FARM WOMEN HAVE LITTLE IDLE TIME

A survey made by Miss Zilpha Foster county home demonstration agent, shows that McCracken county farm women spend a week as follows:

36 hours in cooking, canning and baking.

5 hours in ironing.

6 hours in doing the family washing.

14 hours attending to chickens and cows, churning and caring for milk.

7 hours in the garden or caring for the yard.

14 hours washing dishes, pots, pans and cream separators.

11 hours in cleaning the house.

10 hours in sewing.

Miss Foster sent questionnaires to 553 farm women in order to find out what they do with their time.

Thirty-five percent of the women said that they have no leisure time whatever. Sixty-five percent of them reported as leisure time from one to three hours daily, but many of the women included as leisure the time they spend in darning, mending and embroidering, with no more than 30 minutes spent in reading. One-fifth of the 65 percent take short naps during their leisure time.

The majority of the women get up at 4:30 o'clock and continue to work until 8:30 in the evening. Some get up at 4 o'clock, while a few sleep until 5:30. Most of them work 16 hours daily.

Most of the women have families of five to eight members.

NINE COMMANDMENTS OF HUNTING SEASON

Kentucky hunters have been presented a list containing nine commandments of hunting season ethics compiled for the 1928 hunting season by Seth F. Gordon, Chicago conservation director of the Izaak Walton League of America:

Mr. Gordon's list of rules follows:

1. A human life is worth more than all the game in America—see clearly before shooting.

2. Carelessness with firearms is criminal—play safe and avoid accidents.

3. Healthful recreation and the thrill of the chase are a true sportsman's objectives always.

4. Observance of the law and creation of the game hog are responsibilities no sportsman can evade.

5. A fair chance with muskrats still more game than many shotguns—prevent fires.

6. Only vandals destroy farmers' fences, injure their stock or disregard their wishes.

7. Real sportsmen never try their skill around farmyards, pastures and trespass signs.

8. Baiting ample stock and feeding it during the wintertime will perpetuate the sport.

9. A clear conscience at the end of the trip and an invitation to come again beats a full bag.

KNOW Your South and be a Partner in the Big Growth...

St. Louis
Western Frontier of the Southland

The Nation's "shopping center" might well be the characterization given metropolitan St. Louis. With more than 4,000 industries producing approximately $1,200,000,000 in manufactured commodities annually, and numerous distributing and jobbing houses located in the district, "Greater St. Louis" is one of the foremost commercial and industrial centers in the country.

More than 319 diversified lines of products, running virtually the whole gamut of industrial productivity, are being produced in the district, which comprises generally the territory within a radius of approximately 50 miles around the City of St. Louis.

With twenty-eight railroads radiating to all sections of the country, and an extensive package-car system, the city is "twenty-four hours from anywhere" in the country.

In a suburb near St. Louis has made equally wise provision. The magnificent Municipal Opera, located in vast and expansive Forest Park, one of the largest parks west of the Mississippi, is the largest municipally owned outdoor theatre in the world. Jefferson Memorial is the home of the City's historical archives, and the display place for the famous collection of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, famous Atlantic flier.

What the "OLD RELIABLE" means to St. Louis.

St. Louis is the sixth city in size in the United States, the Northwestern terminus of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, and the most populous city on its rails. It is one of the largest primary grain markets in the United States, as well as one of the largest live-stock markets.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad has an average of 450 employes in the St. Louis terminal district with an annual payroll in excess of $750,000. It operates eight scheduled passenger trains and fourteen freight trains into and out of St. Louis daily, with numerous extra sections as needed. It is the only strictly Southern railroad to have its own station in St. Louis for the receipt and delivery of freight, handling cotton goods, lumber, and other raw materials produced in the South, and finished products moving from St. Louis.

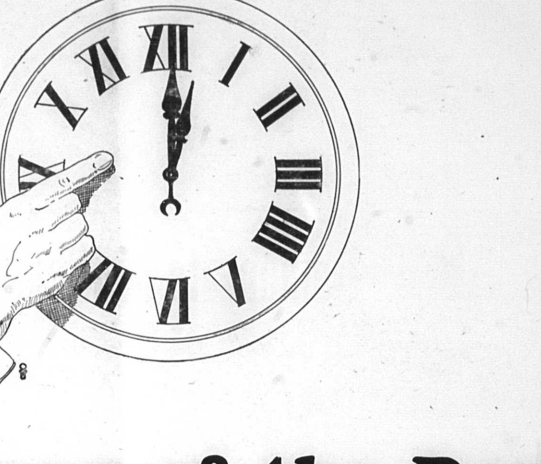
$40.85 PER CAPITA IN U. S. TREASURY; SUM DECLINES

The stock of money in the United States September 30 was reported by the treasury at $5,211,615,127 or $40.82 per capita for the estimated 116,720,000 population on that day.

Of the total money stock $6,415,083,402 was in circulation outside of the treasury. The actual per capital stock of money showed a decline from the $42.18 figure reported one year ago.



Every Hour of the Day

WE ARE FOR CARLISLE

We have CONFIDENCE in its present and its future . . . .

We want this community of ours to be a good clean, healthy place in which to live . . . . . .

We want it well and responsibly governed . . . . . .

We are in favor of all worthy development for local betterment . . .

We feel that it will benefit each member of this community if we each buy every possible thing we can at home---keep our money here where we can profit through its spending.
