THE CARLISLE MERCURY

ESTABLISHED 1867

Entered at the Carlisle Postoffice as second class matter

WARREN FISHER, EDITOR
GRIMES CAYWOOD, NEWS EDITOR

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One Year (in advance) $2.00
Six Months (in advance) 1.00
Three Months (in advance) ..... .50

Member Kentucky Press Association
Member National Editorial Association

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1930

"The Best Laid Schemes O' Mice And Men Gang Aft Agley."

The best laid schemes of politicians, as well as those of mice and men, "gang aft agley," as witness the fate of Flim Flam Flimm's Honest John, the layer of plans, that must have seemed to him hog-tight and landslide proof.

Perhaps no more thorough preparations for the settlement of political futures were ever made in Kentucky. First the junior member of the firm of Flemjohn drew the glory and acclaim of having "managed" Herbert Hoover's campaign in Kentucky to an unprecedented majority of 180,000. Naturally Mr. Robsion was aided by a religious prejudice, older than Mr. Robsion, older than Kentucky, But Mr. Robsion was given the credit and found the going easy when he would remove, as Presidential appointment, Senator Backett from the path of his ambition.

This done, there remained the always popular Ed Morrow to be shunted onto a political side-track. An appointment to a fat Federal job did that nicely. The Republican main-line track now being clear and nomination for both long and short terms being finally appropriated by the Flemjohn combination for the Flemjohn favorite, the only opposition to be faced was some hardy Democrat, undaunted by the 180,000 Hoover majority. Mills Logan was the dauntless one, but Owsley Stanley, that veteran campaigner of many hard-fought political battles, had his ear to the ground. Another appointment berthed Rev' Owsley, leaving the Democratic field to the supposedly weaker candidate.

Now to make assurance doubly sure. Another Federal appointment for Democrat David Kinchloe would leave a sweet savor i' the mouths of fecond district Democrats for the appointee, forsooth, so Mr. Kinchloe is safely shunted into a Federal berth and Republican opposition to Congressional candidates in the Gibraltar of Democracy is likewise squelched betimes.

The track is now cleared for Honest John. Every precaution has been taken; Bob Lucas is fully berthed at Washington; his retainers in Kentucky are assured of uninterrupted tenure of their jobs; Billy Harrison is to be Governor in return for "delivering" a Louisville majority in the thirty thousands. All is ready. Board! Toot, Toot! The Pig Misery Special begins to move, and the lone passenger of honor swings jauntily aboard. As his hand clasps the throttle above the hand of Honest John one recognizes the senior member of the firm of Flemjohn, the other political Siamese twin, Flim Flam in person. Flim himself! T-o-o-t! T-o-o-t! Toot-toot!

An open track and signals flashing clear Over on the Democratic line busy workers for the firm of Flemjohn seek to remove the rails. Invoking the old prejudices that proved such surefire stuff in 1928, the mails are flooded with a publication that seeks to arouse again religious bigotry and gleefully Honest John, Prattle orators invoke comparisons, ranking Honest John with the Nazarene. The senior member of the firm of Flemjohn himself sops long enough to step to the colored voter to assume the role of vultures, to "pick the vitals from Judge Logan on November 4." All is excitement, ringing of bells and tooting of whistles.

But the track-greasers find their "grease" is stale; the whoopers-up find their comparisons invidious and the vultures are more interested in "how I gonna git my "vultures" than in visiting The Pig Misery Special. It moves, but slowly. Something's wrong. Such long and careful planning should mean more speed. Even on the easy grade in the Eleventh, the going's slow. "Buddy Komerad!" T-o-o-t-o-t!

* * *

Comes November 4. Away down the track which leads to Washington the Democratic Special slips easily over the "greased" rails, gathers speed, disappears in the distance. At the throttle in the "weak" candidate, who was undaunted by a Hoover majority of 180,000, and another, who is even a tyro at the game of politics—but only a human man. The Pig Misery Special clangs painfully to a stop, distanced.

* * *

"The best laid schemes o' mice and men gang aft agley," sang Robbie Burns. They do, in very truth, but usually there is an excellent reason. There must have been a reason for the gasping agony of the well laid plans of Honest John. Apparently nothing was overlooked that might be conjured from the lore of the shrewd and practiced politician. Then why did the Pig Misery Special derailed politician. Then why did the Pig Misery Special crawl at such a small pace even on the easy grades of the Louisville Black Belt and the Rock-ribbed Republican Eleventh?

Oh, well, if you ask us, here's one reason. Do you remember the jaunty figure that swung aboard and flung hand to throttle as the Robsion Special chuffed out? Texas Flim Flam Flem in person. Kentucky's progressive Governor himself, and one may imagine him chanting to mix our metaphors a bit nautically—

"Oh, I am the cook and the captain bold
And the mate of the Robsion Special
And the boy on that train and all the rest
And the crew of the captain's fist."

Yes, if you ask us, here's our opinion. Honest John's Pig Misery Special started wrong.

