CARD FROM G. C. MYERS

Some corn yet which is also here in the time for Nicholas county to elect a member of the 1931 session of the Kentucky General Assembly, and so far as I know no one has been offered for this place.

From all indications this seat will be a very important one; the matter of re-districting the State will come up and should be handled to the best interests of the cattle, and the Democratic party. Both of counties being strongly Democratic, would not want to be placed in a Republican District.

The question of a reduction of taxes, especially on farm land, should be gone into. I do not believe there should be any State tax on farming land. This should be settled early in the session, then if necessary a cut could be made in the operating expenses of the State to meet it.

The question of better roads and schools are also vital importance, and nothing should be allowed to interfere with them. This can be done, however, without any additional taxation.

The institutions of the State should be cared for, but not at the expense of the farming industry, which is already nearly loaded with a tax burden.

These are some of my views on the most important questions to come before the legislative body.

I have not as yet decided to offer as a candidate, and before I do I want to get the opinion of several of the leading Democrats of the two counties, and if you, the voters will say that some other man is better fitted for the place, your opinion will govern my action.

Please give me your honest opinion whatever it may be, and it will be appreciated.

Yours respectfully
G. C. Myers

Regular Advertising

From a speech by
C. W. JOHNSON

Oakland, Nebraska, Merchant

"I have been in business 29 years' and seldom miss an issue of the local paper with an ad of some kind.

"I believe that the constant spitting of a machine gun does more execution than the occasional boom of a big Bertha. Its spattering shot gets results. So it is with advertising; the small ad run every week is better for results than the large ad run fill or nine. Consistative advertising gets the business.

"We are told that the American business now has hit the bottom, but somehow I think we better view it the time to advertise our wares is when the public is start buying.

"There are all kinds of advertising—theaters, and I have dabbled in them all, but the advertising in the home paper has proved and gives largest results for money spent.

"Put more time in writing your ads, and they will get the business.

"If you had a whole bushel of chain links it would not pull a load. But hitch together a single length of chain and you have a strong and elastic tugging with which to pull a load. So it is with advertising. Link your ads together run them in a continual saying, week after week, and you will have a power that will accomplish results."

BETTER FISHING NEEDED

(Louisville Times)

Apropos of the movement of the Izaak Walton League for a six-hour day—which should be an actuality, and not a basis for exhortation and overtime, if it is to be established in the interest of lessening unemployment—fishing should on improved.

The farmer is as much entitled to a six-hour day as any urban person can be, upon the ground that his work is hard. He is, moreover, under an obligation to his class, as Mr. Hoover has pointed out, to produce that he produces, depending upon the demand, and he is entitled to his chance.

Mr. Hyde could tell you that wheat growers worked too many hours last year and this year, with the result that the farmers in whose wheat should be given to the unemployed, or given up as a bad job.

Mr. Hyde's proposition—due to long necessity for long hours—to go to bed with the chickens and get up with the chickens. Under the 6-hour day rule he suggests, the farmer may work by noon, or maybe eleven o'clock.

No farmer, at the present prices of what farms produce, could afford to work by noon between hoeing corn or gasoline and plowing pole.

The farmer, under the 6-hour day regime on farms, still require a pastime which requires no expenditure, beyond an expenditure of energy that is required to dig bait.

The farmer should have a pastime which may be indulged in without limit, and he probably will not serve demanding an explanation when he gets home.

A string of fish is a good answer to the question of how he spent the afternoon, while I was attending to the chickens. He might also bring back baking house, darning socks, mending breeches and knits, getting vegetables from the garden and admonishing old John inside of the house as an elder.

CLAY CROUCH DIES AT HOME SATURDAY

Prominent Citizen Succumbs After Long Illness With Complication Of Diseases

BURIED HERE TUESDAY

Mr. William Clay Crouch, one of the best known men in the county, died at his home on the 4th street, at 9 o'clock Saturday morning following an illness of a year with a complication of diseases. He had been under treatment an operation several months ago, which gave him only temporary relief.

