IMPORTANT MESSAGES TO COME UP THIS WEEK

the Highway Department and certain Democratic leaders of the Senate and House. It was regarded at first that opposition to the order was altogether feasible. However, the Commissioner has announced that it is preparing to go to the governor and ask the order to the floor of the Senate and make what is known as a test fight for a plan.

The order was an unexpected spur to the fight between the Committee and the Highway Commission. The Committee has been somewhat divided on the score that it is unfair not to give the Commission be present with legal advisers.

GOVERNMENT HAS TOO MUCH POWER, SAYS KINCHELOE

Concentration of power by the federal government was assailed in a statement delivered in the House Thursday by Representative Kinchloe of Kentucky, who warned that "if this concentration of power continues it will be only a question of time when government by states will only be in name."

Listing many independent bureaus of the federal government requiring $713,000,000 in appropriations, Kinchloe said "the days of the great and gradually building up a super and a despotic federal government are upon us in Washington which is slowly but surely overshadowing the states the power they once possessed."

Home rentals will earn fire if exposed to the air in a finely divided condition.

SAILING ON

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Kentucky.

The navy is held in the title of battleships of different types. Different ones from the battleship are the cruiser, the destroyer, the submarine, the airplane carrier, the little fresh water navy that is kept on the Mississippi river, the submarine chaser, the mine sweeper, the sailors' navy and the marine corps. Nothing so bind our navy together as the verge of mutiny. Certain officers, together, he ridded their fleets of garbed fleet of submarines and on the night following the mutiny, the officers were found in their berths, or where in his duty, but the mutineers were not.

Discontent, disappointment, and dissatisfaction with the navy is not new. It has been a feature of the navy since the days of Paul Jones. Lieutenant Jones was in charge of the northern forces fought five and a half hours and the enemy ship still got into action a plan of gave the enemy ship a list, so that a high percentage of his troops. His men were ordered to abandon ship. Jones refused to leave. Seeing that his men were ordered to abandon ship. Jones refused to leave. Seeing that his men which looked very much like mutiny, he ordered the guns to be shotted to the wisdom of his plan.

When the enemy ship struck low, was his reply, "if it takes all night to sink."

Sailing on in the face of storms in the Atlantic, and in the Pacific, is the life of the navy.

A fleet was engaged in an ice problem. The ice was so thick that the fleet became a few weeks ago, and there was nothing to cause it to move. Ships had not proved so easy as he thought. Uncoupled Mathematics took considerable time and more hard thinking than he had planned to give it. But Yankee style was neither to fluent nor so accurate as he had been made to think in high school, and he could hardly see what use some of the subjects which he was required to pursue would be to him after he got out of college. He was fearful and discouraged, and there was no land in sight. All that I could say failed to convince him or induce him to sail on.

I watched a football player in our last intercollegiate game in his attempts to advance the ball. The defense of the opposing team was for a considerable time perfect. Time and again the boy tried with the ball to plunge through the line, but the line held, and he was stopped at every attempt. There was for him, apparently, no inch of ground to be had, and the line finally weakened, the interference came to his support and he made a touchdown.

A friend of mine who was engaged in a scientific investigation made the same experiment more than a thousand times in order to reach a desired result. Over and over again he was advised by those who were onlookers that it was useless for him to continue. There was nothing, they said, to be hoped for by going on. But he sailed on, and ultimately he made the discovery he had been hoping for.

Persistence in following an ideal! It is a great virtue.

NASTURTIUMS

(Mabel Amy Beeken)

Nasturtiums are embellished knots of gold
Worked in exquisite clusters
With green trailing leaves
Upon the needlework of Summer.
For Summer is a seamstress, as befits a royal maiden,
And her silks are gay green stems and grasses.
And her silver flower petals.
While she becomes rare pinnatale,
Caught from orange burning sunsets,
And forms them into amber clusters,
Sews them into crimson clusters
For her flowered bonnets.
Nasturtiums are embroidered knots of gold
Worked in exquisite clusters
Upon the dark rich ground of August
By a queen.

