A YELLOW PANSY

(Helen Gray Cone)

To the wall of the old green garden
Clings a yellow pansy flame.
Its wings on the sombre lichens
Flayed like a yellow flame.

He looked at the gray greenstone,
And the sleepy four-o'clocks,
He looked at the low lines bordered
With the glossy growing box.

He longed for the peace and the silence
And the shadows that lengthened there,
And his wild wee heart was weary
Of skimming the endless air.

And now in the old green garden,
Where I know no name,
A single pansy is blooming,
Bright as a yellow flame.

And wherever a gay guest passes,
It grieves as if with pain,
For the butterfly soul within it
Longs for the winds again.
