GARAGE

With headquarters in Paris at 106 10th street, offer a service in automobile painting, body and fender repairing, plate glass for closed cars, closed car trimmings, tailored seat covers and high grade tops and curtains. They feature everything to make your car beautiful.

They are better equipped and prepared to handle your work than any concern in this part of the state.

It is a well known fact that there is no institution in the community that has met with greater favor with the public than this well known establishment. By reason of the fact that the management has had wide experience in every feature of this business and because of their comprehensive knowledge of every branch of the trade, this establishment has continued to witness the increase in the number of their patrons.

leave the shop which does not give satisfaction to the user. This is an exacting demand for the establishment to live up to but they realize it believes that it pays in the long run. They have the honor of enjoying the trying situation of finding that a short circuit in your lighting starter sight or of commission on a dark night? Or where is the battery that has not started for his office in a hurry some morning only to find that nothing happens when he steps on the starter. Such circumstances as these are to be guarded against. For this purpose this shop has set up a special service, solely for the benefit of the public.

If you feel that your car is not exactly in adjustment, perhaps the fault is with the carburetor, or the storage battery. To find out whether it is or not, they invite you to bring your car around. One of the experts employed at the shop will look it over and tell you whether any part of the electrical system needs adjustment, free of charge. No charge will be made for this service and it does not obligate you in any way to have any repairs which may be needed made at this shop.

It is a tribute to this shop that manufacturers of many standard makes of automobiles have made the shop the official starting, lighting and ignition service station for their cars. This company was or was not in a position to know. It does not follow that because a shop has set up a special service, solely for the benefit of the public, that it is the way in which the work of this shop has increased since it was started. Time and again additions to the corps of workmen have been necessary to take care of the work brought in. The service is yours for the asking.

EXIDE BATTERIES

In Paris on Broadway have the saier for Dr. Price Electric Motor. This is an excellent service in the repairing of any make of battery for their many friends

No adjuster or repairer on an automobile is more delicate or requires more careful technical skill than adjustment to the electrical system, starting, lighting and ignition and the storage battery. This company was organized to handle in an expert manner just such delicate work.

No automobile owner wants to take a chance on his starting, lighting and ignition system. Anyone can grease the car, fill it with gas and oil or even make minor adjustments but the electrical system must be entrusted only to an expert.

That this firm has qualified in the eyes of the public is proven by the fact that the number of its patrons is constantly increasing. It is a point of the shop that no piece of work must

Redmon Brothers

Garage

The garage of good workmanship on Bank Row in Paris, has established the policy of getting the work done when promised at prices satisfactory to the purse.

They feature storage, washing, dopping, light repairing and greasing.

They are leading citizens and specialize in all phases of motor repair work. Realizing that not the first cost but the service charges make an automobile an extravagance, this widely known garage has gained its popularity because it keeps the service charges for auto owners in this city and community at a minimum. "Let a rational policy be your guide" is the motto of this modern up-to-the-minute garage.

This garage has established a reputation for careless handling of your furniture. It will pay you to be certain that responsibility when giving orders for moving.

Household goods in their care are given the best attention and delivered in their destination any place in the world.

Their entire organization is well trained to render complete service to families moving locally from one house to another, also for overland shipping by trucks, and for packing for railroad shipments.

When you ship by truck household goods do not require packing and invariably arrive at their destination in first-class condition. Such will prove a saving to you, and is the most satisfactory means of transportation. This transfer company is truly a responsible firm, willing to assume responsibility

Carmichael Transfer Co.

U-Call-We-Haul Phones 1111

With headquarters in Paris on 8th street. This most reliable company moves with safety, moves with speed. They are movers who need. Short hauls, long distance moving, anything, anywhere.

They pad each article as it is placed in the truck, minimizing the chances of scratching or marring your goods.

Those who deal with this firm are all satisfied customers. Moving of household goods is scientific business that calls for a high degree of efficiency. Men must not only be strong —they must be trained so that your valuable and delicate pieces of furniture may be protected and not suffer so much as a scratch in the hauling and handling.

You can stop worrying if you call them. Their facilities save you money, and there is satisfaction, too.