Hold Your Fire

The hunting season opens Saturday. Guns will blaze in various bundles of brown feathers, all too scarce in this particular section of the State, besides, not so plentiful as last year, will be scorned by music lovers. Whether the quickness in a diverse known to cause intense suffering to the victim, frequently death. Much powder will be burned and many pleasures taken by those who tramp the brown fields in the tangy autumn air.

Some, unused to handling a gun, except at this season, will kill everybody at any moving object, including the farmers' stock and sometimes each other. For this reason hound land-owners "post" their land, cause hunters from their boundaries. "Why, last year," said a woman who added her name to the growing list of those who forbid hunting on their farms, "they almost shot my husband. In cities to the east and north it is "open season" on husbands all the time if we are to believe the hilarious accounts that appear in the city prints, with silhouettes of bowler embellished pictures of the huntresses. But no hosierily embellished pictures of the huntresses. But no hosierily embellished pictures of the huntresses. But no one wants a mere man hunter to shoot one's husband.

So our advice to hunters, especially to once-a-year hunters of fowling pieces is, "don't fire until you see handlers of fowling pieces is, "don't fire until you see the whites of their eyes." It may be a prized cow, or a husband. And leave a few of the whirring brown birds for "seed." They are scarce enough as it is.

May It Never Work Again.

To this newspaper the most gratifying outcome of the recent campaign is the fact that Mr. Robsion's attempt to arouse the passion of religious prejudice in Kentucky resulted in complete an ignominious failure.

During a campaign in which the Rampson-Robsion machine and its henchmen resorted to contemptible tactics more than once, as witness the inane and inexcusable comparison of Mr. Robsion to the Christ and Mr. Sampson's appeal to Negro voters to become the "vultures who will pick the vitals out of Judge Logan on November 4," some what is more despicable and silly than the attempt to make votes by arousing a dangerous religious prejudice? Its Mouthing is dangerous, religious prejudice? It is treason than as a great opportunity for constructive service.

"For a year and a half the Democratic party has conducted an vigorous campaign as they could, not to destroy the Administration, but to organize and put forth a constructive program. We have not been as well-nigh intolerable. The minority in the Senate and House of Representatives fought bravely and sincerely to prevent the enactment of a tariff bill which was not only apotheosis of bad economics but was doubly dangerous because of the conditions in the country. Certainly with the nation in the throes of a ghastly business depression it was no time for the efforts of a party upon consumers and an additional handicap on business.

Tariff Delays Recovery

"Despite the opposition of the Democratic leaders the majority wing of the Republican party and over the protests of leading economists of the nation, that bill was forced on the country. It is now in effect and the unemployment and wage figures are grave for more manifestations of exultation. The country faces a parlous situation. There is profit neither to it nor to the voters in the election in Dwelling on the causes or responsibilities for this condition. The task ahead is to repair the damage, to get the ship of state back on even keel and to go ahead on a course which will bring us out of the tempest with the least disaster and the greatest speed consistent with safety.

"The Democratic Party faces its duty with a firm determination to perform it. It is confident that a reverse to swerve it from the course that is best for the country. It has neither the time nor the desire to punish anybody or to exalt itself. To the extent of its ability it will steer the legislation of the nation in a straight line toward the goal of prosperity, nor permit any of its members either by political expediency or a desire to show that it now controls the party establishment of the Government.

Will Work With Hoover

"To this end the Seventy-second Congress will not be an obstructive body. It will not be the creature of the President of the United States, but will be glad to co-operate with him and with the members of the opposite party in House and Senate in every measure that conduces to the welfare of the country. It will show some the assistance of every man of every party or of no party, official or the Government.

otherwise, who can contribute to the effort to make this country a happier place in which to live. It has in mind no rash policies, but will seek as carefully as possible to remedy the evils that are afflicting the nation.

"The Democratic legislative leaders are serious men, constructive but not reactionary, with long experience in Government and a complete confidence of the efforts of Republican rule on the national well-being.

"They know perfectly well that even unfettered political selfishness demands that business should not be ruined, and that every honest industry should be aided and not hindered in the necessarily slow path back to prosperity. There will be no investigation in the shady progress of the business of Government. There will be no fishing for political appropriations, no rejection of fit appointees to important places merely because these appointments are made by a President of the opposite party.

Plan No Revision

"As to the tariff, the Democratic policy announced in its platform and through its candidates in the last presidential campaign, is clear. It proposed to periodic general revisions, which inevitably bring in their train a shameful load of scandal and a disturbing effect upon the entire industrial and commercial system. Democrats in the present Congress will favor the enactment of a plan that would limit changes to those which may be made by individual schedules on the recommendation of nonpartisan tariff experts, and not with the dictates of economic science. With such a system in operation there would proceed with the maximum of speed and safety, and with the least cause to earthquakes in our bu-ness structure. Democrats may say be confident of confidence the country has given. But they will not be false to that trust. They assume legislative responsibility do not regard the election on occasion on which to shirk it or to avoid it gracefully—ation. The responsibilities bestowed by the electors are too great for mere manifestations of exultation. The country faces a parlous situation. There is profit neither to it nor to the voters in the election in Dwelling on the causes or responsibilities for this condition. The task ahead is to repair the damage, to get the ship of state back on even keel and to go ahead on a course which will bring us out of the tempest with the least disaster and the greatest speed consistent with safety.

