County Agent's Notes

(R. J. Matson, County Agent)

The crop of White Burley was considerable larger than estimated last year. The total Burley sales in Kentucky up to Feb. 1, 1931, were 233,147,924 pounds, averaging 815.8c as compared with 220,620,51 pounds averaging $22.11 for the same period last season.

Southern Burley sales in Tennessee, Virginia and North Carolina up to Feb 1 of this year totaled 79,251,815 pounds, averaging $18.07, as compared with 94,282,156 pounds averaging $20.10 for the same period last year.

These figures are worth considerable study and thought from every thinking farmer. County Agent R. J. Matson is urging farmers of Nicholas county to raise their own food so that they will be able to care for their own needs if prices do continue downward. His slogan is, "Plant and care for a good garden—Keep one or more cows, a good flock of hens for every family—and then the home need to supply a family of five with fresh vegetables and canned garden product for an entire year.

Those receiving these seed will have an opportunity to compete for prizes to be given at the Fair. Also fall on the best display of fresh vegetables—and the best display of canned vegetables grown from Red Cross seeds.

George Meyers, 30-year-old tramp, confined in jail at Detroit, Saturday confessed to officials that he killed six persons with an axe in Villisca, Iowa, on June 10, 1912. At that time Josiah Meyers had been arrested on a charge of burglary, an assumption later was received by officers, which led to Meyers being questioned on the 10-year-old murders. Meyers said he was paid $2,000 to kill a family by an unknown person.

Returned To Bath County To Face Forgery Charges

Sheriff Omer Rogers, of Bath county, was notified by prison officials of the Ohio State Reformatory, Mansfield, that Avery Burgess, formerly of Bath county, was subject to release from that institution, and requested Mr. Rogers to come and receive him. Burgess is wanted at Owingsville on six counts on forgery. It is alleged that Burgess forged the name of Clarence Saunders, Sharpsburg, to a check for $30 and that five other checks were forged in which the names of prominent persons of the Sharpsburg section were signed to the checks. Mr. Rogers received a waiver of requisition signed and acknowledged by Burgess at the Ohio institution.

Application was made to Gov. Flem D. Sampson for the extradition of Burgess last December, but the requisition was denied by the governor, giving as his reason that he will probably state would fare better if he should remain out of the state. However, the Citizens Bank of Sharpsburg, having paid off the checks, instituted action for the arrest of the alleged forger. Mr. Rogers left Saturday for the Ohio institution to return Burgess here where he will be held pending his trial at the May term of the Bath circuit court.

Before You Buy Paint

Examine the Formula. If no Formula is on the can, Beware! If there is, you can readily see whether you get "Paint" or "Cost Reducers"

How To Buy Paint And Get What You Pay For

Here is a list of Cost Reducers used in many Paints to help fill the can with something that costs less than Lead and Zinc:

Silica, Whiting, Barytes, China Clay—Cost Reducers

Also Silex-Aluminum Silicates, Calcium Carbonate, Barium Sulphate, Magnesium, etc.

Why pay Lead and Zinc prices for such stuff when you can buy it in the open market at 2c to 3c per pound?

Tons and tons of these cheap adulterants are found in many paints in varying amounts. 8, 9, 10 and 20 per cent and more and the people are paying Lead and Zinc prices for whatever amount, much or little, the paint contains. By whatever names such things may be designated on the labels, they are nothing more or less than Cost Reducers and are simply put in the paint to help fill the can.

The safe way to buy paint is to examine the formula and see what you get. See how much Lead and the kind of lead you get. See whether the lead is Pure Carbonate Lead, the best and highest price lead made. See how much Zinc the paint contains. Too much zinc causes paint to crack and scale. 20 per cent zinc ground into Pure Carbonate Lead is the right amount. See how much Cost Reducing stuff, Silica, Whiting, you are asked to pay for at lead and zinc prices.

Get a can of paint; compare the formula with Kurfee's—See the substitution of CHEAP ingredients for Carbonate Lead and Oxide of Zinc.

KURFEE'S FORMULA

Carbonate Lead	80%
Oxide of Zinc	20%
Lead Sulphate	None
Silica	None
Whiting	None
Barytes	None
TOTAL	100%

Seeks $26,175 Damages From Missing Lawyer

Suit for $26,175 damages was filed at Louisville by Herman Champ, of Louisville, against C. Houston McCreary, missing attorney who recently was indicted with Champ in connection with alleged forging of a government compensation check belonging to Dee Curry, negro of Winchester.

The petition charges that last February 4 Champ and McCreary were nearly 4 o'clock in the afternoon when they concluded a draft for $3,248 which Champ cashed at the suggestion made out to Curry at the suggestion and insistence of McCreary and the other man. The name of Curry, was written on the back of the draft, was declared genuine by McCreary, the suit claims, but later proved to be a forgery.

Champ seeks $1,175 actual damages and $20,000 punitive damages for alleged humiliation and embarrassment he claims he suffered when his bank account was closed because of the forged check. Champ, a real estate dealer, is a brother of Mrs. Curry.

