GALLOWS ENRICHES MOTHER

When Robert Blake, under the influence of liquor, murdered Joseph in Texas, he spent his last hours writing the true confession of what men say in the death house. "Before they hang me" he walked to his own room he gave the manuscript to the mother of his victim as his entire estate, bequeathed to her. The confession was published in a magazine and John Wesley was so moved by the confession that he wrote a play "The Last Mile."

PROTECT SHADE TREES

Wires or heavy ropes drawn tightly around a tree trunk or limb cut off the growing sap tree by retarding or stopping the free circulation of water or food, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The careless use of a long pruning hook or other implement for breaking off small dead twigs should be avoided, the department adds, a severe bruise often becomes the point of entrance of disease or decay.

FAST GROWING FAMILY

The present rate of increase in population according to the U. S. Bureau of Census is one person every twenty seconds.

This average is arrived at by considering our factors: birth rate, death rate and flow of emigration and immigration.

In 1926 there was one birth every twelve seconds, a death every twenty-four seconds, one immigrant every one and three-quarter minutes, and one emigrant every five and three-quarter minutes or a "net gain" in population of the person every twenty seconds.

"BIRD DAY" APRIL 11

In recognition of the debt owed birds for their aid to the human race which is now fighting the insect world for control of the earth," Governor Roosevelt, of New York, has designated April 11 as "Bird Day," for the state, and requested teachers and the public generally to have appropriate exercises. Bird lovers, according to the governor's proclamation, cause loss to agriculture yearly of $1,200,000 and destroy one-tenth of everything raised for food.

26 BILLS VETOED BY GOV SAMPSON

Many Important Measures Passed At Recent Session Disapproved Monday

VETOES FALLS ROAD

Governor Flem D. Sampson Monday sent to the Secretary of State his vetoes of 26 bills and resolutions passed by the 1930 general assembly. The 26 vetoes sent out Monday brought to 45 the total number of bills and resolutions passed by the legislature which Governor Sampson has disapproved. Twenty-one of the bills to which the governor could act on bills on which he could act.

Among the bills vetoed was one that would have prevented the state textbook commission from changing more than one-third of the books in use every five years. The governor also vetoed resolutions providing for the creation of a committee to study the state's educational system and the compensation of its various officials.

The other bills vetoed follow:

To provide for motorists to obtain a license entitling them to operate in the county judge, which license could be revoked for violation of law.

To empower the insurance commissioner to inspect and examine into the business of any foreign or domestic life insurance company.

To place on the primary system the "Hiram Brock" road between Mt. Sterling and Owingsville.

To establish and maintain a public employment service in connection with the department of labor.

To provide for the establishment of a hospital for the tuberculous in cities of the fifth or sixth class, to be under jurisdiction of the county board of health.

To repeal the appropriation of $25,000 for the erection of a World War memorial building in Jackson commemorating the achievements of Breathitt county soldiers during the world war.

To regulate the sale of seeds, and provide that seeds sold must be tested annually to the experiment station to test seeds, and that the state board of agriculture shall supervise the enforcement of the law.

To provide for the reorganization of the department of labor.

To provide for the quarantine and control of the Japanese beetle.

To regulate the powers of the board of equalization.

To dedicate to state park purposes certain lands in Breathitt county.

To establish a bureau of medical education and licensure in the state board of health for state aid to county and community hospitals.

To allow fiscal courts in counties containing cities of the second class to employ a zoning engineer.

To increase the salaries of guards of the state penitentiaries to $1,500 a year.

To require the state inspector and examiner to examine the books of county judges, county attorneys and sheriffs.

To regulate the planting of trees and shrubs on public roads and highways.

To require that widows of Confederate soldiers shall have married prior to 1865. Existing law fixes the year 1890, in order to be eligible to receive pensions.

To repeal the act which fixes a city of the fourth class to act as city tax collector.

To provide for the appointment of a committee to investigate claims known to have been living for a year before the war.

To fix a penalty for persons retaining in possession for more ethan 10 days payment of personal property not belonging to them.

To place county patrols in counties having cities of the first class and in a civil service board, instead of under the county judge.

23 MILLION TWO YEAR ROAD BUDGET

Gasoline Taxes Expected To Produce Fifteen Million Dollars During Two Year Period

Kentucky's State Road Fund from tax sources for the biennial period beginning April 1 will total $15,305,000, according to estimates given to the State Highway Commission by the State Tax Commission. In addition the State Road Fund is to receive several million dollars in Federal aid.

The Tax Commission estimated that in the next two years the gasoline tax would amount to $13,700,000. The gasoline tax was estimated to yield $440,000 and the truck license fees $1,150,000. License fees from passenger automobiles would yield $3,000,000, it was estimated.

A. L. Henry, Commissioner of Motor Transportation, estimated that his department would turn over to the State Road Fund approximately $225,000 for the next two years.

The tax from passenger automobile license fees will be less in the next biennial period, than the present one, the Tax Commission estimated. The decrease will be caused, the Commission said, by the number of passenger automobiles increasing faster than the rate of the license fees 25 per cent.

ADVISES REPUBLICANS TO IGNORE CONVENTION CALL

In a statement to Kentucky Republicans, made public Friday, Silas A. Sullivan, of Jamestown, urged members of the party to ignore the Lexington convention in May which is to select a nominee for the United States senatorship to succeed Judge M. M. Robsion.

Mr. Sullivan, a candidate for the nomination, said that he had urged Judge Robsion to permit the convention and Senator Robson to call a primary election for next August 2, but that his requests have been ignored by the committee.

The committee knows that Robsion cannot win in a primary, therefore it has called a convention, disfranchising more than 90 per cent of the Republicans of the state so they may force Judge Robsion on us," said the statement. Sullivan announced that he will start a speaking tour of the state on April 7.

STATE INDEBTEDNESS MORE THAN THREE MILLION

Mrs. Emma Guy Cromwell, state treasurer, announced Tuesday that the state had in its treasury $3,206,942.72 at the close of business March 31 and that there is due to Kentucky in interest-bearing current and road warrants $3,458,207.84 as indebtedness.

WARNS AGAINST LEAF INCREASE

Federal Farm Board Advises Tobacco Growers Against Overproduction This Year

A warning against the reported plans of Kentucky growers to increase burley tobacco acreage 15 per cent was issued Monday by members of the federal farm board at Washington reminding that the board will oppose any increase in the tobacco acreage. According to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, members of the federal farm board was quoted as saying that the board, through the department of agriculture, which controls the 50 per cent of the tobacco crop of the state so they may force the production of the state so they may force the production of the state so they may force the production
