Flavor a few glasses of your apple jelly with mint extract and color with green vegetable coloring. The jelly will be enjoyed with lamb.

Unwrap meat as soon as it is delivered and place on a clean plate in the coldest part of the refrigerator. A piece of parchment paper may be loosely laid across the top of the meat but not wrapped around it.

Learn to know the attachments of your sewing machine and how to use them. Keep your tensions adjusted to the kind of material you are using. Use good needles and the right size for your thread and the material to be used.

Serve foods which have to be carved on platters large enough to allow the one who carves free play. Never place around a roast foods which are likely to have their appearance spoiled in carving, or get in the way of the carver.

Tin and enamelware cooking utensils which have food stuck to them may be cleaned by boiling them in a weak solution of washing soda. Never use soda on aluminum ware. Steel wool or fine scouring powder is the best to use on aluminum.

Fruit whips can be made of any fruit pulp of pronounced flavor and color. Heat the fruit pulp to dissolve the added sugar, and combine while hot with the stiffly beaten egg whites so as to cook the eggs partially and give body to the mixture. After the fruit pulp has been combined with the egg whites and sugar, the mixture may be baked if desired. When baked in a dish surrounded by water in a very slow oven (225 degrees to 250 degrees fahrenheit) for about one hour, the whip should not fall, and may be served either hot or cold. Or, fruit whips may be served as soon as mixed without cooking. Whipped cream is a delicious addition to cold fruit whips. Prunes and apricots make especially good fruit whips.

FOREWORD

(The following foreword tells what the Manager of the Lexington Automobile Club, and veteran newspaper man, thinks of Maret's Highway Guide.)

It is a pleasure to write a foreword for Col. Jim Maret's book, which I believe will be one of the most useful little volumes that has ever been published in this section of the State. Every shipper, truck-owner, bus corporation, automobile owner and merchant ought to have one of these books for his own use and one for the use of each of his employes. It is just what Col. Maret calls it, a "Highways Guide." Not only does it tell the distance any place in the United States or Canada is from Lexington, but it tells, in plain words and figures, so that none may err, the roads to take to get there.

Col. Maret in 1913 organized the movement for the Boone Way and put that highway on the map. He was secretary of the East Kentucky-Tennessee Dixie Highway Association. He was the first to suggest the Ky.-Va. road from Lexington to Pound Gap and was publicity manager of the Ky.-Va. Road Association. Col. Maret was and still is director in the Cincinnati-Lookout Mountain Airline Highway Association.

This good old scout—for he has always been a good-roads scout—recently retired as routing manager of the Lexington Automobile Club to get out this book. Our club thought it well of it, that it bought the first 1,000 copies of the press.

Here's to Col. Jim Maret, the Boone Way Man! May he live long and prosper, is the wish of all who know him.

LOW TEMPERATURES INJURE SEED CORN

Kentucky is threatened with a seed corn shortage similar to that of 1918, says Prof. E. J. Kinney, of the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky. His statement follows:

"Corn matured late this year in most parts of the state, and when the below-zero weather spread over the state the grain still carried a large percentage of moisture. Very low temperatures, especially if they occur frequently during the winter, are almost certain to destroy the germination of damp corn. The situation this year as regards both weather and condition of corn is similar to that which occurred in the fall of 1917.

"In that year a wet fall delayed maturity and prevented the grain drying. Zero weather visited the state early in December and again at frequent intervals throughout the winter. The germination of practically all corn, either in crib or in the field, was destroyed. Seed corn had to be brought into the state from other areas at considerable trouble and expense. Much of this corn was poorly adapted to Kentucky and gave poor results. There is danger that the same situation will occur next spring.

"Most farmers take their seed corn from the crib in the spring, and if several more periods of below-zero weather occur during the winter it is likely that little crib corn will be fit for seed. In fact, it is not at all unlikely that germination has already been injured more or less. However, if seed ears are selected at once and dried in a warm place, a fair quality of seed may yet be obtained.

"It is worth going to a great deal of trouble to get the seed ears thoroughly dried, even to the extent of having them wo in the kitchen for a few weeks. It will do little good to hang the corn up in a cold place now, artificial heat is absolutely necessary in order to dry out the corn and prevent further damage."

TIME FOR ACTION

As long as Governor Flem D. Sampson remains in charge of the state park commission it will be useless for the state legislature to take that action which it should take in regard to Cumberland Falls.

The state should lodge in the state park commission the right to condemn property for park purposes. If the state could condemn, then by virtue of the gift proffered by Senator T. Coleman du Pont it could buy the land adjacent to Cumberland Falls and make of it a state park, preserving forever this natural beauty and the virgin woodland round it.

It was, however, through the state park commission that Governor Sampson entered into the bargain with the Insull interests, so that there is little hope that the park commission as long as he remains the dominant factor would make use of the gift of the right of eminent domain of this authority were granted.

At the next legislature most likely there will be general reorganization and it will be well for members of the legislature to consider what should be done not only to preserve Cumberland Falls but to protect other scenic beauties and shrines in Kentucky from the hands of despoilers.