WEALTHY ANDERSON COUNTY WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Mary Murphy Dowling, 73 years old, died at a hospital in Louisville Tuesday from the effects of a nervous breakdown suffered several weeks ago. She was the widow of the late John Dowling, wealthy Anderson county distiller, and succeeded him in the operation of two large whisky plants in Anderson county.

When the United States government stopped the manufacture of whisky in this country, Mrs. Dowling erected a plant on Morris, just across the border from El Paso, Texas, and continued the business there until her death. She had large holdings in Anderson county, and was the county's wealthiest woman.

GUILTY GULLIES

Approximately 17,500,000 acres of land in the United States formerly cultivated have been destroyed by gullying, or so severely washed that farmers can not afford to attempt cultivation or reclamation. This is enough land to support a nation, says the United States Department of Agriculture, and it exceeds the total area of tillable land in Japan.

KENTUCKIAN SENTENCED FOR SALE OF STOLEN FICTION

A would-be author, who admitted copying stories from some magazine and selling them to another as his own work, was sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of six months to three years in New York Friday. The author, Robert A. Carter, 32, of Carter county, Ky., was arrested on complaint of John B. Kelly, manager of Fiction House, Inc., who said he had paid Carter $1,100 for stories which were found to be exact duplicates of stories in other magazines. Judge William Allen, in passing sentence, said Carter appeared to be well educated and only "needed a jolt" to bring him to his senses.

SUMPSON VETOES BILL TO ABOLISH COMMISSIONER

REPRESENTATIVE ADMITS BRIBE CHARGE WAS MYTH

Representative Elmer J. Terry, Democrat, of Breathitt county, testified before the joint legislative investigating committee at Frankfort last Thursday that his statement to a newspaper reporter that he had been offered $500 in cash if he would vote against the highway reorganization bill was false.

Terry told Ollie M. James, Frankfort representative of the Lexington Herald, that he had been offered the bribe, and the news created a sensation.

VOLUME LXIII ESTABLISHED 1867 CARLISLE, NICHOLAS COUNTY, KY., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1930 PUBLISHED THURSDAYS NUMBER 9

DEMOCRATS ARE IN COMPLETE CONTROL

Important Measures Passed During Week Against Wishes Of Governor

CAN OVERRIDE VETOES

More work has been accomplished by the legislature during the past week than during all of the remainder of the session. With the Democrat and Falls measure and the highway reorganization bills passed, the legislature will devote itself during the next twenty days of its term to other business.

Last Thursday the House, by a vote of 80-4, passed a bill aimed at chain tax which would place a tax on all retail establishments, based on the volume of business. This bill is meeting with strong opposition of merchants throughout the state, all of whom would be taxed under the provisions of the bill.

Bills providing for a 10 per cent tax on cigarettes to provide funds for free textbooks have been introduced in the House and Senate.

Both Houses passed bills to eliminate Pre Emption rights on swamp lands.

Bills providing for a bond issue to reimburse the state textbook commission, and repeal the present law, passed. This bill is designed as "ripper" measure against the Governor. The bill had previously been passed by the senate and was signed by the Governor. Governor Sampson is expected to veto this bill as a number of votes, which the Democrats are apparently united and will pass over the veto of the Governor's veto.

Both Houses passed the highway ripper bill, which takes the appointment of members of the highway commission out of the hands of the Governor and places the appointment in the hands of the Governor Lieutenant Governor and Attorney General. This has been one of th major considerations of the legislature during the session.

The joint appropriations committee has recommended to the legislature that appropriations of $10,218,894 for the next two years for the various departments be made immediately. The committee recommendations exceeded the budget commissioners recommendations by $1,461,848 for 1931, but for 1932 the committee recommendations are $207,000 less than the budget commission's. The committee recommendations include the University of Kentucky and the State Normal schools, which were slashed Bachus.

Former Governor Harry Floyd Byrd of Virginia addressed the legislature Tuesday on a joint session.

