"SOMEWHERE IN NICHOLAS"
By J. W. Rogers

With this issue we close our correspondence with The Carlisle Mercury. Fates have decreed that we be too far removed from the good people of Nicholas county, to be able to write items of interest, longer. With kindest regards and hiahest appreciation, we bid this excellent paper, and all its readers, an affectionate farewell.

Our teaching experience in Nicholas county, last few years, has been truly pleasant, and while somewhat successful, since all our students, wherever sent, have made good, and many are now holding places of honor and trust today. I shall always remember, with a high degree, past relations and dealings with the County Board of Education, and the Superintendent, Mrs. Edna B. Taylor.

I am at present, located at Richland, Harrison county, in a large one-room, eight-grades school. Strange to say, I have been and reared in this section. Home again, but teaching the third generation. All the parents are standing by the school, with never, as yet, a complaint. In this school, 75 years ago, under a strict teacher, one day, there was a sudden uproar. "What's the matter there?" roared the teacher. A young lady, half scared, answered keenly, "Tommie Moore, fell under the floor." And there was another uproar. Our motto is, "Know as we go, and know that we know."

May we meet, in the sweet, bye and bye?

WHEN JIMMY COMES FROM SCHOOL

(By James Newton Matthews)

When Jimmy comes from school at four,
Je-ru-sa-lem! how things begin
To whirl and buzz and bang and spin
And brighten up from roof to floor!

The dog, that all day long has lain
Upon the back porch, wags his tail
And leaps and barks, and begs again
The last scrap in the dinner pail.

When Jimmy comes from school.

The cupboard latches clink a tune,
And mother's pie has answered this
To tell that hungry boy of hers
That supper will be ready soon.

And then a slab of pie he takes,
A cooky and a quince or two,
And for the breezy barnyard breaks
Where everything cries, "How d'ye do?"

When Jimmy comes from school.

Jim hears begin to throb and quake
With life and joy, and every ache
Is gone before we are aware.

The earth takes on a richer hue,
A softer light falls on the flowers,
And overhead a brighter blue
Seems bent above this world of ours.

When Jimmy comes from school.

PLANS FOR VETERANS HOSPITAL NOT COMPLETED

Advertising for bids for the construction of the veterans hospital at Lexington is still a long way off, it was declared in the office of the chief of the construction division of the United States veterans bureau. Only one hospital proposal is ready for advertising, it was said. It is the one to be built at Lincoln, Nebraska.

Plans for the Lexington hospital are in no shape yet to warrant the advertising for bids. Not until spring will the advertising be ordered, it was said.

PRISON POPULATION DOUBLES IN 8 YEARS

If Kentucky's prison population continues to double as it has in the past eight years everybody in the state will be in prison by the year 2009 A. D., according to statistics revealed by the state board of charities and corrections.

Last month there were 2,137 prisoners in the Frankfort reformatory as compared to 1,101 on June 30, 1921; 1,000 in the Eddyville penitentiary last month there were 886 prisoners as compared to 373 on June 30, 1921.

970 POULTRY HOUSES BUILT IN THE STATE

Nine hundred and seventy poultry houses were built in Kentucky last year, according to the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky. Most of these were of the A-frame type, designed to give best results under Kentucky conditions.

The college emphasizes the need of adequate space in the poultry house, with mean by 3½ to 4 square feet per hen. A 20 by 20 Kentucky shed-roof house will accommodate 100 to 120 hens. Overcrowding is considered a serious mistake.

There should be plenty of sunlight in the house, which should be provided with cheerfulness and promotes dryness and sanitation. Ventilation is considered an important factor. There should be an abundance of fresh air, but no drafts.

The college has five points to be considered in building a poultry house. Adequate space for the number of birds to be housed, proper distribution of sunlight; adequate ventilation, with no drafts; proper insulation for comfort in quarters and equipment, and durability and convenience.

WORLD'S 11 GREATEST

Picking the world's greatest men, Dr. Frank Crane, in an all-star football team, is a difficult undertaking—one in which no two persons would likely reach the same result independently.

The feat was recently attempted, however, by a university professor with a view to placing statues of the world's 11 mightiest personages on the facade of a new public library, the following being selected:

Adam (birth), social science; Beethoven, music; Buddha, poetry; Darwin, biological science; Leonardo da Vinci, art; Benjamin Franklin, public service; Galileo, physical science; Goethe, literature; Gretzky, economics; Gutenberg, printing; Herodotus, history; Homer, poetry; Justinian, law and administration; Moses, religion; Newton, mathematics and physics; Pasteur, medical science; Plato, philosophy; Shakespeare, drama.

One of the striking aspects of this list is that it includes three poets, besides Shakespeare, indicating that poetry presents the most likely path to immortal fame. Newspaper writing may be as a practical career during one's lifetime.

Nineteen persons were slain and 200 injured in race riots in Monrovia Saturday during the election in which Charles King Bubbo was elected.

After his mother had requested that he be sent to jail, Walter Allen, 16, of Washington, D. C., was sentenced to serve a 210-day term for intoxication.

Two women and a man were burned to death Sunday when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a truck and turned turtle at Kansas.

Miss Juanita Hansen, former motion picture actress, was awarded damages of $1,000 against a hotel at Walla Walla, N. Y., for burns received in a shower bath.

An explosion while Mrs. Samuel Stevens was starting a fire with coal oil in a stove in her home in Stockton, Hill, Mo., caused the death of two of her children.

Four billion stamps, weighing more than 300 tons, have been shipped by the Postoffice Department to postmasters throughout the country for the Christmas trade.

Three students at the University of Illinois law school were arrested Sunday by prohibition agents after 25 gallons of moonshine whisky had been found in their room.

Because "too much politics in the church," Rev. T. J. Branson, minister of the Methodist Tabernacle church, pastor of the First M. E. Church, South, at Atlanta, Ga., resigned.
