Mrs. Turner Thomas and Miss Ellen Thomas, made a trip to Frankfort. The day was very enjoyably and profitably spent. A first and second prize was offered for the best composition describing the trip. The first prize was won by Willam Schwan and the second by Willie Willoughby. Honorable mention was given Louise Myers, Geneva Laughlin, Arnold Mattox, Everett Ruddell and George Rankin Carter. Several of the students broke forth in zythne, the best of which is published elsewhere.

Following is the prize winning composition:

Some ninety students of Carlisle city School, with several teachers, left Carlisle in three C. C. C. busses at 7:35 a. m. Tuesday morning, March 13th. We arrived at Kentucky's Capital, Frankfort, in about three hrs. The busses we went in were nicely furnished and very comfortable. We experienced no misfortunes during the trip.

The first place we visited was the beautiful State Capitol building. One of the outstanding features of the Capitol was the beautiful marble, which gives an impressed in beauty. We then visited the House of Representatives, which was the next place we went to. We all assembled in the spacious auditorium where we were met by the Governor, Hon. Flem D. Sampson. He gave us a short, interesting talk about the values of citizenship and the greater opportunities that are afforded us, than those of his time. He also invited us to go through the Mansion, his home. So that was the next place we went to as it is only a short distance from the Capitol. It is a very beautiful building. We were shown into a large attractive room, where we were entertained with music. The floors were polished and were pretty parquetry. There were many handsome rugs on the floors also. From the Mansion we went to the Capitol. Upon approaching, we were given a certain number to endorse which indicates the place where Governor Goebel was killed. There are cards and pictures, among which are many huge paintings that adorn the walls. During the investigation of Governor Goebel's murder, where one sees many fine examples of the work of Carl Beth. There is a stuffed peacock whose feathers are almost five feet long.

Near the staircase are some relics of long ago. For instance, there is an old muzzle loading gun, to be one of the oldest of its kind. Someone filled with old flags. There is a collection from all over the United states, old battered war relics, which is a gift to the state. There are carvings on it, and also a note on it for every Indian killed with that time he wrote a letter he had written.

We now ascended the stairs to the second floor. The staircase is made of solid marble and is self-supporting. There is no support of that type in this country. On the second floor, above the stairs, are the busts of many of Kentucky's most famous men, including the outstanding Henry Clay. In the rooms where the Legislature met for many years are a number of ancient relics. There is the lining of one of George Washington's coats, and a fine example of one of the first pianos, which, in reality is only a harp set to a keyboard. There is also a candlestick holder and a silver inkstand, each of which weighs over a hundred pounds. It was taken from the fire of our old ships. We also see two larger than life size paintings, one of Washington, for which the state has been offered $100,000; the other, that of La Fayette. We also saw a railway over the Alleghany Mountains. There is also an old colonial lantern made of tin, and many very old chairs, skillets and foot-warmers. The flags of all the states and many very old flags are in the room. In one corner there are very many spinning wheels and looms.

From this building our bus took us to the State Penitentiary. As we approached it we were impressed by the tall dismal walls, with the guard houses on top, which surround the prison. We go through in double lines, the guards protecting us from all sides. The cells were dismal than anything else, are scarcely large enough for a cot and standing room. Outside are corridors where the guards patrol.

We then go to the dining rooms, where there are many tables with benches around them. From there we are taken into the kitchen where we see immense coffee and tea pots. At one side of the kitchen is the baking oven., where 800 loaves of bread are baked daily. There are large factories in the prison grounds where the prisoners work, but we did not get to go through them as our crowd was too large. All the while the prisoners were as mulienly. There were a number of other schools there that day and the guards said that Carlisle was the most orderly.

We were then conducted to the bus and left out one by one, in order that no prisoner might escape.

We boarded the bus and arrived home happier and wiser, after having spent a very enjoyable day.

William J. Schwan.

SAUCE FOR THE GANDER

(Louisville Times)

The Kentucky Utilities Company donates $10,000 for Mammoth Cave National Park.

If a National Park in another section is a project as profitable to the State that the Insull crowd has moved to contribute $10,000 why rob the mountains of the Bluegrass asset of Kentucky, and of that section merely; an asset as surely capitalizable as Mammoth Cave?

What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.

PROGRAM

Tonight, Thursday, comes Lois Moran in "PUBLICITY MANNESS." Beauty only skin deep? It is so deep as the heart of a woman. Don't miss it.

Friday—Marian Davies and Conrad Nagel in Barrie's great play, "QUALITY STREET." If you want to see a real picture see this one.

Saturday—Wally Wales in "TWINTED TRIGGERS," a dandy good Western; also a comedy.

Coming soon—"BEN HUR."

Monday and Tuesday — Comes John Gilbert and Renee Adoree in "THE BIG PARADE." Greatest of all great motion pictures. "The Big Parade" is a simple story, simply told. Jim Apperson, an easy going likeable young fellow enlists at the outbreak of the war, leaving his family and sweetheart. He becomes deeply attached to his two buddies, Slim and Bull, played delightfully by Karl Dane and Tom O'Brien. While stationed behind the lines, he falls in love with a French peasant girl, Melisande, and at the conclusion of the war goes home to find conditions changed. It would be unfair to the future audiences to tell the rest of the story. How he works out his destiny is for you to see—a real human climax. Don't fail to see this big picture. The price of admission 25 and 50c.

LYRIC THEATRE

Charles King has taken the agency in this county for the Whippet automobiles.

"The Bubble," a three act comedy, will be presented in the city school auditorium Wednesday night.

St. Patrick's Day Saturday ushered in some of the worst weather of the winter, with a heavy snow on the ground.