Following a session of the Democratic Monday night, the House decided to hold night sessions during the remainder of the session. Just which it is not known. Governor Sampson will veto will be known before this week ends, and that they can be passed over his veto.

The House Democratic caucus already passed by the Senate which would require the governor to submit all of his appointments to the senate for confirmation within ten days before the close of the session. In the event the appointments are not submitted, the power of appointing the appointments will pass to the Lieutenant Governor.

The Senate has reported unfavorably a bill which would abolish the State Game Commission.

Many of the bills introduced at this session will never reach a vote. Next week, fifteen days before the close of the session, all bills introduced in the hands of the powerful Rules committee, which will decide whether or not the bills shall be submitted.

A significant fact that has developed during the Legislature is that the Democratic party has not the strength, Rather, apparently, some of the members of the party in both Houses have sided with the majority in number of bills contrary to the wishes of the Governor.

The Democrats are in complete control of the Legislature and except in a few instances party harmony has prevailed throughout the session. Although the party had a majority in both Houses two years ago, many of the Democrats opposed all measures asked by the Governor. The party, apparently, now controls a veto proof majority.

Mr. Johnson charged that J. B. Watkins, former state highway engineer, had been in the pay of the contractors and that he had failed to build up a system which was used to prevent possible overcharges, avarice, revenge or favoritism might enter."

Mr. Johnson, in a long recitation of facts and figures, declared in one instance after instance in which the governor acted for political reasons in awarding or denying contracts as he did in the Bourbon county road contracts were awarded upon request. Democratic committeemen were ordered but never constructed, he declared.

Ben Johnson, former chairman of the state highway commission, charged before the legislative committee Tuesday that the fire at the old Capitol building was of incendiary origin.

The ousted chairman of the commission asserted that an audit of the state highway records which was made prior to the fire was a "whitewash." The witness told of begining an investigation of his own in which he found alleged, fraudulent entries in contractors' accounts, errors and miscalculations in virtually every report submitted by engineers employed by the state highway department. He said he was summoned to appear before him to explain an alleged shortage in funds, and that he was asked by the governor to resign the day before the fire. This audit, the ousted chairman said, "wasn't worth fourpence."

NEW POWER LINE COMPLETED SUNDAY

Kentucky Utilities Co. Power Line From Maysville To Millersburg

ANOTHER LINE PLANNED

The Kentucky Utilities Company has completed the construction of a new power line from Maysville to the substation at Millersburg and Sunday the current was "cut-in" the new substation. For the past three Sundays the electric current has been shut off here a week could be accomplished.

With the new line from Maysville Carlisle will have two sources of power. Although the current here will continue to be supplied from Dix Dam, in the event of a breakdown in the lines between here and Lexington, necessitating shutting off the current, it can be immediately switched to the Maysville line.

Construction of an additional new line from Lexington to intersect with the line from Maysville at Millersburg is being rushed rapidly and when this line is complete, Carlisle and other towns in this section will have three sources of current, practically assuring electric power at all times.

As soon as the line from Lexington to Millersburg is completed, contact with the other line, the current for Maysville will be supplied from Dix Dam. The electric plant at Maysville will be equipped with new boilers, and its capacity enlarged until it can supply the entire Carlisle, Millersburg, Cynthiana, Paris and other stations in case of emergency.

MANY QUESTIONS TO BE ASKED FARMERS

Sample Schedule, Mailed Out By County Agent, Contains 225 Questions Concerning Farm

In order to familiarize the farmers with the questions to be asked by enumerators during the taking of the census in April, County Agent C. B. Smith has had mailed out approximately 1,000 letters containing a sample schedule, which the farmers are asked to fill out and have ready when the enumerators visit them. This copy is not to be given the enumerators, but is mailed to Washington, merely kept for the information of the enumerators.

The gigantic task of taking the census is illustrated when it is realized that a total of 222 questions will be asked of those on the farm, and will probably be the most complete ever undertaken.

The schedule contains questions on the farm, acreage of crops, the amount owned, number of each kind of livestock number of acres of each crop and many other questions concerning the farm.