"The Democratic Party faces its duty with a firm determination to perform it. It is confident that a reverse to swerve it from the course that is best for the country. It has neither the time nor the desire to punish anybody or to exalt itself. To the extent of its ability it will steer the legislation of the nation in a straight line toward the goal of prosperity, nor permit any of its members either by political expediency or a desire to show that it now controls the party establishment of the Government.

Will Work With Hoover

"To this end the Seventy-second Congress will not be an obstructive body. It will not be the creature of the President of the United States, but will be glad to co-operate with him and with the members of the opposite party in House and Senate in every measure that conduces to the welfare of the country. It will show some the assistance of every man of every party or of no party, official or the Government.

Campaign Captains" Shouse And Lucas

In its discussion, "Campaign Captains," of Joseph Shouse and Robert H. Lucas, the current issue of Time, national news magazine, says of Mr. Shouse:

"Pregnant with great things, however, was Mr. Shouse's position, for after Mr. Raskob's resignation—sure to come after the party's debts are cleared—the focal figure of the Democratic party would be the man who had last guided to the polls . . . Mr. Shouse loomed last week as the most powerful non-candidate-to-be of Democratic politics with a continued decline of Republican sway in prospect—he had the greatest chance of any Democrat of shaping to fit history in the next two years."

Of Mr. Lucas, the other Kentuckian, who last week as Director of the Republican National Committee expressed himself as "confident of a normal Republican majority," and following a Democratic landslide saw in the result "an expression of public confidence and a vindication of President Hoover," Time says:

"Mr. Lucas was the benefactor of a cause that had lost and was contumelated quietly. No one would blame him; he would simply be the victim of a state of change.

In the event of such contingency he could console himself some long enough to step to the colored voter to assume the role of vultures, to "pick the vitals from Judge Logan on November 4." All is excitement, ringing of bells and tooting of whistles.

But the track-greasers find their "grease" is stale; the whoopers-up find their comparisons invidious and the vultures are more interested in "how I gonna git my "vultures" than in visiting The Pig Misery Special. It moves, but slowly. Something's wrong. Such long and careful planning should mean more speed. Even on the easy grade in the Eleventh, the going's slow. "Buddy Komerad!" T-o-o-t-o-t!

* * *

Comes November 4. Away down the track which leads to Washington the Democratic Special slips easily over the "greased" rails, gathers speed, disappears in the distance. At the throttle in the "weak" candidate, who was undaunted by a Hoover majority of 180,000, and another, who is even a tyro at the game of politics—but only a human man. The Pig Misery Special clangs painfully to a stop, distanced.

* * *

"The best laid schemes o' mice and men gang aft agley," sang Robbie Burns. They do, in very truth, but usually there is an excellent reason. There must have been a reason for the gasping agony of the well laid plans of Honest John. Apparently nothing was overlooked that might be conjured from the lore of the shrewd and practiced politician. Then why did the Pig Misery Special crawl at such a small pace even on the easy grades of the Louisville Black Belt and the Rock-ribbed Republican Eleventh?

Oh, well, if you ask us, here's one reason. Do you remember the jaunty figure that swung aboard and flung hand to throttle as the Robsion Special chuffed out? Texas Flim Flam Flem in person. Kentucky's progressive Governor himself, and one may imagine him chanting to mix our metaphors a bit nautically—

"Oh, I am the cook and the captain bold
And the mate of the Robsion Special
And the boy on that train and all the rest
And the crew of the captain's fist."

Yes, if you ask us, here's our opinion. Honest John's Pig Misery Special started wrong.

Dig Your Holes But Do Not Plant

Fall is usually and correctly considered the best season to plant trees and shrubs. The reasoning behind this rule is given the advantage of the normal "rest period" to become established and is in condition to begin its growth rapidly when Spring comes.

The present season, however, is unusual, in that the amount of rainfall has been so far below normal that the most successful raise could not now put sufficient moisture in the soil to make this fall a good planting season.

The College of Agriculture advises that planting be deferred until spring, but suggests that digging conditions may be created by digging the holes for trees and shrubs now. Winter rains, freezing and thawing tend to loosen the soil and make for good spring planting.

If, as Director Bob Lucas says, the result of the election is an expression of confidence in President Hoover and a vindication of Republican politics, the same logic might be used to convince us that the result in Kentucky is an expression of confidence in John M. Robsion and a vindication of the policies of Flem D. Sampson.

The election of Gifford Pinchot, "Roosevelt's forester," as Governor of Pennsylvania, despite the fact that Wall Street papers rather hoped for the defeat of Pinchot, emphasizes the growing importance of the Power issue, sure to become momentous before many years.

