Protect Your Property Against Loss from Windstorms

Millions of dollars of insurance money poured into southern Illinois and Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama, to help rebuild the thousands of homes and business structures destroyed by the March 18, 1925, tornado—yet less than one-fourth of the property destroyed was insured.

No property owner, no mortgage holder, can afford to take a chance without adequate protection against windstorms and tornadoes. The wind strikes where, No state and no section is immune. The threat is surprisingly low.
