THE OP-TOM-E-TRIST

The Optometrist is engaged in a work that is of the greatest benefit to mankind, contributing to his health, comfort and efficiency.

The adult or child, who has defective vision, daily undergoes a strain, a disturbance of the nervous system, becomes debilitated and not only cannot do his work but is extremely or teacher justice in his work, but cannot get the benefit from his day's work.

The Optometrist corrects this condition.

By carefully examining the eyes he is enabled to place before them two little pieces of glass that remedies their defects, relieves the delicate eye muscles of all strain, thereby conserving a considerable amount of nerve energy, permitting it to go to the organs of the body that have formerly been deprived of it, and so permitting them to function properly, thereby restoring the human machine to perfect working condition.

Roland Hayes' Concert At Lexington December 12

Roland Hayes, popular negro tenor, will be the attraction for a recital at Woodland Auditorium, Friday night December 12, at 8 o'clock.

"When Roland Hayes sings it is an event in the musical world" said Mr. Goolberg in the Cincinnati Enquirer of December 2. The Boston critic said, "In songs of which cameo-like delicacy and subtle interpretation can be expected, Mr. Hayes seems to be without a peer."

This concert is sponsored by the Lexington College of Music of which Miss Anna Chandler Goff is director. The tickets are $1.00, $1.50, $2.00 and $3.00 and are on sale now at the College of Music. The down town sale will begin on the Francis Hotel lobby Wednesday, December 10 at 9 a. m. The entire balcony is reserved for colored people and the balcony prices are $2.00 and $1.00.

CHORDS AT NIGHT

(Written Sindlard)

I hear the cricket strum
His violin—
And hummingbirds
Ethn and thin.

He rasps on this one string
Like file on saw
Wood-thrushes join, and sing
Their lusty song.

The lyrias in the marsh
Below the lane
Their high and harsh
Recurrent strain.

The bull-frog booms—a shout
Half groan, half growl;
Th'whoo! th-whoo! cries out
The eerie owl.

And then the whip-poor-will
Strums on and on.

PROGRAM

Tonight, Thursday, Comes Ethelind Terry and Charles Kaley in "LORD BYRO OF BROADWAY," from the novel by Nell Martin. This is a musical comedy. Don't fail to see it, and The Mysterious News Reel.

Saturday—Comes Mahlon Hamilton in a wild and wooly Western of the olden days. A sure good one, also a colored Revue, "MANHATTAN BEBE-NADE."

Monday—Comes one of the best yet, it is not a machine made picture, it is facts, with a good story running through it. You have read of it, heard it over the radio, now come and see "BYRD AT THE SOUTH POLE." Don't fail to see this one.

Tuesday—We will give a benefit show to help feed the children in our school who are under-fed. We know times are hard and there are folks who can't make both ends meet, and we think it is our duty that all should help these children, that their bodies may be kept strong for their work. Do you remember this: "For as much as ye do it unto one of these my brethren ye do it unto me." So come out and help them, the show will be - "William Haines in "THE GIRL SAID NO," a Arrah Lee class picture. A colored revue. Admission 15 and 25c but you can give as much more as you please. Adults tickets will be sold on the streets by some of the school children. Take one or more. They will appreciate it. There will be two shows if necessary. The tickets are good for this night only. So come and bring your friends. Don't fail.