"A wet woman in politics is personally dry," says Arthur Brisbane, while "saintly per cent of dry manufacturers are not what whiskey." The perversity of the sex—whichever one you happen not to be.

"Kentucky, it may be added," says the Elizabethtown News, "dated Senator Robsion's resignation." Right. To take effect at once.

LIVE TO-DAY

Yesterday is a memory,
To-morrow is an imagination,
To-day is eternity.
Live to-day and live forever.
Cut out two days of your life—
Yesterday with its mistakes and follies,
To-morrow with its fears and dreads,
And live only to-day.

—Anonymous

DEMOCRATS PROMISE CONSTRUCTIVE EFFORT

Following is text of the statement, issued Friday night by seven outstanding Democratic leaders, assuring the country of "constructive" legislative effort:

"A remarkable victory has come to the Democratic party. We, however, regard it less as a fortuitous triumph than as a great opportunity for constructive service.

"For a year and a half the Democratic party has conducted an vigorous campaign as they could, not to destroy the Administration, but to organize and put forth a constructive program. We have not been as well-nigh intolerable. The minority in the Senate and House of Representatives fought bravely and sincerely to prevent the enactment of a tariff bill which was not only apotheosis of bad economics but was doubly dangerous because of the conditions in the country. Certainly with the nation in the throes of a ghastly business depression it was no time for the efforts of a party upon consumers and an additional handicap on business.

Tariff Delays Recovery

"Despite the opposition of the Democratic leaders the majority wing of the Republican party and over the protests of leading economists of the nation, that bill was forced on the country. It is now in effect and the unemployment and wage figures are grave for more manifestations of exultation. The country faces a parlous situation. There is profit neither to it nor to the voters in the election in Dwelling on the causes or responsibilities for this condition. The task ahead is to repair the damage, to get the ship of state back on even keel and to go ahead on a course which will bring us out of the tempest with the least disaster and the greatest speed consistent with safety.

"The Democratic Party faces its duty with a firm determination to perform it. It is confident that a reverse to swerve it from the course that is best for the country. It has neither the time nor the desire to punish anybody or to exalt itself. To the extent of its ability it will steer the legislation of the nation in a straight line toward the goal of prosperity, nor permit any of its members either by political expediency or a desire to show that it now controls the party establishment of the Government.

Will Work With Hoover

"To this end the Seventy-second Congress will not be an obstructive body. It will not be the creature of the President of the United States, but will be glad to co-operate with him and with the members of the opposite party in House and Senate in every measure that conduces to the welfare of the country. It will show some the assistance of every man of every party or of no party, official or the Government.

Call 290

and let me have

Your Family Wash

Insured Against Fire and Theft

Robert Mann, Agt.

Lexington Laundry Company

30 Years Ago

Thursday, November 16, 1900

Old Parks residence on the corner of Chestnut and Maple streets, one of the oldest buildings in Carlisle, being torn down.

Mrs. H. F. Willett sells her home place in the suburbs of Carlisle to I. E. Ritchie for $2,500.

Capt. Charles F. Norton, of the Medical Corps, Army, visiting his father, William Norton.

Rev. F. M. Tinder leaves for Lexington to assist Rev. W. G. Conley in a revival meeting at the Chestnut Street Christian church.

"James Herrington, 104 years old. Birdy Williams, aged 94, and Zed Gardner, aged 90, voted at Hog Jaw precinct Tuesday.

Edmund Cummins, Ed T. Rule and James A. Williams are candidates as cadets from the Democratic nomination for Assessor.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Crump, of the county, on the 10th, a son.—To Mr. and Mrs. Polk Snapp, of Nicholas, on the 8th, a daughter.—To Mr. and Mrs. George Waugh, of Nicholas, on the 8th, a daughter.—To Mr. and Mrs. Caesar Barlow, of the county, on the 9th, a son.

Married—Miss Minnie Francis and Mr. A. L. Fryman, both of the county, on the 14th.—Miss Mary Bell Bryan and Mr. Marian Snapp, both of the county, on the 14th.—Miss Ruth Sparks and Mr. W. T. Colliver, both of the county.—Miss Anna Mae Harrison and Mr. H. E. McCracken, all of the county, married in a double wedding ceremony at the home of Rev. Father Hickey at Mill Creek, Mason county, on the 14th.

Died—Mrs. George Wilson, 71, at her home near Blue Licks on the 12th.—Mr. Martin L. ther, 35, at his home near Flemingsburg on the 12th.—Infant of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Fryman, at their home in the county on the 10th.

42 YEARS AGO

Thursday, November 15, 1888

Robert Spahr's bass stage line between Carlisle and Sharpsburg from Ed Collins.

Tri-weekly mail service established between Carlisle and Barterville, Grayson and Barefoot.

New house just completed for Jesse Norton by Perry Pumphrey, near Carlisle, destroyed by fire Tuesday night.