This company's years of satisfactory service in this field have made them well known wherever moving is to be done.

Ready any hour of day for quick transportation of household goods, personal belongings of any nature or any class of merchandise, their motor trucks have become a familiar sight on the streets of this city.

Prompt service and careful hauling are two traits that have been responsible for the large demand of their service.

They have in their employ men thoroughly experienced in the packing of household goods, and their satisfactory service is attested by the number of calls which they receive from people of the city for their packers to come and prepare furniture for shipments.

They are a thoroughly responsible concern. You need not carry your own ky.

What the Gray House Hid

The Mystery of a Haunted Mansion

by Wyndham Martyn

CHAPTER V

During the weeks before the Hanbys could occupy the Gray house there were no more unpleasant messages or telephonic communications to disturb them. Only one person had interested himself sufficiently to call up Hanby at his office.

The voice protagonist itself as being a mere no Indistinctly enunciated that Hanby was not sure whether it was Bayes, Yates, Bailey or Valley. When he tried to make sure which, the voice replied with no clarifying effect. Hanby thought he might get better information later.

"I am calling you up," said the stranger, "to congratulate you on your purchase of the Gray house. You may recall that we met some time back at the Hanby club room."

Hanby remembered touching at this dreadful club and being introduced to several influential men.

"Thank you," he said cordially "I'm glad to be the owner."

"Very well. I looked over it re cently with the intention of purchasing it, but the accommodation was insufficient, as you perhaps know, I bought a larger place at Westbury."

Assuredly this was a Metropolitan club member! Thirty rooms were not enough for him.

"I want to give you a special favor," the voice went on. "I am deeply interested in ornithology. I have even contributed to the literature of the subject. One of the reasons why I considered the Gray house was that it offers a natural sanctuary for birds. There was a lake there, which was filled in not long ago, and is now covered with dense overgrowth and flowering shrubs. Innumerable birds take shelter there—little birds. I mean—immune from their winged enemies and from man. I beg of you to preserve this retreat inviolate. Our rarer birds are dying out in an alarming fashion."

"But exactly do you want me to do?" Hanby asked.

"I want you to do nothing. Leave the place to the songsters. A bird sanctuary is not unsightly. To me it is beautiful. What, after all, are fine acres out of two hundred? You will have several left, and the house of your most exquisite song birds." The unknown went on to say that one of the names that made his heavy drawl were "purple finch, tanager, scarlet-throated bluebird, kinglet, wren and others." "It's a fine list," said the voice, "and enthusiastic. "I'm glad you told me." I was just going to say that I have never heard one, because I thought it was useless. I love birds myself, and I'm all for preserving them."

"I was told this," went on the voice said gratefully. "I hope to do myself the honor of calling upon you soon. Good-by!"

"Say, who the devil was it?" Hanby asked himself.

He spoke of the bird sanctuary at dinner. His family were enthusiastic.

"It's a beautiful idea," said Dina.

"I was going to put a sunken rose garden there, but we have heaps of other places."

"Why do birds go there?" Tim Hanby asked.

"Because they get food and water there," Dina said. "Isn't that right, mummy on the subject. "There's a spring that keeps the shrubs and bushes alive and flourishing. Black berries and other wild fruits and berries grow there in profusion."

"Did you say that the man's name was Bayes?" Dina asked.

"Dr. Darius, or Dalley—something like that. I'm not sure. I think that I ought to remember him. He's going to call on us. He's probably a very millionaire. Tim, I'm going to put you in your place and to sit in the sanctuary and swipe those trouting warblers and orioles."

Tim, Hanby's second son, had a shotgun and a scout rifle, and a pea shooter for using them. A struggle went on in him.

"I suppose," he said.

Tim's parents knew that, and likewise as he did, was, he would keep his word. He selected himself as the sportsman he thought that there were many rabbits to be had, not to mention crows, rooks and hawks.

"We are to regard ourselves as protectors of the birds who live on it. I look to the house detective to enforce these rules."

"Aye, aye, chief!" said Tim Peabam.

"I like the idea of a house being a sanctuary," Hanby went on. "Does anybody else in the company desire to shoot anything?"