Charles W. Clay Writes Of Carlisle 50 Years Ago

In renewing his subscription to The Mercury last week, Mr. Charles W. Clay, of Ardmore, Okla., formerly of Nicholas county, gives some interesting church history of Carlisle half a century ago.

"Fifty-three years ago Easter Sunday," he writes, "I started to the Methodist Sunday school in Carlisle. Police Judge L. F. Mann taught Mrs. Boyd's class that day. Jack Campbell, Jim Kennedy, Jim Howard, Harry Evans, Jim Boyd, my self and Lucien and myself were there that day as well as a number of others whose names I cannot recall. Until this day that was the best Sunday school ever held and the best personal teacher I have ever known.

"This was the ninth consecutive year of the Methodist Sunday school, as the records showed that it was organized in 1867 with James B. Campbell as secretary. I think Uncle Tom Kennedy was the first superintendent, and held the office until after the new church was built in 1878, for the first few years of my residence, and there my personal acquaintance with the Sunday school and Methodist church in Carlisle for ten years ceased.

"But those boys are still my warm friends, and to think of Carlisle and the community I must link of the boys at the Methodist Sunday school in '77 and '78. But where are they? Harry Kennedy, Jack Campbell and Joe Ockerman are the only ones I can recall that remain after 48 years. The Mercury was then located on the south side of the stairway, with Shep right of the stairway, and I think, Fleming. Harry Evans and, I think, Tom Talbot and Tom McIlvaine as learners."

ESCAPED CONVICT IS CAPTURED HERE

Jack Tincher, Who Escaped From Frankfort Reformatory Last November, Taken By Local Officers

Jack Tincher an escaped convict, was arrested here Saturday night by City Marshal Ernest Sims and Deputy Sheriff J. Clarke Leer and lodged in jail. Monday morning Tincher was returned to the Frankfort reformatory.

Tincher escaped from the Frankfort reformatory on November 18, 1930, by scaling the walls of the reformatory. He was received at the reformatory on December 3, 1929, to serve a three-year sentence imposed by the Bourbon circuit court on a charge of stealing turkeys.

Tincher has been working for a farmer in the Jacktown section for the past three months, he said, and told officers that he had been in Carlisle several times since his escape from the Frankfort institution. He was arrested at the home of a friend in the section where he had been working.

Tincher had served one and two-year sentence in the Frankfort reformatory from Bath county on a charge of stealing chickens. He has relatives in this county.

On Monday it will be decided if the reformatory officers here receive a reward for the capture and description, offering $100 reward for his

Scoutmaster Tells Of Joy Of Working and Teaching Boys

I have had a good many hobbies in my life, but I have found nothing so interesting or satisfactory as scouting as scouting. The time devoted to this which some might term a, is not sacrifice at all, but rather an indulgence in an occupation which brings us health, inspiration and happiness. It also develops respect much joy, wins the confidence and love of youthful minds and helps to keep us young.

Some of the best years I have been associated with the Carlisle Ky., Scoutmaster of Troop 55, Carlisle Ky., which now numbers 40 boys. The purpose of Scout Leaders is to bring consciously before the minds the highest ideals of citizenship, to impress upon them the advantages of being unselfish; to teach them how to equip themselves to cope successfully with difficulties and emergencies, large and small, that may confront them in their day to day throughout their lives; to increase their love of the outdoors and make them thirst for knowledge and the wonders and beauties of nature, and to train their minds along the lines of right thinking and doing as exemplified by the scout oath. No Scout Leader's task is not a super-human one as it might appear. Boys naturally love adventure and exploration and scouting opens to them new and delightful fields, where their drong imagination may roam and where new marvels are exhibited to them and brought within the scope of their understanding. The Scoutmaster does not need to know everything himself—he can learn with the boys and Scout Leaders at the same time. All he needs is to have a sympathetic understanding of their youthful minds, a desire to lead a helping hand to the next generation, and a determination not to be discouraged if difficulties present themselves. The Scout Leader expects no reward, but nevertheless his dividends are large. Here you stood up and had a crowd of boys shout and cheer you for what you did or said or stood or stop? Have you had them flock around you with questions of all sort and spun, with bright eyes and shining faces, and lastly have you had one standing humble before you with drooping head and tears held back? If not, become a Scout Leader and learn the satisfaction that comes from your association with a bunch of live American boys and the knowledge that you may have helped one of them to become a better and more useful citizen in every way.

FULL TIME HEALTH PROGRAM PROPOSED

Board Of Health Offers County Health Officer And Public Health Nurse

COST TO COUNTY $500

At the regular April meeting of the Nicholas fiscal court Tuesday, a proposition was submitted to the court by the State Board of Health for the establishment of a full time health service in Nicholas county.

The health service would consist of a health officer, a physician who would devote his entire time to the work, and a public health nurse, who would also devote her full time. The estimated cost of maintaining the service would be $7,000 per year, of which the county would have to pay but $500, the remaining $6,500 being paid out of federal and state funds. At the present time the fiscal court is paying $300 per year salary on a part time health officer.