Democrat elect nine Congressmen and Republicans two in elections last Tuesday. The Democrats are from the Tenth and Eleventh districts. The Congressmen elect are as follows: First district . . . W. J. Stone; Second, W. C. Owens; Third, J. H. Goodnight; Fourth, A. B. Montgomery; Fifth, A. W. Cash; Sixth, John G. Carlisle; Seventh, W. C. P. Breckinridge; Eighth, D. G. Colyer; Ninth, Thomas J. Paynter; Tenth J. H. Wilson; Eleventh, Polk Edwards.

Rev. I. M. Scudder and family leave to-day for Elizabethtown. Rev. Scudder will continue as pastor of the Carlisle and Elizabethtown Presbyterian churches.

W. V. Weldon purchases equipment for a livery stable here and will move the plant to Augusta.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cryder, at their home in Carlisle on the 10th, a daughter.—To Rev. and Mrs. Scudder, at their home in Carlisle on the 11th, a daughter.

Died—Mr. James A. Hanning, 39, at the home of his brother-in-law, John W. Berry, in the county on the 12th.—Mr. Ben F. Summers, formerly of Nicholas, at his home in Fleming on the 10th.—Mr. Frank Menifee, formerly of Nicholas, at his home in Pilot Grove, Mo.—Little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Young, at their home near Jacktown on the 9th.

Classified Ads Cost Little But They Always Get Results

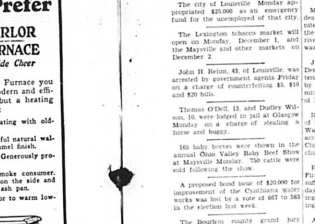
Why Women Prefer ALLEN'S PARLOR FURNACE

Modern Heat With Oldtime Fireside Cheer

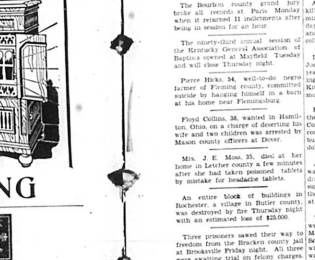
WHEN you buy an Allen's Parlor Furnace you will have, not only the most modern and efficient above-the-floor warm-air furnace, but a heating system that offers you these advantages:

1—Combines circulated, moist, warm-air heating with oldtime fireside cheer.
2—Harmonizes with latest furniture. Beautiful natural walnut effect is reproduced in porcelain—enamel finish.
3—Burns any fuel—saves 25 to 50 per cent. Generously proportioned doors and fire box.
4—No smoke, dust and dirt. Hot blast smoke consumer. Efficient wide deep fire pot. Ash door is on the side and closed when grates are shaken. Roomy ash pan.
5—Designed and constructed low on the floor to warm lower strata of air, insuring warm floors.

6—Vapor pan, properly placed, to supply the proper amount of moisture to the warm air.
7—Ventilating shelf installed without carpenter work. Keeps food warm. Saves fuel. Comes with you when you move.
8—Heat radiation surface is ample. Fire can not be fired Radiating Surface.
9—Super-abundant supply of fresh air necessary to take the place of that burned at different seasons.
10—Manufactured and guaranteed by one of the oldest and largest manufacturers of furnaces in the country. Quality guaranteed by 50 years of experience.



C. R. KING



OVER

3/4 BILLION

DOLLARS per Year

Saved the Users of Railroad Service..

In spite of the fact that the railroads of the country have spent for improvements to their property, in addition to proper maintenance, over $6,000,000,000 since 1920, and during most of this period have provided almost perfect service, their freight and passenger rates, measured by the receipts per ton mile and per passenger mile, have declined 15.5 per cent and 10 per cent respectively. In other words, if the receipts per ton mile and passenger mile had been maintained for the years 1921 to 1929, the public's freight and passenger bill would have been over $6,000,000,000 greater, or nearly equal to their capital investment, in those years.

The railroads are striving earnestly to continue their excellent service, but it is manifest they cannot continue to do so indefinitely unless they obtain sufficient revenues to meet their obligations, provide adequate improvements, and obtain a reasonable return on the value of their property devoted to public use.

The Railroads Must Earn To Spend

Measured on the same basis as the information given above, the patrons of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company have saved over $150,000,000 by reason of reduced freight and passenger receipts for transportation service over the Railroad.

L&N

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

NEWS OF KENTUCKY

Winchester voted a bond issue of $180,000 for sewers.

21,400 farmers were given seed rye in Kentucky by the Red Cross.

The new Russell theater at Maysville will be opened for business Thanksgiving Day.

By a vote of 3,196 to 2,466, Lexington voters approved the city manager plan of government.

The United States federal court opened at Richmond Monday with 150 new cases on the docket.

The University of Kentucky Wildcats lost to Duke University 14-7 at Durham, N. C., Saturday.

Mrs. Lucy Nelson, 25 was killed near Greenup when her automobile was struck by a passenger train.

