THE GREAT ROAD

—Margret Widdemyer.

Now roads, old roads—all of the roads are one.
Hoss-sos, dew-wet sweet in the warm sun.
Sweetheart, young heart, glad in the June-time days.
Love is the greatest thing in the world!
Path to your love lady mug-luck the trail of the women's feet.
Oh, may be over the world they go, with still eages to win and find
Laurel and gold to wear and hold, oi-ling to the vagrant wind!

High roads, low roads—all of the roads are fair.
Wide are the ways and paven now, and the call of the road is sweet, and never a toke today mug-luck the tread
