The funeral of Mr. Robert Brierly, former resident of this community, was conducted at the church and a description of my also came to him. He was connected with the Methodist Episcopal Bald Hill Church.
Mrs. Ingram, 74 as well as Ellisville is associated a great loss in the death of Mrs. Ella Mae Brierly. She was a faithful say, was a loving mother, a consistent member of our church and a good neighbor and friend to her; one who always had a pleasant word and a smile for everyone; one who always brought good cheer wherever she was, and one who will be greatly missed by her family and numerous friends. We extend our deepest sympathy to the bereaved family.

The Difference Between The Oculist And The Optometrist

One of the outstanding differences between oculists and Optometrists, as to their practice is concerned, lies in the use or the non-use of "drops" in the eye for measuring the powers of vision.

Oculists contend that tin order to make a correct examination, it is necessary to dilate the eyes and to relax the in.ernal eye muscle with a drug.

Optometrists, on the other hand, have proved that the use of drugs in the eyes is not only unnecessary, but scientific and often dangerous; more accurate results are obtained without their use.

Because most of the great Oculists of the world agree with this fact they have almost entirely discontinued the use of "drops."

Doctor Herman Snellen, one of the most famous Oculists and Opthalmic Surgeons, says the following about drugs: "Every application of mydriatics in the conjunctival sac may produce general disturbances which sometimes assume a most alarming character and may even cause the death of the patient."

An OPTOMETRIST will give your eyes a thorough and scientific examination without the use of "drops."

You are absolutely safe when you entrust the care of your eyes to an OPTOM-E-TRIST.

SEPTEMBER

Sweet fragrance of ripe fruit drifts on the air;
The crickets' chirrs is louder in the grass;
Bronzed branches of old trees have care
For summer green when frosty dawns shall pass.

Tall goldenrod maturely stand beside
Brown roads that wander wood-ward by old walls
Of stones that grayer grow; the maiden's pride
In her warm velvet splendor slowly falls.

Stout thistles bend their daggers rusty blades;
Ragged burdocks of a youthful glory tell;
Steeple bush and toadflax drowse in secret shades;
Blue sajlors talk of quests incredible.

September smiles at lofty scorn or praise
Too old she is, and young, for carting mouth.
But, walking down the woods and meadow ways—
Fringed autumn measure beauty by her touch.