The city of Louisville Monday appropriated $25,000 as an emergency fund for the unemployed of that city.

The Lexington tobacco market will open on Monday, December 1, and continue for approximately two months on December 2.

John H. Reiss, 43, of Louisville, was arrested by government agents Friday on a charge of counterfeiting $5, $10 and $20 bills.

Thomas O'Dell, 13, and Dudley Wilson, 10, were lodged in jail at Glasgow Monday on a charge of stealing a horse and buggy.

165 baby bowies were shown in the annual Ohio Valley Baby Show, held at Maysville Monday. 750 cattle were sold following the show.

A proposed bond issue of $20,000 for improvement of the Cynthiana water works was lost by a vote of 667 to 583 in the election last week.

The Bourbon county grand jury broke all records at Paris Monday when it returned 91 indictments after being in session for an hour.

The ninety-third annual session of the Kentucky Grand Association of Baptists opened at Mayfield Tuesday and will close Thursday night.

Pierre Hicks, 54, well-to-do negro farmer of Fleming county, committed suicide by hanging himself in a barn at his home near Hillsboro Sunday.

Floyd Collins, 38, wanted in Hamilton, Ohio, on a charge of deserting his wife and two children was arrested by Mason county officers at Dover.

Mrs. J. E. Moss, 35, died at her home in Letcher county a few minutes after she had taken carbolic acid by mistake for headache tablets.

An entire block of buildings in Rochester, a village in Butler county, was destroyed by fire Thursday night with an estimated loss of $25,000.

Three prisoners sawed their way to freedom from the Bracken county jail in Brooksville Friday night. All three were awaiting trial on felony charges.

Four Louisville doctors entered pleas of guilty in federal court at Louisville Saturday to charges of issuing whisky prescriptions illegally. They will be sentenced this week by Judge Dawson.

Wesley Garrett, 18-years old, Bourbon county's oldest citizen, died at his home near Paris, Thursday. Mrs. Garrett is survived by an 80-year-old son.

Five prohibition agents were fired upon Wednesday night when they surprised two men operating a still on the river in Lewis county. The agents returned the fire but the men escaped.

In the Woodford circuit court at Versailles Friday, Otis Sharp, of Versailles, was awarded a verdict of $30,000 the full amount sued for in his suit against the Kentucky Rock Asphalt Company. Sharp, who was employed as driver of one of the company's road oilers, was badly burned in June, 1929, when leaking oil became ignited and set fire to the tank and to Sharp's clothing.

The first crop of tobacco delivered to a warehouse in Kentucky was received at Shelbyville last week when a crop of 1,000 pounds was shipped from Columbus, Indiana.

George Furgate 16, was shot through the thigh and accidentally wounded by Noah Couch, deputy sheriff of Perry county, Monday when Furgate interfered as the officer arrested his brother.

Hays Tipton, negro, charged with the murder of his sister at Mt. Sterling, entered a plea of guilty in the Montgomery circuit court last week and was given a life sentence in the penitentiary.

Mrs. Nellie Orme, 28, of Maysville, suffered probable fatal injuries Saturday night in an automobile accident near Washington. Mason county. Mrs. Stella McKibben, driver of the car, escaped injury.

Mrs. Henry Decy, 27, was burned to death Monday when her clothing ignited by the explosion of gasoline in the Doty homestead in the Mississippi river near Hickman. Her husband was badly burned.

J. Quincy Ward, of Harrison county, former Boone county superintendent of wardens and fish hatcheries of the Kentucky game and fish commission succeeded Claude J. Meredith, of Bowling Green.

Rev. Christopher P. Starling, rector of St Paul's Episcopal Church at Walbrook, suburb of Baltimore, has accepted a call to become dean of Christ Church Cathedral, Episcopal church of Louisville.

Rev. W. C. Pearce, 66, pastor of the First Baptist church at Catlettsburg, was killed and his wife and daughter were injured when the automobile he was driving skidded into the road near Lexington and overturned.

An unidentified white woman was killed, and a bus driver and a negro motorist were injured last night in a bus when a Consolidated Coach bus crashed into a group of negro miners collided near Hopkinsville.

In the Harrison circuit court Friday, Joe Jones, negro, was given a year in prison on a charge of breaking into the office of Russell Fox, Publishing Paint-er, and stealing money and several pistols.

Five originating in a store room of the Mason county Mutual Telephone Company at Washington, Mason county, Monday morning last Friday afternoon when a Consolidated Coach bus and a truck carrying 20 negro miners Hopkinsville.

In the Harrison circuit court Friday, Joe Jones, negro, was given a year in prison on a charge of breaking into the office of Russell Fox, Publishing Paint-er, and stealing money and several pistols.

Five originating in a store room of the Mason county Mutual Telephone Company at Washington, Mason county, Monday morning last Friday afternoon when a Consolidated Coach bus and a truck carrying 20 negro miners Hopkinsville.

The ninety-third annual session of the Kentucky Grand Association of Baptists opened at Mayfield Tuesday and will close Thursday night.

