Vinson for Congress

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF NICHOLAS COUNTY

The closing hours of the campaign find me in the same frame of mind I occupied in its opening days.

My official record, together with my service to our Party, have been the foundation rocks upon which my campaign has rested. Two months ago, I made public my position upon all issues presented for official action during my service as your Congressman, and my position toward each one of them as expressed by my official vote. Notwithstanding that this was made public in a printed document circulated through the District, not a single vote—not a single act of official service has been criticized by my opponents throughout this campaign. If I had not expressed the sentiment of our District, and the sentiment of my opponents themselves, in my official acts, certainly, we would have heard of it during the campaign. Is it not proper, then, to conclude that my official service is not subject to attack?

My Party labors are known to you. In every campaign I have given unstintingly of my time, my money and honest effort to further the cause of our Party and its candidates. In each campaign since my election to the Congress, and before, I have stumped our Congressional District with the best I had in me. Two years ago, I went down to defeat in the Hoover landslide—six Democratic Congressmen in Kentucky met defeat. I took it like a man.

In my opening statement, I said: "Nothing will be said or done by me in this campaign that will weaken our Party." Although provoked by certain careless statements, I have kept that pledge, and intend to keep it through the campaign.

The reports from all sections of the District, point to a sweeping victory. My friends say that it will be done in the name and Democracy. I have no fear in placing my cause in its hands. So—in the closing hours of the campaign, I want to thank my friends for the encouragement which they have given me, for the work which they have performed, and will, until the polls close, perform in my cause.

I am truly,

FRED M. VINSON

SOMEWHERE IN NICHOLAS

(By J. W. Rogers)

To friendly Mercury readers, greetings:

Through the influence of the editor, we again find ourselves trying to write something of Nicholas county people and things, hoping that some of our items, at least, may interest some of our people at large.

We noted with interest in last week's Mercury the list of splendid teachers employed for the ensuing school year. We keenly deplore the fact that we are not one of them. Teaching with us seems more congenial to Nicholas county than in others, as between pupils and teacher.

VINSON WINS EASILY IN PRIMARY RACE

Plurality Over Gov. Fields May Reach 12,000 Hamilton Third

CARRIES 15 COUNTIES

Leading former Governor Fields by almost 12,000 votes, Fred M. Vinson, of Ashland, was an easy winner in the Democratic primary last Saturday. W. C. Hamilton, of Mt. Sterling, trailed in the race, Mr. Vinson carried 15 of the 19 counties in the district, most of them by decisive majorities. Mr. Fields carried his home county, Carter by 713 votes. The former Governor also carried Robertson county by 4 votes, receiving 222 to 218 cast for Mr. Vinson. Mr. Hamilton carried his home county, Montgomery, by 697 votes and Menifee county by 197 votes. Mr. Hamilton is a native of Menifee county.

In Nicholas 1,111 votes were cast. Of these, Vinson received 824, Hamilton, 141 and Fields, 136. Vinson carried every precinct in the county, the only close vote being at East Union, where Mr. Hamilton received 25 votes to 30 for Vinson.

The vote in Nicholas and throughout the district was about 40 per cent of normal. The usual interest of waiting for the returns on election night, prevailed in Carlisle and a few Rock-Gilbert law made this impossible. Consequently the voters deposited their ballots without hearing off the stab containing their name. Others cast the ballot and deposited both in the box. Few voters came to town Monday to hear the returns, though the telephone at The Mercury office was busy giving out election information Monday afternoon.

Mr. Vinson will be opposed by Elva Kendall in the regular election in November. The latter, who defeated Mr. Vinson in the Rowan landslide, had no opposition from his party in the primary contests and automatically became the party nominee.

The result of Saturday's race is regarded as removing Mr. Fields from politics in the district. The former Governor resigned a judgeship from this district, when he made the race for Governor and was succeeded by Fred M. Vinson. The two had been close friends and many of the friends prior to the present race and surprise was expressed in some quarters when Mr. Fields announced.

In the Seventh District, Virgil Chapman was an easy winner over his opponent, Senator Littrell, of Owen county, carrying 11 of the 14 counties in his district. His majority was 9,000.

In the Eighth, Ralph Gilbert, won over O. B. Mattox. Mattox received 4,000 votes.

Brent Spence was nominated in the Sixth District and A. J. May in the Tenth.

W. Voris Gregory was unopposed in the First district, David H. Kinchelow in the Second and Virgil Chapman in the Third. In the Fourth district, Henry Delhaven Moorman withdrew and C. R. Carden, of Munfordville, was given the Democratic nomination.

Among Republican contestants, Robert Blackburn easily defeated Mrs. Minerva Allen in the Seventh; J. L. Newball was nominated in the Ninth; Mrs. John W. Langley in the Tenth and Charles F. Finley in the Eleventh.

SHORTAGE OF WATER IN STATE IS ACUTE

Board Of Health Reports One-Third Of Population On Limited Ration

MANY ANIMALS SUFFER

The seriousness of the long drouth in Kentucky was shown Friday by state board of health reports that approximately one-third of the population's water supply is extremely limited. The water shortage is chiefly in rural communities and small towns to which water is being hauled in wagons.

