MISSPELLED WORD CONTEST IS ENDED

Contest Editor's Mind Befuddled Trying To Learn How To Spell Words Wrong

MRS. WASSON IS WINNER

Well, well! Didn't someone write something about a pitcher that went to the well once too often? Well, here's one about a Misspelled Word Editor that didn't go to the dictionary often enough or carefully enough, or something, lowil and namely.

In the advertisement of R. T. Kirkland & Company, the Misspelled Word Editor intended the word "real," to be the misspelled word. In the advertisement of the Modern Laundry, he chose "rark" and in the advertisement of Verna Stone, "hall." According to the Misspelled Word Editor's understanding and careless consultation of the dictionary, these words could be spelled correctly in the following way: rely, serv, wreck, hale.

But Mrs. W. B. Wasson proved a word-sleuth who will out-Webster old Dan'l himself and she certainly proof-read the architect of this spelling contest into a state of incoherent dissatisfie and we don't mean maybe. She pointed out that serv, meaning dry or withered, could also be spelled "rearv," and could it be a case of Shakespeare's "Macbeth," as well as the dictionary. She also demonstrated by the dictionary that one could "go up rack and ruin" as well as wreck and ruin and cast aside the orthographical and be "hail and hearty" as well as hale and hearty. And she found an unintentional typographical error in Verna Stone's ad: the word was "wich," spelled, "with."

The Misspelled Word Editor is glad there are no more contests this week. He means to stick to words of one syllable and stay in the spelling class in which he belongs after this. Of course these three ads were not entered in grading all papers and marked perfect, whatever the answer.

Mrs. Wasson's ingenious answer to this contest is published on the editorial page. It is well worth reading. Aside from its cleverness, it shows the errors into which the most interesting contest possible the value of the series of advertisements.

The correct list for this week follows: that first let us say, that "thresher" and "thresher" are both correct. And also we are glad to find that very few "bright lexicons" contain that non-existent word, "alright."

FORTY-NINE SNAKE EGGS

Benny Vice Finds Big Nest Of Eggs After Killing Two Reptiles

The finding of forty-nine snake eggs in one nest after killing two snakes near the nest establishes for Benny Vice the champion snake killer of this year related to Ripley Mercury.

While hoeing tobacco in his field on the White Chimney pike last Thursday afternoon, Vice saw a blacksnake near the stump of an old tree. The snake was killed with the hoe and a short time later Vice killed what he thought to be the blacksnake near the same spot. Both reptiles measured approximately six feet.

After killing the two snakes, Vice dug around the stump and discovered the nest of eggs. The eggs are oblong in shape, about two inches long and about an inch in diameter. The eggs were brought to The Mercury office by Mr. Vice Friday.

AGED MAN, MISSING FIVE DAYS FOUND

W. S. Sears, 75 Years Old, Is Found Walking Along Road Near Lexington

RETURNS HOME HERE

A five days' search for W. B. Sears, 75 year old, who has been missing from his home here for five days, was ended Saturday afternoon when Mr. Sears was found by Patrolman William Edwards walking along the Harrodsburg pike toward Lexington.

When questioned by the officer the aged man refused to tell where he had spent the intervening days between the time of his departure and Saturday afternoon. Relatives were notified and he was brought here Monday morning.

Mr. Sears left his home on East Main street last Wednesday morning. He told no one of his destination. Joe McCormick said Monday he rode in the house with him, became alarmed over his disappearance and notified the police. It was found that Mr. Sears went on the early morning bus to Lexington and told the driver of the bus that he was going to visit his brother at McArthur, Lincoln county. A telephone call to Lincoln county revealed that Mr. Sears had not reached the home of his brother.

Mr. Sears is in ill health and because of his condition anxiety was felt. He is subject to fainting attacks and it was feared that he had suffered an attack enroute to the home of his brother.

KILLER OF LOCAL WOMAN CONVICTED

John D. Davis Given Life Sentence At Cincinnati For The Slaying Last Year Of Mrs. Minnie Ormes

John D. Davis, 66 years old, disbarred attorney of Bowling Green, was found guilty in the Campbell county criminal court here Monday of murder in the first degree and sentenced to life imprisonment. He was convicted of the slaying of Mrs. Minnie Ormes, 42 years old, on October 3, 1928. The jury deliberated 20 minutes.

Mrs. Ormes was a native of Nicholas county. She was shot and killed in Cincinnati on several years before her death. Her body was found in a shallow grave and buried in the Carlisle cemetery.

Davis and Mrs. Ormes live at his home at Bowling Green after he was disbarred at Newport, according to testimony here in Cincinnati last October. Mrs. Ormes and Davis said they were alone in the kitchen and he shot her in the back of the head with an automatic pistol. The defense said Davis dashed both his wrists, declaring the shooting was accidental and that he was driven to his attempted suicide by remorse.