Pierre Hicks, 54, well-to-do negro farmer of Fleming county, committed suicide by hanging himself in a barn at his home near Hillsboro Sunday.

Floyd Collins, 38, wanted in Hamilton, Ohio, on a charge of deserting his wife and two children was arrested by Mason county officers at Dover.

Mrs. J. E. Moss, 35, died at her home in Letcher county a few minutes after she had taken carbolic acid by mistake for headache tablets.

An entire block of buildings in Rochester, a village in Butler county, was destroyed by fire Thursday night with an estimated loss of $25,000.

Three prisoners sawed their way to freedom from the Bracken county jail in Brooksville Friday night. All three were awaiting trial on felony charges.

Four Louisville doctors entered pleas of guilty in federal court at Louisville Saturday to charges of issuing whisky prescriptions illegally. They will be sentenced this week by Judge Dawson.

Wesley Garrett, 18-years old, Bourbon county's oldest citizen, died at his home near Paris, Thursday. Mrs. Garrett is survived by an 80-year-old son.

Five prohibition agents were fired upon Wednesday night when they surprised two men operating a still on the river in Lewis county. The agents returned the fire but the men escaped.

In the Woodford circuit court at Versailles Friday, Otis Sharp, of Versailles, was awarded a verdict of $30,000 the full amount sued for in his suit against the Kentucky Rock Asphalt Company. Sharp, who was employed as driver of one of the company's road oilers, was badly burned in June, 1929, when leaking oil became ignited and set fire to the tank and to Sharp's clothing.

After having handled nitroglycerine successfully for 25 years without a mishap and having been a successful parachute jumper, Ernest Hackett, 55, all well shooter, was killed in an automobile accident near Owensboro.

Following a birthday party in her honor at her home at Anniee, Floyd county, Saturday night, Miss Mary Burchett, 16 was found dead with a bullet through her head. Relatives claim foul play while authorities declare the girl killed herself.

In the Fayette circuit court Saturday, Judge Richard C. Stoll rendered an opinion in which he declared J. Porter Lord, Democrat, was elected sheriff of Fayette county by 16 votes over his kinsman, Charles Land, Republican, in the November, 1929 election.

A large tobacco barn belonging to Charles McMaghs on the Highland road in Carroll county, was destroyed by fire Wednesday night and Thursday morning Mr. McMaghs found one of his cows had been shot. Spite work is believed to have been the cause of both.

Scoring 77 points in scholarship and 23 points in athletics, pupils of the Henderson county rural schools carried off high honors in the sixth annual two-day tournament of the rural school of Maysville, held at the University of Kentucky last Friday and Saturday.

Thieves broke into the soft drink and candy stand of Mrs. Nellie Lyons on the Millersburg road in Harrison county Saturday night and stole about $200 in gold money, a considerable amount of silver and paper money, a diamond bar pin, diamond ring and a gold watch.

A jury in the Kenton circuit court returned a verdict Friday awarding Mrs. Lucy Bowman Dempsey, of Independence, damages of $15,000 against the city of Covington. Mrs. Nordecamp was stepped on a curb, alleged to be defective, and injured her leg, which later had to be amputated.

A proposed bond issue of $20,000 for improvement of the Cynthiana water works was lost by a vote of 667 to 583 in the election last week.

The Bourbon county grand jury broke all records at Paris Monday when it returned 91 indictments after being in session for an hour.

The ninety-third annual session of the Kentucky Grand Association of Baptists opened at Mayfield Tuesday and will close Thursday night.

Pierre Hicks, 54, well-to-do negro farmer of Fleming county, committed suicide by hanging himself in a barn at his home near Hillsboro Sunday.

Floyd Collins, 38, wanted in Hamilton, Ohio, on a charge of deserting his wife and two children was arrested by Mason county officers at Dover.

Mrs. J. E. Moss, 35, died at her home in Letcher county a few minutes after she had taken carbolic acid by mistake for headache tablets.

An entire block of buildings in Rochester, a village in Butler county, was destroyed by fire Thursday night with an estimated loss of $25,000.

Three prisoners sawed their way to freedom from the Bracken county jail in Brooksville Friday night. All three were awaiting trial on felony charges.

Four Louisville doctors entered pleas of guilty in federal court at Louisville Saturday to charges of issuing whisky prescriptions illegally. They will be sentenced this week by Judge Dawson.

Wesley Garrett, 18-years old, Bourbon county's oldest citizen, died at his home near Paris, Thursday. Mrs. Garrett is survived by an 80-year-old son.

Five prohibition agents were fired upon Wednesday night when they surprised two men operating a still on the river in Lewis county. The agents returned the fire but the men escaped.

In the Woodford circuit court at Versailles Friday, Otis Sharp, of Versailles, was awarded a verdict of $30,000 the full amount sued for in his suit against the Kentucky Rock Asphalt Company. Sharp, who was employed as driver of one of the company's road oilers, was badly burned in June, 1929, when leaking oil became ignited and set fire to the tank and to Sharp's clothing.

