THE TRAGEDY OF A MISTAKE

No tragedy in years has been more startling than the one reported recently from Lexington. The gruesome event were blotted when attendants in the eye clinic applied a powerful acid into their eyes by mistake.

The mistake—those words are what makes this tragedy especially poignant, and gives to imaginative youngsters, going to the clinic to have their eyes examined, something to be relieved of defects that had hampered their sight—suddenly, horrifyingly made blind for life.

You can take your eyes to the care of an Optometrist with absolute safety, for they always examine eyes without the use of "drops" of any kind whatsoever, a practice that they unanimously, unscientific and dangerous.