All questions are confidential and will be made public only for purposes of taxation or any other purpose.

Johnson Says Road Commission Is Powerful Political Machine

The State Highway Department, as a result of dictatorial methods used by Governor Sampson, has become a powerful political machine which is operated in the interest of politicians, Ben Johnson, ousted chairman of the state highway commission, declared at a hearing of the legislative investigating committee at Frankfort last Monday. Mr. Johnson's testimony revealed the intimidation of state highway employes and the awarding of contracts to favored bidders, he said, for political purposes.

Mr. Johnson charged that J. B. Watkins, former state highway engineer, had been in the pay of the contractors and that he had failed to build up a system which was used to prevent possible overcharges, avarice, revenge or favoritism might enter."

EZRA OWINGS DIES AS RESULT OF FALL

84-Year-Old Man Succumbs At His Home At East Union From Injuries Sustained Week Before

Mr. Ezra Owings, 84 years old, died Tuesday afternoon at his home near East Union as the result of injuries received a week before when he fell from a ladder while ascending to a hay loft in his barn. Mr. Owings had gone to the barn to feed his stock when he fell. Neighbors working in a field near his barn heard his cries and carried him to the house.

Mr. Owings sustained two fractured ribs in the fall, and in his weakened condition pneumonia developed, resulting in his death. Mr. Owings is survived by 7 children, Mrs. Elizabeth Owings, near East Union; Will Owings, James and Ben Owings, of this county; Arthur Owings of Fleming, and one daughter, Mrs. J. D. Bautis, of Lexington.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the East Union Christian church, conducted by Rev. Paul Bunk, of Lexington, and Rev. Everett Crouch, of Sharpsburg. Burial will follow in the Carlisle cemetery.

TWO YOUTHS HELD ON THEFT CHARGES

George McCarty Implicates Howe Morris In Theft Of Checks From Carlisle Cream Station

Following his arrest in Lexington last week on a charge of breaking into the express depot of the French-Bauer Company, in Carlisle and taking a number of checks from a book, George McCarty, of Carlisle, is said to have made a complete confession in which he implicated Howe Morris, of near Carlisle.

McCarty was arrested after he had tried to cash one of the checks said to have been stolen here at a Lexington store. Several other blank checks were found in his pocket. A bunch of keys found in possession of McCarty belonged to Morris, he said, and one of them was used in opening the door of the cream station. An examination by officers here revealed that one of the keys would unlock the door.

McCarty is said to have declared in his confession that Morris entered the building and took the checks, then causing them over to him and giving him instructions about cashing them. Morris was arrested at his home on the Paris pike near Carlisle and placed under bond.

McCarty waived examination when arraigned before County Judge Paul L. Dantzel Friday morning and was held to the grand jury under bond of $1,000. In default of bond he was lodged in jail.

Morris will be held following examination before Judge Darnall Saturday morning.

SENATE TO INVESTIGATE WORK OF CANCER EXPERTS

Dr. Morris Fishbein, of Chicago, and Homer, of San Francisco, who have been treating hundreds of patients here with a cancer serum derived from the adrenal glands of sheep, have been invited to appear before a Senate committee considering means of the Government aid in finding a cancer cure.

The two physicians refuse to claim that their discovery is a cure, but assert that good results have been obtained in a number of cases where they have besieged their offices, some being revealed in their automobiles at the curb.

The ousted chairman of the commission asserted that an audit of the state highway records which was made prior to the fire was a "whitewash." The witness told of beginning an investigation of his own in which he found alleged, fraudulent entries in contractors' accounts, errors and miscalculations in virtually every report submitted by engineers employed by the state highway department. He said he was summoned to appear before him to explain an alleged shortage in funds, and that he was asked by the governor to resign the day before the fire. This audit, the ousted chairman said, "wasn't worth fourpence."

Coleman du Pont to give $35,000 to the state to acquire Cumberland Falls and a hundred territory for state park purposes. A companion measure giving the state park commission the right of eminent domain to condemn land for park purposes, was passed by the same vote.