Why Children Have A "Finicky" Appetite

(Bureau Of Maternal And Child Health State Board Of Health Of Kentucky)

Parents constantly ask, "How can I make my child eat? He simply has no appetite." If the child has no physical defect, such as bad tonsils, and is normal he should eat. The following suggestions taken from Child Management," by Dr. D. A. Thom, should prove helpful to parents of children of this type. But first of all ask yourselves as parents if you are, by your own food habits, giving your child a good example of normal food likes and correct habits of eating and thinking.

Dainty serving of food goes a long way in arousing an appetite. A small table and china set for children is sometimes being allowed to sit in mother's place at the table may have a great appeal. Let the child know that when he learns to feed himself in a quiet, efficient manner he may then come to the table with the "grownups." This may give him incentive to strive for perfection. Occasionally consult the child's preference about his food, but never let him feel he is free to dictate as to what he will and will not eat. Teach him that certain foods are required if he is to grow big and strong and rugged like the "Daddy" he adores. Do not insist on finishing him, lead him once in a while. Little harm will result if he will take any chance on missing a meal in the future.

Remember that children are quick to copy and if, for instance, grandma is on a diet and will not attempt eat this or that, or if father frankly emphasizes his likes or dislikes especially a dislike for milk or green vegetables for he is not just becoming finicky and notional in his eating. The child who early learns to eat with whatever is set before him will be saved much discomfort and embarrassment in later life.

Of course, the child should have even his meals at regularly spaced food that is well cooked and served in small quantities. Dieting in serving meals is of great importance, not only for physiological reasons, such as keeping the intake of food evenly regulated in order that digestive apparatus may work smoothly, but for other reasons as well. Obesity in a child learns that food is available at any hour of the day and that it is not necessary to eating at any definite time. It should be understood that meals are strictly adhered to by the parent that if the youngster does not eat at the allotted hour he gets nothing until the following meal. Care must be taken, however, that he is not fed between meals by other members of the family or supplied with sweeties with which he can buy sweets from the luncheon counter at school interval. The child should not be hurried during the meal, for digestion is impaired from time to time and undoubtedly with his food. The ordinary meal for a child should not require over 30 minutes at the most. If by that time he has not finished the meal without any comment, and let him go until the next meal without food. Usually two or three meals missed will teach about the desired results—a hungry child.

Training in eating—when it is time for the child to be fed, the whole attention of the mother and child should be devoted to this essential activity. The child's attention should not be distracted from play, but his whole thought concentrated. When this training has been given from the beginning, later it is difficult to teach the child how to sit at his table.

Thumb sucking may destroy the child's appetite, therefore do not permit the habit to be formed.

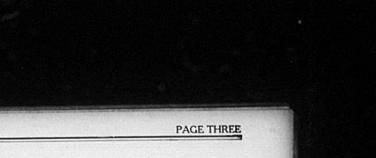
TURKEYS PLENTIFUL

(Courier-Journal)

One result of the drouth, the spring drouth especially, is the fact Kentucky has a 15 to 20 per cent larger crop of turkeys this year. It is hard to raise turkeys in wet weather. Most of the 1930 poults were raised in dry weather and today are being fed for the market—fed, in many instances, with corn meal, instead of comparatively inexpensive corn. The prospect is that city dwellers, the family used to having turkey for Thanksgiving dinner, is going to have to be satisfied, and pay prices 20 per cent lower.

That may have a discouraging sound to the farmer's wife who has a flock of her own and here, but it must be taken into consideration that the crop of country over is only slightly under last year's record production, when prices were low. The still lower price this year is due, according to commission men, to the general drop in all commodities, including clothing and other things the farmer buys as well as the things he sells. The larger crop may in a measure compensate the producers for the lower price.

While commission merchants in Louisville are paying as high as 18 cents a pound for turkeys, down in Lincoln county, in the county of Kentucky's Thanksgiving birds is raised, and the slightly near Lexington, famed for the choicest birds. Farmers are being advised to market only their best birds at this time. When the demand increases there may be some-what better, but not more than a cent or two. When Thanksgiving comes along, Texas will have possibly 1,000 carloads of turkeys in the North and East and these doubtless will serve to hold down the price, which Texas dealers are quoted as saying will be lower at Thanksgiving than in more than a decade.



DRIVE TO THE GAME IN COMFORT!

Road-tested Silvertowns, proven on the Silver Fleet, carry you there safely and cost no more than unproven tires!

ROADS crowded...maybe rough ...maybe slippery! You need tires you can count on...tires that ride comfortably and free your mind completely of the thought of possible trouble ahead. That's why you need Silvertowns...the only tires that have shown their ability to perform while the whole nation looked on.

They cost no more!...We refuse to be undersold. But what a difference there is in the way they perform! Come in and see us now!

30 x 3½	$4.98
29 x 4.40	$5.55