In making public the reports, Dr. A. T. McCormack, secretary of the board said much of the water is being taken from streams, polluted sources. It is being hauled long distances.

Typhoid fever reports show four times as many cases as in July a year ago. Dr. McCormack added that infantile diarrhoea has greatly increased. Calls for vaccines and serums to prevent typhoid, dysentery and other diseases incident to drouth conditions have come from almost every county in the state of late and the board's laboratory is working 24 hours a day to supply the increased demand.

In addition to the water shortage due to springs and wells drying up, the Kentucky river, source of the supply of the public water systems of the state have been restricted to part service.

Cool weather has succeeded the sultry temperatures of the last several days but rain has been only in scattered, light showers and has had no appreciable effect on burned up crops. Animals are suffering from thirst according to reports from all parts of the state.

Dr. McCormack issued a warning that all water should be boiled before use. He said milk, not already pasteurized, should be boiled. He added that children should not be sent swimming because if they are using streams lowered by the drouth. To avoid summer sickness he urged that urged that they should be restricted to simple diet and not allowed to eat peanuts and confections.

WORST IN 1931

Description Of Drought In That Year Given

(Woodford Sun)

The following editorial, taken from the Versailles, Ind., Republican of November 3, 1881, shows a worse drought that summer than we have yet experienced:

"For the benefit of those to come after us, we record that from a few lines on this most remarkable year. Never was there such a rainfall worth the name from May 1 to beginning of—everything was completely dried up. The corn, grass, trees and every form of vegetation shed their coat of summer and put on the habiliments of winter. Farmers foreseeing the high cost of provisions, and the seeming futility of ever again getting water for them, sold off their stock, retaining only such as they could use. When the fall rains began to descend with days of bright sunshine intervening, everything began to revive. Trees began to re-leaf, bud and blossom, flowers put on their gayest colors and the green shawl of thrifty grass again sprang over the meadows, while volunteer seeds in the gardens again brought forth new crops and in that time, November 1, green beans, new potatoes, cabbage and other superabundance are on our tables. All leaves have fallen, principally. The Madison papers report new beeches in large in walnuts, which have not yet been touched by frost, and the swamps are beginning to think they will really get two crops. Our farmers are practically being repaid for the failure of their corn crop by the unusual pasturage which is better and grows faster than ever grew at any time before at this season. Those who disposed of all their stock no doubt will regret it."

We clip the above from the Lawrenceburg, Ind., Press, published a weekly published by Joseph. R. Wheeler, brother of Andrew Wheeler, editor of the Bluegrass Clipper and Maysville Republican for years, proprietor of the Murfreesboro, Tenn., News-Banner.

The project is known as the Carlisle-Flemingsburg road and the contract calls for grade and drain on 4.84 miles, which takes the road from Carlisle to the Myers schoolhouse. The bonds about two miles remaining within the county, right-of-way for the construction of which. The Mercury is informed, has been secured.

The first 4 miles of the road from Carlisle will be reconstructed work, the other 1.84 miles new grade. The grade will have the hollows and constructed along high ground, after the new method of road construction.

It is believed that work will start at once on the project.

This road may easily become one of the most important in the county, as future construction to the northeast will start from Carlisle to the Ohio river, probably at Minerva. Just across the river are the great tobacco markets and this road will serve to link this section up with the great national tourist routes eventually.

BRACKEN SHERIFF LOSES.

Judge C. D. Newell, in the Bracken circuit court, Tuesday handed down a finding that George Gibson, retired sheriff of Bracken county, is entitled to a judgment to be sent for collection of school taxes in that county to be paid out of the school tax fund instead of four as allowed under the old law, and therefore under the finding he must pay Bracken county the three per cent retained in his settlement made with the Bracken fiscal court.

LIGHT RECEIPTS ON CAROLINA MARKETS

Fright At Low Georgia Prices Cause Small Offerings But Prices Fair

Carolina tobacco markets opened at Columbia Tuesday with the lightest receipts for opening day in many years.

The late season and fright at the low prices paid in Georgia, conspired to reduce the amount of weed offered to two-thirds of the amount sold last year.

Prices paid, however, were said by farmers to be better than they had expected. The prevailing average seemed to be from 10 to 11 cents.

The Georgia Commissioner of Agriculture Tuesday advised Georgia growers to take their tobacco to the Carolina markets, unless the prices improve.

Frankfort is making an effort to get a flying field.

REPORT FOR KENTUCKY

J. P. Blackerby, Registrar of the State Board of Health, has issued the fifteenth annual statistical report of the Bureau of Vital Statistics for the year 1929. This report includes delayed birth and death certificates up to April, 1930.

Most of the total increase in deaths was of persons over 65 years old. There were 122 fewer deaths of infants under one year. The tuberculosis rate continues to drop and was 3.3 lower than in 1928.

1929 is the first year since 1920 that cancer and heart diseases have shown a lower rate. For the year they were obvious. Cancer caused 1,574 deaths, as against 1,679 in 1928. Heart disease deaths were 4,301 in 1929 and 4,315 in 1928.

• Pellagra deaths dropped from 165 to 125.