Davis at first claimed he was taking the pistol from his wife, where it had been hanging on a nail, when it was discharged. The state, however, contended this was false, maintaining there would have been no powder burns on the woman's head in this case. Later, Davis said the shooting occurred when he was showing Mrs. Ormes the weapon, and that it was discharged when she handed it back to him.

Mrs. Ormes had formerly been a stenographer in Davis' office. He admitted that he had proposed marriage several times, and asserted the state's charge that he shot her because she refused him.

CUPID FINALLY WINS; BRIDE 73, GROOM 77

Cupid had a hard time leading Miss Ida B. Wallace, 73 years old, Ethelred and John J. Berkin, 77, of Cincinnati, to the altar. The two were sweethearts years ago, when he lived in Pike county, O., and she lived in the adjoining county of Ross. As they grew older their paths separated, but they always kept track of one another. Neither ever married. What moved them to yield to Cupid at this late date could not be determined. The venerable people were married by Bert J. King, Covington magistrate.

LEAF WAREHOUSE SELLS FOR $11,100

Wallace Rigg High Bidder For Property Sold Here Friday Afternoon—Bids To Be Considered Soon

W. W. Rigg, well known Nicholas county farmer, was the purchaser of the Growers warehouse which was offered at public auction Friday afternoon by the Eastern District Warehousing Corporation. The price paid was $11,100.

James Finch, Maysville, president of the corporation, who was present at the sale, said that a meeting of the board of directors will be held in a few days to determine whether or not the bid will be accepted. Mr. Finch also declared that the other buildings of the corporation here would be sold if purchasers can be found.

The auction sale was made by Mr. Rigg concerning his plans. It is understood that he was representing Mark Hendrix, Fleming county capitalist and tobacco man.

The Growers warehouse is one of three large brick warehouses here owned by the corporation. It is understood that the valuation of the warehouse on the books of the corporation is placed at $12,000.

It is said the railroad company favors razing the tracks through Carlisle and probably all along the division. Raising the tracks would necessitate the elevation of bridges, also. If the bridges are elevated and widened and the track elevated, an unusually heavy rain would be necessary to cause damage such as was caused here twice during the past month.

It is understood property owners along East Main street are in favor of conveying to the company approximately four feet from their lots in order to make the improvements.

RAILROAD MAY ELEVATE TRACK

High Officials Of Road Here During Past Week Inspecting Road—Would Prevent Floods Here

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company has a movement on foot to elevate its tracks through Carlisle and probably all along the division. Raising the tracks would necessitate the elevation of bridges, also. If the bridges are elevated and widened and the track elevated, an unusually heavy rain would be necessary to cause damage such as was caused here twice during the past month.

It is understood property owners along East Main street are in favor of conveying to the company approximately four feet from their lots in order to make the improvements.

2,170 PRISONERS CROWDED INTO STATE REFORMATORY

There are 2,170 prisoners confined in the state reformatory, which has accommodations for 1,500 persons, according to a statement issued Saturday by John P. Haswell, chairman of the board of charities and correction.

The statement was issued, following a meeting of the parole committee of the board at the reformatory, to inform the public of the true conditions at the institution.

H. M. Beard, superintendent of the reformatory, "is compelled to put two white men in each cell used for white prisoners and to put extra cots in the dormitory," the statement said, pointing out that "the next step would be to take the chapel and convert it into quarters for prisoners."

SCHOOL COST $29,616.16

Operating Cost Of City School Past Year $68.52 For Each Pupil

The per capita cost of operating the Carlisle city schools during the past term was $68.52, the annual report of Sam K. Veach, treasurer, reveals.

The report, published in this issue of The Mercury, lists the total expenditures for the year for all purposes at $29,616.16. The school report showed a total of 421 pupils in the school.

Salaries of instructors was the largest item of expense during the term, the salaries of teachers and substitutes totaling $17,412.20.

The report showed a balance of slightly over $2,000 at the close of the term. Considering the fact that the entire school building was painted throughout during the past year and other repairs made, this is considered an excellent report.

ROBIN ENDS FLIGHT OF OVER 420 HOURS

Two Fliers Come Down At St Louis Tuesday Night After Smashing Records

ARE IN GOOD CONDITION

The longest flight in the history of aviation ended Tuesday night when the St. Louis Robin made a perfect landing at St. Louis at 9:27 o'clock.

Pilots Dale "Red" Jackson and Forrest "Speck" Williams, who took off at 7:17 o'clock the morning of July 17, had been continually aloft for 420 hours and 21 minutes. They had exceeded the record event of the "Angelenos," made in California, by 17 hours and 37 minutes.

The fliers previously had announced the requests of Major William B. Robertson, Lindbergh, Earhart and the endurance flight," which had passed by more than one full week the former record of the Angelens. The fliers said they were informed by Major Robertson about remaining aloft for 500 hours because of the tragic death of George Lee Lambert, an intimate friend, who was killed in an airplane accident Sunday.

