HEADACHES

Since headaches are more often caused from a strain in the muscles of the eyes should have careful study in every case of persistent headache. Incorrect eyestrain is very common in eyes with errors of refraction in which a good vision is no ground whatever for thinking a glass is not needed. Dizziness is not a very common cause of headache is not a very reliable guide.

Severity of headache does not depend on the severity of the refractive error. It depends on the efforts, usually quite unconscious, made by the patient to correct it.

Nothing short of the harmless therapeutic test "wearing glasses" will positively prove or disprove whether or not the headaches are caused by eyestrain.

DR. A. T. GARDNER, OPTOMETRIST CARLISLE, KY.

SOMEWHERE IN NICHOLAS

(By J. W. Rogers)

Miss Jennie Norvell is no more. It is with special sadness we note her departure from this life. We knew her when a student in the old Kentucky Normal School in Carlisle and we met her a few times in later life. We are glad to know that she made the estimable character, and led the noble life, so beautifully and clearly depicted in her school girl life.

Headquarters is a place we know, to which we often long to go; of note for poetry, story and song, fame on good friends and go along.

Dr. Funkhouser's recent explorations in parts of Kentucky, and reports of same are becoming interesting and valuable. We hope he will explore the little known Beaver Bapcat Cave in Harrison county, not far from the Nicholas county border. It is too wonderful to be so little known. Possessing, as it does, many rooms or avenues, of varying winding ways of several hundred feet, queer shaped, huge stones, such as the "Devil's Coffin Lid," and many ways, etc., a visit through this cave, can not fail to give the visitor a world of pleasure, and the school of thirty-eight pupils through that cave a few years ago, spending two hours in study of the many natural curiosities we were able to observe.

A little story. A preacher of the gospel recently visited a Christian (?) family. As it was his custom to read from the Bible and pray in such homes, he called for the family Bible. Under difficulties and embarrassment, the lady called Bible. A search was instituted and handed it to the preacher. As he opened it, a pack of cards fell on the floor. "For the love of Mike!" exclaimed the lady, "where have the ivy glasses that I haven't seen for the last five years."

LITTLE ROCK

Please allow me to inform the Bald Hill writer that one resident, at least, of this place was very much interested in his letter. We have that curiosity, and by no means ashamed of the fact that his curiosity was gratified, we spent there, and always thought of as a pleasant visit. We recall with delight, the church, its singers and the Sunday school, which we have often attended. Many friends have we there whom we have learned to love and cherish, and whose welfare we have ever been ready to aid. Yes, we were interested in every phase of the subject.

THE MORNING GLORY

Was it worth while to paint so fair
Thy every leaf—to vein with faultless art
Each petal, taking the boon light and air
Of summer so to bear?

To bring thy beauty into perfect
flower,
Then, like a passing fragrance or a smile,
Vanish away, beyond recovery's
power—
Was it, frail bloom, worth while? . . .

"In its first radiance I have seen Thy sunt—why tarry then till comes the night?
I go my way, content that I have been Part of the morning light!"

Subject: "If Christians Were Christians"—and if so: Would there be any churches? Would Carlisle have one church? Would there be any crowds? Would there be denominations? Would we have to have police, laws, judges, courts, etc? If we can get a hundred of our people to hear this message, something will take place and change some things. The pastor and choir expect to render a "Soul Winning Service" just before the sermon.

This is a friendly church. A welcome for all always. We are here to serve.