Ben Alexander has resigned as manager of the theatre store at Winchester and has accepted a position with Sexton's store here.

Yesterday was the first day of spring, according to the calendar. The cold week period of bad weather forecast by the groundhog is due to end today.

J. E. Smythe, poultry specialist of the college of agriculture, will assist County Agent C. B. Elston in a poultry demonstration at the county court house Friday afternoon.

Wyatt M. Insko and George W. Taylor will be at the redryer to deliver stock of pool members in the District Warehousing Corporation.

In police court Tuesday William Hartley, charged with disorderly conduct, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Myers. Kenneth Ingram, charged with the same offense, will be tried today.

In county court Saturday Tom Sapp of the Pleasant Valley section, charged with disorderly conduct and resisting an officer, was found not guilty by a twelve man jury. Sapp was charged with using abusive language and threatening to strike Clara May Sapp, his niece.

Gross earnings of the Kentucky Utilites Company, exclusive of subsidiaries, were $6,344,172.65 in 1927, an increase of 13.7 per cent over the gross earnings in 1926, according to the annual report of the operations made last week.

Approximately twenty employes of the Kentucky Utilities Company from this and Carlisle attended a public relations meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Hardesty last Thursday night. Following an interesting program refreshments were served. Members of the city council were guests at the meeting.

W. W. Alcoke, who has been resident engineer for the State Highway Commisioner here for the past two years, has been transferred to Cynthiana. Mr. and Mrs. Alcoke, who have been residing at the home of Sam T. Howe, will leave for Cynthiana today. They have made many friends during their stay in Carlisle.

The March issue of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company magazine carries an interesting write-up of Carlisle, Paris and other towns on the Paris and Maysville division of the railroad. One page of the magazine is devoted to illustrations and accounts of historical and interesting places in Carlisle and Nicholas county.

H. T. Letton, well known Nicholas county farmer, sold last week to P. E. Treesy, of Toledo, Ohio, a five-gaited saddle mare for the record price of $1,225. This by mare, Lillian Peavine, is by Mc-Donald Peavine, a son of the famous show horse, Rex Peavine. This is probably the highest price received for a Nicholas county horse in the past ten years.

The mare was trained by Jesse Bonnell.

SPRINGTIME WOODS

What bluebul bliss the sluggards miss who lie in bed a-drowse.
Now Phoebus drives his ruddy shafts athwart the silvered boughs!

Not theirs the sparkling artistry on stem and blade and stone,
The brooklet's tinkling solo in the cold air clearer grown.

Not theirs the lucky squirrel, now on swaying branches buoyed.
Now gayly parachuting down the parlous airy void.

A second's halt—a furry ball—two jewelet eyes—a glance!
Then down the bent nest's polished stem there flies a furry dance!

Not theirs the thrushes raking nooks for meager chance of food,
Now Frost hath flung his cruel gage on every fallow rood.

Here robins hop with pheasant-lords of proud and glossy feather,
That shyly court the haunts of men when churlish is the weather.

For, far on high the pillared boles To weave a screen canonical for Heaven's purering light;
Here anchorages—who would not be a ragged eremite?

The mine to print the velvet by the Titan beechy root,
To bathe in deep leaf-melody an idle glowing foot.

A path hedged in with shrubbery divides my rich demesne,
A rustling Red Sea floor betwixt two walls of evergreen!

WOOL OUTLOOK GOOD

For Kentucky Farmers, According To Successful Traders

The outlook for wool is favorable but caution is needed in expanding the production of sheep, according to the Experiment Station statement issued by the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky. The statement follows:

"Sheep have been profitable during recent years and the outlook is for a continued increase. In 1927 the number on farms in this country increased 6½ per cent and the estimated farm value per head increased from $9.71 to $10.22. The increases in numbers have been scattered throughout the country but during the past year the number of sheep in Kentucky and competing spring lamb producing states increased about 12 per cent.

LAMBS DYING

Clark county sheep growers, as well as those throughout Kentucky and the South, have suffered thousands of dollars loss in lambs, that are dying in great numbers on account of the effects of milk from the ewes. The mothers have been unable to obtain grass and there is no milk for the young ones. This has been an extremely hard winter for sheep and lambs, the cold weather without snow has killed all the wheat, rye and small grain and it is pitiful in many cases in this and surrounding counties to see the lamb crop suffering. In Bourbon, John Harris Clay according to reports reaching this paper yesterday, had over 100 ewes to lamb and nearly all have died. Kentucky lamb crops this season promise to be sky high in price.—Winchester Democrat.

ANNUAL INSPECTION HELD

Local National Guard Organization Given Satisfactory Rating

The annual federal inspection of Howitzer Company 149th Infantry, local national guard organization, was conducted by Colonel Hoffman, regular army officer, last Friday. All of the records and property of the organization were inspected in the afternoon and the members were put through a drill.

Colonel Hoffman gave the organization a satisfactory rating and complimented the members on their appearance.

Following the night inspection the members of the organization, the inspection officer and other army officers attended a dinner in the penny lunch room at the city school.

HOME

Who never helps to make a home
Can hardly call it his:
Because he saves or dreams or plans,
The carpenter's it is;
And cottages heart-built are far
More dear that stuffed mansions are.

Who never helps to make a home
Can scarcely call it hers:
Until she fondly serves therein,
It is in fairness;
But she who gives to it her best
Creates a place of joy and rest.

Who never helps to make a home
Can never call it theirs:
Unless love fills it, it will be
A thing of walls and chairs;
But cherished homes as springs recur
Grow somehow ever lovelier.
