FRANK SIMB

OWEN F. SMITH TO DIRECT ESTATE OF MILLIONAIRE

City bank of New York requesting him to come to Chicago to meet their personnel representative for an interview. On the appointed day he found fifty-nine other young men assembled there for the same purpose. He was one of the two who made the grade and received an offer of employment with the New York bank. He declined because the position would take him abroad. This was followed by the offer of a much better position in the headquarters bank in New York, which he accepted.

Previous to United States entrance into the war, he had charge of the Russian department of the bank's foreign service, being chosen for this particular position by reason of more than one thousand of the bank's employes. This position he held until needed for service. He spent two years of it in England, having charge of the finances of a large private base hospital supported by wealthy people of Kings county, New York.

On his return from service he called on the bank's officials in New York and was told that his place was waiting for him at an increased salary. Entering the credit department he was promoted in a few months until finally he reached the position of first assistant.

In May, following the armistice, he was married to Miss Ruth Wells, of Brooklyn, N. Y., a graduate of Vassar college and Columbia university and a daughter of Mrs. Mary Folger Wells, sister of Henry Folger.

Mr. Smith expects eventually to take his wife and infant daughter to Washington to live permanently, where as his position with the Folger library and endowment will be a life-time connection.

ZOO MONKEY FREED

A hundred monkeys at the Cincinnati Zoo have just been given their freedom, and they are enjoying it greatly. They no longer have to live in cages, but Monkey Island, on which they have been turned loose, is surrounded by a wide moat and it is doubtful if they must content themselves with a sort of exile. It's true they will be hemmed in by a cage anyway, the inmate seem to limit as they can easily cavort about a little isle, and automobile for the public and parking for the purpose of violating the law; been guilty of such immoral habits and improper conduct as to render him an unfit person to serve as a member of the police department.

CLARK-GRIMES REUNION

On Sunday, June 22, the Clark and Grimes families met for a basket dinner at the old home of John T. Clark on the Sharpsburg-Carlisle pleasant call now, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark. There were about seventy present and a delightful picnic dinner, including fried chicken, baked ham, pickle, sandwiches, angel food cake, watermelon and ice-cold watermelon was served on the shady lawn. It was decided to have the reunion every year. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Clark, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Grimes, of Paris, Mrs. Mollie Grimes, Mrs. Lucy Grimes Wheeling, W. Va.; Luther Grimes, of July 20th, 1930, five names of persons to select election officers from. Democratic Committee. 1t

270 HERDS ON TEST IN STATE

Two hundred and seventy-nine herds containing 4,723 cows were on test in the 12 dairy herd improvement associations in Kentucky last month, according to Clell Gadberry, dairy specialist of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

One hundred and ninety-seven cows produced 30 pounds or more of fat each, and 510 cows produced 40 to 50 pounds of fat each last month. Seventy-one cows were culled as unprofitable and 29 cows and 33 purebred bulls purchased.

The Shelby-Henry county association led in production, with an average of 39.1 pounds of butter-fat per cow in the association, 33 of which were dry.

The College advises farmers to feed grain to supplement pastures depleted by dry weather, and thereby keep up the production of their herds.

TREAT THE ROOST

FOILES FOR LICE

It is no longer necessary to handle chickens to rid them of lice, says J. E. Humphrey, of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky. Black Leaf 40 applied to the roost poles will do the work. Paint with a small stream on each roost pole just before the chickens go to roost. Then their bodies will warm up the material so that the nicotine fumes will rise up through the feathers and kill lice.

LIGHTNING RODS

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois

A LYRIC NIGHT

By Maude De Verse Newton

I had supposed, until I made a trip to southern Illinois a few days ago, that the lightning rod had no present use in the world. Indeed, I had no present use in the world. Indeed, I had so pre-sented a wise and learned air that was of ourposts and consumption of electric wire, electric bells for the ringing fire, and fakes generally which interrupted the credulity of the unsophisticated, and robbed them of their money as the price of their ignorance.

But I was mistaken. I am now ready to admit that the lightning rod is not a fake, and that it does afford protection from lightning fire, and that it does afford protection from lightning fire, and that it does afford protection from lightning fire