The failure of the last legislature to act when action was needed to save Cumberland Falls is one of the black spots of Kentucky history.

Had not the federal power commission delayed action in regard to a permit, it would have been too late but the state now is given an opportunity to take action which should be taken and let it be known that Kentuckians do not need to go to Washington to find protection for their own great gifts and to serve notice that Samuel Insull is not the master within the confines of this sovereign commonwealth.—Lexington Herald.

RIGHT YOU ARE, FRANKIE

They were discussing the North American Indian in a school one day when the teacher asked if anyone could tell what the leaders of the tribes were called.

Chiefs, answered one bright little girl.

Correct. Now can any of you tell me what the women were called?

There was silence for some time, and then a small boy frantically waved his hand for recognition.

Well, Frankie? said the teacher.

Mis-chiefs, he announced proudly.

The Carlisle Tobacco Market

Held Another Satisfactory Sale Thursday With Prices Ranging To $40

The Carlisle Tobacco Market is as good a market as any in the State. It is a better market than some. There is no reason why a man in this trade territory should haul his crop to any other market. There is every reason why he should sell on his Home Market.

If prices being received for tobacco in Carlisle were lower than are being received on other sales floors, there might be some excuse for a lack of loyalty to the home market. But prices are not lower here; they have been just as high and frequently higher than are being paid elsewhere. That's a matter of record.

When you sell on your home market, you are putting future dollars into your own pocket, in addition to the check you receive for your product. For what benefits town and county likewise benefits each individual resident of the county, whether he be farmer or merchant,. Rich man or poor man, doctor, lawyer, merchant, chief—we all benefit alike by the prosperity of the community in which we live.

A successful tobacco market in Carlisle means better conditions in every line of business. The town man will be able to buy more country produce and pay more for it; banks will have more money to lend; the farmer will also have that additional money that would have been spent for a long haul of his product —in fact, it means universal community prosperity, better living conditions in the county which is your home.

As we forge onward into the dawn of a New Year, let each and every one of us keep before him the knowledge that in union there is strength. As a united community we can meet and overcome all. Boosting, not alone by word of mouth, but by acts as well, we can make this, our county, better and more prosperous, come what may.

In extending our good wishes for a Happy Christmas for all, we wish to express our thanks to those who by their loyalty are helping to make the Carlisle Tobacco Market a success.

1,350,000 CHEVROLETS

Surpassing by 150,000 cars and trucks its previous record annual achievement, the Chevrolet Motor Company, this year, will manufacture 1,350,000 automobiles it was announced at the central offices in Detroit Saturday. Due to the tremendous popularity of the six cylinder car introduced a year ago, 1929 will be by a wide margin the greatest year in Chevrolet history.

An all-time monthly production mark was set in May, when the Chevrolet factories built 160,895 cars. A prior monthly record was established in every month except January. The consistency with which Chevrolet production has gained annually in recent years may be noted from the following production figures;

1927	1,001,000
1928	1,200,000
1929	1,350,000

The beginning of work for the use of this franchise shall constitute acceptance thereof by the grantee.

Section 2: All towers, poles, wires, conduits and other structures, erected under this grant shall be erected so as not to interfere with the travel on such highways, streams, viaducts, bridges and other public places, and shall be erected under the supervision of the Fiscal Court or such other authority as the Fiscal Court may designate. The rights and obligations created by this section are exclusively for indemnity against actual loss of the grantor of this franchise, and shall not create or result in any independent obligation to any third person; and any action taken hereunder shall not create or result in liability to any such claimant which would not exist in the absence of this provision. Any such suit defended by the grantee shall be conducted in the name of the grantor, subject to all defenses and immunities available to said grantor, and the only liability upon the grantee, for damages, or otherwise, so created, subject to acceptance by the grantee, shall be in force and effect for a period of twenty (20) years from and after the grant thereof.

SUGGESTS RENEWING NEGLECTED ORCHARDS

There are hundreds of abandoned and neglected orchards on Kentucky farms that with a little attention could be made to bear enough fruit for family consumption, according to C. S. Waltman, of the horticultural department of the University of Kentucky Experiment Station.

Numerous accounts have been recorded in recent years of successful renovation, and some of these read like fiction, Mr. Waltman says. There is nothing mystical or difficult about the operations that are necessary to make trees produce fruit. They respond to careful handling the same as any other farm crop.

The operations necessary to renovate these clumps of fruit trees that can be seen on many farms are thinning, pruning, spraying and fertilizing. Trees that are badly decayed or dead should be removed. In fact, thinning to a distance of 30 feet is recommended.

Some pruning may be required in this out especially thick tops and to remove dead branches. Heavy pruning, however, is not recommended.

Many old trees are diseased, and spraying will be necessary to control disease and insects. Any county agent can give definite recommendations regarding spray materials and their applications.

Orchards that have been neglected and have been in sod for several years probably need nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia to give new vigor to the trees. Barnyard manure also will help.

Petroleum products are put to more than 400 different uses.