Both fliers were in good physical condition when they came down and declared they could have stayed in the air 300 hours longer.

Their airplane was refueled by other planes and they alternated in piloting the ship.

FARM RETURNS SHOW 1928 AS BEST YEAR

Survey Reveals Agriculture Profits Highest Since Post-War Slump

The best farm returns for any year since the war, are agricultural figures that are reported in the annual survey for 1928 issued Monday by the Department of Agriculture.

The reports from 21,051 owner-operated farms in 1928 show a net farm average net income of $1,234, while during 1927 12,059 farms reported an average return of $1,200.

The survey covered 24 per cent of the farms reporting returns between $1,000 and $2,000, 45 per cent between $500 and $1,000 and 9 per cent reporting losses.

By geographical divisions, the survey said, the largest increase during 1928 over 1927 was in the South Central States, 14 per cent; West North Central, 10 per cent, and East North Central, 3 per cent. Returns for the Southern section showed little change over 1927.

Gross receipts were larger on the average during 1928 than in 1927, but expenses were also higher, the survey said.

The average size of farms reporting was 264 acres, with an average investment of $15,417, both size and capital investment being larger than the census average. No tenant farms were included in the survey.

Average gross receipts were $2,606, consisting of $466 from sales of livestock, $689 from sales of livestock products and $37 from other items. Average current expenses totaled $1,518, including $394 for labor, $228 for livestock purchased, $200 for feed purchased, $67 for fertilizer, $46 for seed, $184 for taxes on farm property and $227 for other items.

281,000 PEOPLE IN EASTERN KENTUCKY TO GET HIGHWAYS

Highway contracts to be let August 8 will provide surfaced roads for 281,000 people, now isolated from the rest of the state, living along 385 miles of highway in Eastern Kentucky, state highway engineer J. S. Watkins announced Friday. The contracts call for surfacing of gaps on the Mayo Trail, State Route 40 and State Route 15, and Mr. Watkins said, "will close gaps that will bring into immediate use long stretches that have cost millions of dollars and will give an outlet to thousands of people hitherto without adequate roads."

OFFICIALS WILL BE ELECTED SATURDAY

Twenty-Five Candidates Will Submit To Will Of Voters In Primary

LIGHT VOTE FORECAST

Twenty-five candidates in Nicholas county will face the barrier Saturday in the quadrennial handicap to nominate county officials for the next four years, to be voted upon at the November election.

The primary Saturday will terminate what, in many respects, has been the quietest campaign ever waged in this county. Although all of the candidates have been active for the past several weeks, no mud-slinging has been indulged in and the campaign has been carried out on a high plane.

Every office in the gift of the people is being contested by Democrats with the exception of Coroner, H. R. Ewing having no opposition from either party.

The number of candidates this year is not as large as usual. The office of Tax Commissioner is apparently the most popular, with four candidates. The office of Jailer, which usually attracts a large number, has but three candidates this time. The remainder of the offices, County Judge, County Clerk, County Attorney and Sheriff each have two candidates. In each magisterial district two candidates are seeking the nomination for Magistrate.

The office of Constable has ceased to exist, as far as Nicholas county is concerned. At the present time there is not a constable in the county and no candidate from either party is seeking the office at this time.

Nicholas is one of the few counties in the state in which no primary will be offered for any office during the present campaign.

The primary Saturday will be equivalent to election for Tax Commissioner and Jailer, no Republican having applicants for these positions.

Apparently there will be a light vote throughout the county, although in some sections it is said a heavy vote will be polled.

There will be no Republican primary as candidates of that party are unopposed for the nomination.

The results in the Democratic Primary in August 1925 will be of interest to political deposters this week. As taken from The Mercury files, the totals were as follows:

For County Judge—Tilton, 1847; Pfeifer, 1474.

For County Clerk—Westfall, 1646; Blake 902.

For Tax Commissioner—Martin, 1936; Cameron, 1075; South, 345.

For Jailer—Sprague, 861; Brothers, 527; Lawrence, 487; Caunoe, 414; Hall, 232; Rankin, 86.

In the regular election following this primary, the Democratic nominees for County Judge, County Attorney and Jailer had Republican opposition. The result was as follows:

For County Judge—Darnall, 1773; Weaver, 1512.

For County Attorney—Holmes, 1635; Cox, 1466.

For Sheriff—Barton, 1787; Howard, 1474.

The Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky and the United States Department of Agriculture are cooperating in introducing in Kentucky 12,000 farms of tobacco a grading similar to that used in Virginia.

The state will be given 24 per cent of the farms reporting returns between $1,000 and $2,000, 45 per cent between $500 and $1,000 and 9 per cent reporting losses.

By geographical divisions, the survey said, the largest increase during 1928 over 1927 was in the South Central States, 14 per cent; West North Central, 10 per cent, and East North Central, 3 per cent. Returns for the Southern section showed little change over 1927.