Mr. Crouch was born in this county December 21, 1871, and has spent his life-long resident of the county. He devoted his life to farming and until about ten years ago resided on the farm. He was manager of the Growers Warehouse here during the years when Carlisle had a tobacco market. Mr. Crouch was a member of the Carlisle city council, having been elected to the post in November, 1929. He was a member of the Carlisle Christian church and a member of the B. F. Reynolds lodge, F. & A. M.

Mr. Crouch was a kind man throughout this section and was held in high esteem. He was a man honest and upright in his business dealings and was a splendid citizen.

He is survived by six parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Crouch, of Carlisle; his wife, Mrs. Sallie Crouch; two sons Basil Crouch, of Lexington, and Colonel Crouch, of Louisville; two daughters, Mrs. William Lamb, of Paris, and Mrs. Ben Walters, of Carlisle; three grandchildren, Joan and Billy Crouch, Lexington, and Mrs. Nancy Ira A. L. Bumpus, of Springfield, Ill.; Mrs. Ben Wilson, of Louisville, and Mrs. Ollie Atkinson, of Sharpsburg, and three brothers, Everett Crouch, of Bourbon county; Ernest Crouch, of Mt. Sterling, and Charles O. Crouch, of Houston, Texas.

Funeral services were held at the Christian church Tuesday morning conducted by the pastor, Rev. Bruce H. Hi Curnutte. Burial followed in the Carlisle cemetery.

Convicted Of Murder In Bourbon Circuit Court

Ross Morris and Robert English, both of Paris, charged with the murder of Edward McClure, were found guilty in the Bourbon circuit court at Paris last Friday by a jury hearing the latter while the former was sentenced to prison for life. English, who is but 19 years old, was given a sentence of 21 years.

According to the evidence, McClure was shot at Main and Fifteenth streets in Paris early Sunday morning without being given a chance for his life. Morris entered a plea of guilty. The slaying is said to have resulted over a whisky deal.

Christian Herald Starts Boom For President Hoover

The Christian Herald one of the leading Protestant church publications in the United States, in its issue of November 29 starts a boom for the renomination and re-election of President Hoover in 1932.

Stanley High, editor, in a signed editorial, tells readers that Mr. Hoover "enthused the moral forces of the dry forces against assaults upon the Eighteenth amendment. Mr. High accepted Mr. Hoover as a thoroughly sympathetic champion of prohibition and took it for granted that the President-elect would be the Wickersham Commission does, would result.

"Billy" Klair Foils Two Bandits At Lexington

William P. "Billy" Klair, widely known Lexington Democratic politician, foiled two masked bandits in front of his home on West Short street shortly after midnight Tuesday when he drove up in his automobile, robbed and shot. Instead of accepting the bandits' demands, Klair "let that car." Mr. Klair was told as he stepped on the running board of the car to enter his home. Instead of complying he attacked one of the robbers with a cane. He ran down the street shouting for help, and in the meantime the two men forced his chauffeur to drive them to the country where they robbed him of $37 and a watch.

Employers Who Lower Wage Called "Public Enemies"

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in Thanksgiving Day address classified as public enemies "those employers who are taking advantage of economical and industrial distress to lower living standards through forced reduction of wages." Green said it was the patriotic duty of American workers to resist with all the power they possess any attempt of employers and corporations to reduce wages or lower the standards which have been set."

SOME WATER USERS MAY LOSE SERVICE

City Will Discontinue Service To Patrons Who Have Disregarded Warnings

SUPPLY IN LAKE LOW

Every user of water must co-operate to observe the restrictions imposed to conserve the supply of water at the reservoir lake, Superintendent of the Water Works, Geo. Clay, informed The Mercury Wednesday, or it will be necessary to make further restrictions.

Recent rains have not added to the supply of water in the lake and sufficient water must be kept at all times in addition to that necessary for every user of water will save all that he possibly can, as it may not be necessary to cut off the supply entirely, Superintendent Clay said, but that will depend upon obtaining a reasonable use.

Most citizens are co-operating to conserve Carlisle's diminished water supply, Superintendent Clay stated in addition to the request made by city officials that water users voluntarily discontinue the flushing of toilets and use other means to reduce water consumption.

Those who consumed more than their quota when a check-up is made will have their water supply cut off at the curb.
